MORE Than M

As Mr. Gordon Hill would proudly state, "Let the sun shine in the halls of M.V. High."

"Left, right, lett," the Marching Majors perfect their intricate forms.

"All of us will be sure to remember our trip to Glen Echo and the forbidden rides on the coaster dip. At last we are Seniors! Only forty-five are left. We are all in one room and Miss Thompson is our advisor. Remember, 'ambition has no rest.'" These were recollections from the first graduating class. The year was 1938. It is now 1988. Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW! A student body which now consists of 1600 unique individuals. This potpourri included those with multiple abilities, thoughts, and feelings; yet, each one of us was drawn into a homogeneous family. This family constituted Mount Vernon High School. Within each of us there was a story to be told. This was what one may have failed to see. It was the story of an English as a Second Language student who strove to perfect his/her English, of an injured athlete's perseverance to continue, or of a student's arduous work to make that passing grade. It was the story of us. It was the action behind the scenes.

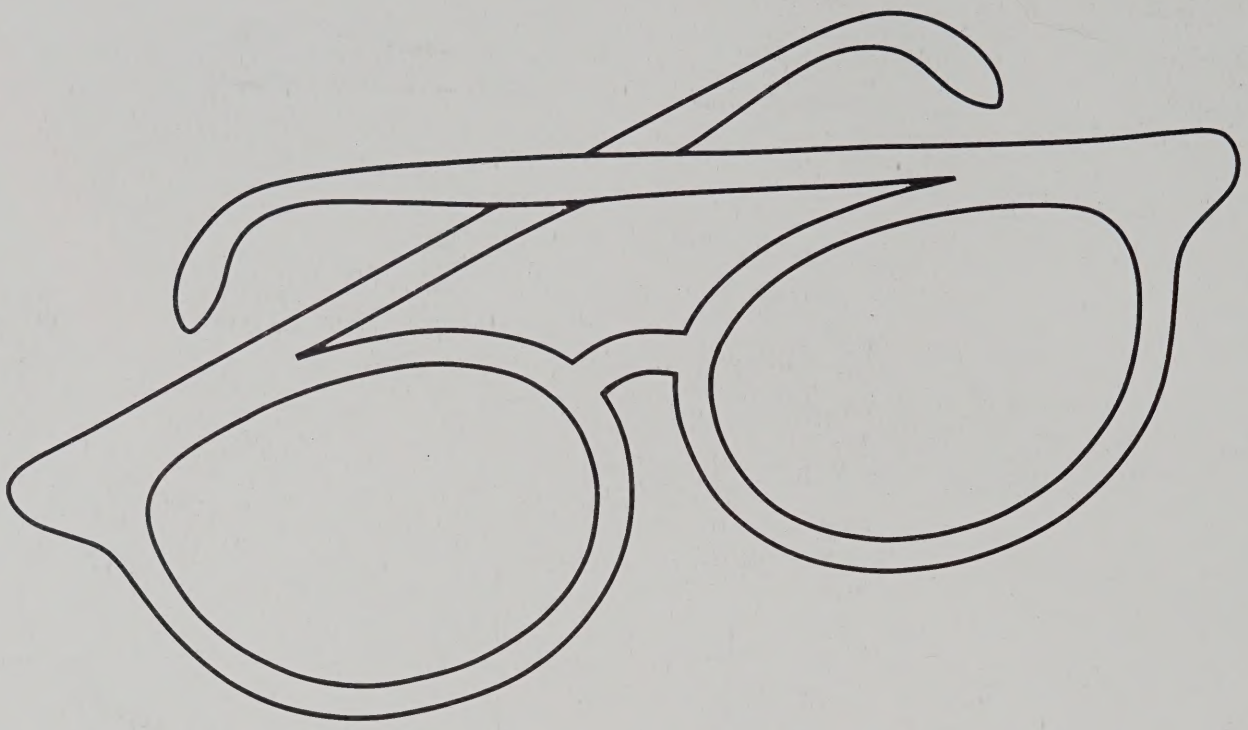
Believing

Coach Jim Waller means business as he instructs the defensive secondary.

What force was behind that which was revealed to the human eye? The STUDENTS produced the action. Whether it was an entertaining ten-minute marching band show, a 61-yard interception that was returned for a touchdown, a powerful production of "Godspell," or the campaign against drunk driving by SADD, we made it happen. Each one of us became a leader and brought forth the best of ourselves for the benefit of the school and the community. There were oceans of smiles from those who had gone the extra step and accomplished it. What was "it"? "It" was the impossible made possible, the improbable made probable, the unexpected-EXPECTED!

With a touch of hairspray, Rhonda Walton puts an extra hold on this style.



Student Life

Could it be a summer sunset or time spent with friends?

Could it be a new fashion fancy that set a trend?

What made us happy, the students of M.V., undoubtedly it was the life that one could see.

The friendships will last forever, the truth that we are together.

Through thick and thin our spirit was there, the seniors and the Pep Jug, victory in the air.

When the schoolwork was done, it was time for weekend fun.

It was a night on the town, a date with that "significant other," or a movie flic, take your pick.

It was the pride put into our work that added that extra perk.

We appreciate what we were taught, the knowledge that we sought.

With the time that was spent, we all wondered where it went.

Storybook

Classes spent weeks, preparing themselves for the Homecoming festivities. The theme was storybook episodes. Majors of the Corn was the freshman theme.

A parody of the Smurfs proved to be a winner for the sophomores. The Smurfs had to rescue Smurfette from the evil Gargamel in order to win the big game. The well rehearsed skit won first place.

The juniors chose the Wizard of Oz as their theme. In a twist from the original story, the star football player of the football team was knocked out during the first half of a critical game and was carried off to Majorland. After he had met the scarecrow, the tinman, and the lion and had killed the wicked witch, he returned to the game and discovered that he had saved the game for his team.

The seniors had the honor of presenting the final skit. The class of '88 proved to be full of spirit. Presented as an episode of "Majorpiece Theater," "Robin Hood and His Merry Majors" provided much entertainment. The major dilemma for Robin and his Merry Majors was executing a daring rescue of Maid Marion from the menacing Hayfield Hawks. Robin succeeded in his competition with the Hawks and liberated Maid Marion. In a unique cameo role, Mr. John Nottingham brought down the house as the sheriff.

Homecoming

The moment that everyone had been waiting for arrived - the Homecoming football game. The Majors played and defeated the Hayfield Hawks, whose spirit was nothing compared to Mount Vernon.

The crowd awaited the final decision of who the next king and queen would be. Then it was heard; Katy Symms and Jimmy Whalen. Tracy Thomas, last year's homecoming queen, crowned

Katy and gave her a big hug. Then all of the princesses got into their appropriate Corvette or Mercedes, and were driven around the field for all to see. The ladies were escorted out of the cars and back to the stands where they awaited hugs and kisses from their friends and family. Everyone was excited about the winners and the crowning set the mood for the second half.

The Homecoming crowning was a success for all who participated.

Spirit

Homecoming-what is it? Homecoming is the time for the alumni to come back to MV to spend some time with others who have graduated and to reacquaint themselves with those underclassmen who the previous seniors had left behind. Homecoming is also the time for parents: those who have graduated from MV and those who have not. Parents and older alumni come to relive past memories that they have had. Homecoming reminds them of the skits and floats that they worked on when they went to high school. Homecoming lets the older persons experience the joy and fun of being young by watching their children and other teenagers enjoying themselves. One could almost bet a good number of parents left the Homecoming game with a tear in their eye. And what does homecoming mean to the youth? It is a time for them to spend time with friends for possibly the last time. They are living memories that will stick with them for the rest of their live. This is especially true for seniors, for these really are the best of times.

Summer reflected in the eyes of Carl Rush...

Breaking from the Grind

Summer (sum'er) n. The warmest season of the year, following spring and preceding autumn. Yes, the time had finally come; the last day of school and summer had begun. Some students had plans for summer school or other educational activities, but most thought purely of sun and fun. Some headed for the beach, others for the local pool or just a backyard lounge. Soaking up the sun's rays, hoping for that "Coppertone tan" that only the girl on the billboard can achieve, may be the first thought of summer, but let's not forget our friends who worked for these magnificent months. Whether for a car, college, stereo, or just pocket money, jobs were a main concern for many students. One of the most popular occupations was lifeguarding. At almost every pool there was a student lifeguard protecting mankind from the dangerous situations of the public pool. Jobs, whatever they were, always prove to be an educational experience and continue to be a MAJOR part of Mount Vernon's Verano.

One Last Look

The Summer of 87

As the warmest season of the year came to an end, and all the nautical fun and dark tans faded, thoughts of school came. "Mead" replaced "Hawaiian Tropic" and blackboards replaced Boogie Boards in the minds of students. Only memories remained and for most, these memories were good ones. The summer of '87 brought knowledge and age, for everyone was now one year older. The freshmen were no longer in junior high and now had to face the day to day life of Mount Vernon. The Sophomores were just glad they weren't freshmen anymore. Juniors took on new responsibilities with homecoming, prom, and PSAT's. Finally, the Seniors were on top, now facing that final SAT, applying to colleges, and graduation in June. June, a new summer, we can only wonder what the summer of 1988 will bring.

Godspell

Godspell, this year's musical, was presented in the fall instead of the spring. This play is a version of Jesus Christ's mission to the world, but instead of taking place in the Old World, this story takes place in America.

In the play, the characters play Jesus's disciples and the cast acts out skits from the Bible and adds a touch of their own feelings and thoughts to the story.

Eric Weis, who played Jesus, acted his role with reverence and finesse.

The rest of the cast: Christie Scanlin, Patrick Price, Lauren Montgomery, John Schultz, Carrie Jansen, Julie Zimmer, Ann Bergsagel, Eric Johnson, Clint Marsh, and Doug Minson gave life and spontinaety to this emotional musical.

The singing in the play was excellent with solos from Christie Scanlin and Eric Weis, which kept the audience very attentive. The play received many rave reviews and the cast had both an exciting and educational time doing the play.

John Schultz hugs his teddy bear and asks for forgiveness.

Christie Scanlin speaks on the profound things that Socrates said.

Transportation in Style

It appeared that more students at Mount Vernon drove rather than waited for the 'Big Cheese' to bring them to school. Even though most students felt low riding the bus after their second year, it seemed that more students drove this year than in those past. A lot of students owned cars and others would depend on them to get to school on time.

Not all students had the classy sports cars, there were an abundance of the old Family Trucksters and Blue Bombers also. The cars of all types found their place in the crowded parking lot and provided something to look at out the window during class. No matter what students drove this year, or how they got to and from school, everyone knew that transportation was only one piece of life that allowed the sun to shine in the halls of MV high.

Mr. Mount Vernon

Mr. Mount Vernon was the hit of the year. There were many great performances by six of the schools most popular individuals. Eric Johnson told the audience about his life with his little brother and gave us some examples of what his job working at the theater was like. Jim Rymiszewski sang a song about eating a peanut and dying. Unfortunately he was kicked off before he could finish. Todd Harris played the guitar giving us his rendition of "Stairway to Heaven," by Led Zepplin. Steve Thomas, did a rap with some of his closest friends backing him up. Mike Hill lip-synced the Billy Idol song, "Mony, Mony."

The biggest hit of the evening though was Afshin Mobasher. At the begining of the show he came out on stage with two girls accompanying him and showing his style. For his performance, Afshin belly danced for everyone. The crowd was hollering for more as he left the stage. Afshin came in first place and won a 13 inch color TV set which he said, "works great."

Money Matters

Working Students

Learning more and more about the engine, autoshop is the beginning to a mechanics career.

Working was a very important part of many Mount Vernon students' lives this past year. There was always a need for money to buy food, shelter, clothing, or a car. Many employers in the area were more than happy to hire high school students because of their ability and willingness to do a good job.

In most cases it is not the pure enjoyment of being on the job that motivates them to apply. It's the money! No student can turn down the offer for money, whether to save for the car or college, or for dates, gas, and other necessities. Nothing is free anymore and student employees are a more common sight every year.

Expressions

Expressions of moods are a key event in the life of MV students. When someone wears a smile it brightens someone else's day. On the other hand, when a frown appears from one of the bunch it can send someone else's day into depression also. Luckily, most MV students are always in a good mood; if not there are always friends to lift them up.

"What's wrong?" How did they know something was wrong. Whether we like or not, the face is the window to our feelings. Through these facial expressions, students of Mount Vernon communicated with friends, teachers, and certain paperwork.

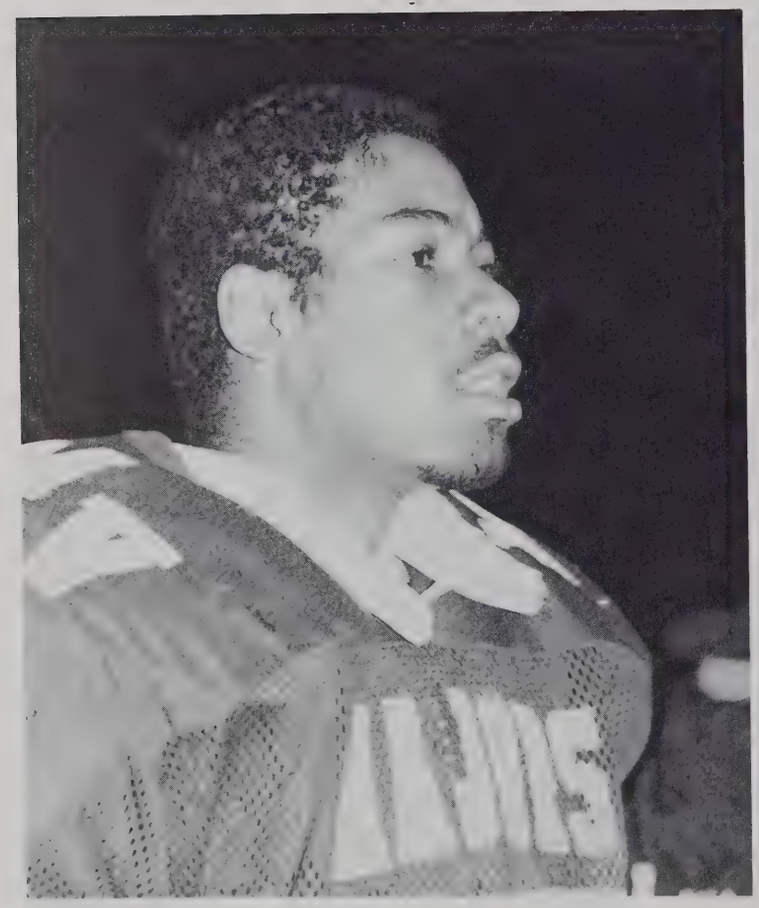
The Road Less Traveled

Character Prevails

A sign hung in the football locker room that read: There are two roads to follow- that of humiliation, and that of character. The Mount Vernon varsity football team definitely chose that of character. No one except the players know what it takes to put the MVs on their shoulders. Co-captain Shane Scott said that "all of the players stuck together throughout the whole year. No one gave up and everyone was proud to wear the MV jersey."

The role of the individual was downplayed during the season. Team unity during trying times accounted for the strong season finish. No one marched onto the field, hand in hand, to lose. The program started with high goals in mind, but the uncontrollable overcame them, such as the rash of season-ending and performance-hampering injuries and the underestimation of the murderous schedule that the Majors faced.

By holding up under adverse conditions the Majors finished second in the Gunston District. Defensive and offensive lineman David Weller reflected upon the season as "a showing of the team's character."



Expressionless with unbelief, Andre Jewell looks on as the referees try to defend their decision.

"Hold him still!" growls Shane Scott to Vaughn Jackson as Hayfield's #14 tries to fall.

Sacrifice

No Regrets

Young men gave up their summers to practice twice a day in the grueling hot sun to represent Mount Vernon High School. No player ended the season with a feeling of humiliation. No one called it quits. In the words of coach Bruce Patrick, "The entire program never gave up. Everyone showed the true make up of the program and the winners that they really are."

Unity must be recognized as the basis for the success of the team. There was a core group of students who came out and supported the team through thick and thin. Perhaps next year with more support from the student body, the team will find the moral support that they need during a mid-season crisis and the fact will show that the students take as much pride in the team as the team members do in themselves.

Filled With Energy

Just when you thought it was all lost, you gave the last bit of effort left in your soul. From nowhere, off to the side of the event, you heard a voice both encouraging in tone and filled with energy. "Come on you can do it!" Just knowing someone was behind you and cared, filled your body with an incredible surge of adrenalin. Before you knew it the score was in your favor. Then all of a sudden you had won. This voice that drives the athletes here at Mount Vernon High is that of the cheerleader, a person dedicated to his or her school and helping individuals achieve their goals. Their uplifting spirit has been known to carry a team or individual farther than they thought possible; to their limit and beyond. You can always count on a Varsity Cheerleader; their positive attitude and spirit never dies and drives us all.

A Bright Future

The Boys J.V. Football Team

The J.V. football team had a very productive season. They showed lots of spirit and improvement. With promising tenth graders and the leadership and experience of the juniors, the J.V. team had a great year. Led by quarter back Paul Jakaitis, these junior varsity Majors really showed that the future of Mount Vernon football is in good hands. We can expect many more winning seasons at the Varsity level. Outstanding performances were put in throughout the season by Shane Harris, Marcus Newman, John Brooks, Paul Miklovic, Johnathan Jackson, Joe Radun, Mel Morgan and Paul Jakaitis.

Although the team did not have a winning season, they showed great potential. The players listed above played both J.V. and back up for the Varsity team. A few of them found lots of playing time at the Varsity level. The Junior Varsity Majors came out 4-4 overall, and 2-2 in the Gunston district. Thanks to Randy Slack and Mark Bendorf for a great coaching job.

Behind The Voices

Although cheerleading is not considered a sport, it should be. What the crowd sees is jumping, screaming, and yelling, but cheerleading requires a great deal of skill and coordination. It takes a lot of hard work and practice to be a good cheerleader. These girls began practicing together last April and attended an intensive cheerleading camp during the summer. In addition, while everyone else was sleeping until noon, the cheerleaders had manditory morning practices during the summer.

Even though, the bleachers weren't crowded, the J.V. squad kept up their spirit and enthusiasm. The J.V. squad represented the school well.

Baby Majors

On The Rise

The freshman football team was very big this year. Head coach Alex Callas, assisted by Stan Slack, Rex Reilley, Jim Jones, and the five team captains Stephen Weller, Jim Rymiszewski, John Harris, Torrance Stallings, and Tony Branch, lead the team to a nearly perfect record. High team speed enabled the MV frosh to run for over 300 yards every game.

Aside from their bond as a team, these freshmen got along with each other outside of football, according to Coach Callas. "With a freshman team you never know what you are going to have." As it turned out, they were an excellent group of young men with a lot of athletic ability.

The frosh team stomped almost all of their opponents. Shutting out rival West Potomac and crushing Hayfield for the Gunston District title highlighted the season. The single loss to Lee, only a one point difference, taught the baby Majors a good lesson: they have to work hard all of the time in order to win.

This year's freshman team had its work cut out. A successful season of 6-1 and mounting over 300 yards every game was only the beginning for the baby Majors.

Spirited Beginners

The Girl's Freshman Cheerleaders

Many Freshmen showed their spirit by trying out for the Freshman cheerleading squad. The long hard practices and nerve-racking tryouts separated the women from the girls. To make the squad you had to be very dedicated and be physically and mentally fit. The rigorous and disciplined workouts were taxing on the girls throughout the season, and only the most talented and enthusiastic survived the dreaded cuts—No wimps allowed here! Their spirited style and vivacious cheering was enjoyed by both the Freshman teams and the spectators alike. The Freshman squad helped pull their team through some very tight games. Without a doubt, their cheerleading prowess showed up in the Freshman football team's near perfect record. Leading the squad were co-captains Karen Manzo and Sandi Baughman.

Field Hockey Madness.

Field hockey, throughout the years, has not gained the popularity of some sports; however, this year was different. The fans really came out and supported the Lady Majors. This year the fans found out that field hockey is not a "sissy" sport; players often walked away with several cuts and bruises. As the hockey teams improve, larger crowds of fans are sure to flock to their games.

The Lady Majors became the first team in the Gunston District to go into overtime with West Potomac, the 1987 Northern Region champions. Even though our team lost, the girls played an exciting game that had the crowd biting its nails. The Varsity had an outstanding season.

The Junior Varsity should also be proud of it's record. Even though, they only won two games, they provided more than respectable competition to the teams they played.

Next year the Gunston District had better watch out for the Lady Majors because they are going to be a really tough team.

Hard Work Pays Off

Girls Team Goes To Regionals

Beginning at 2:45 the cross country team paid the price. Whether it be speed work and hills or just distance work for the day this price that they paid went on for a minimum of one hour and 45 minutes or until 4:30. In the end this time that they put forth toward their sport paid off. The girls, by placing third in districts, qualified, as a team, to participate in regionals. Also, the guys overwhelmed West Po to make their season complete. "It was an enjoyable season," states Bobby Jesswein, "with a great coach that made all the good times possible."

Pushing for the finish line, Amy Wiley gives all she has left.

Trying to better himself, Bobby Jesswein rounds the corner.

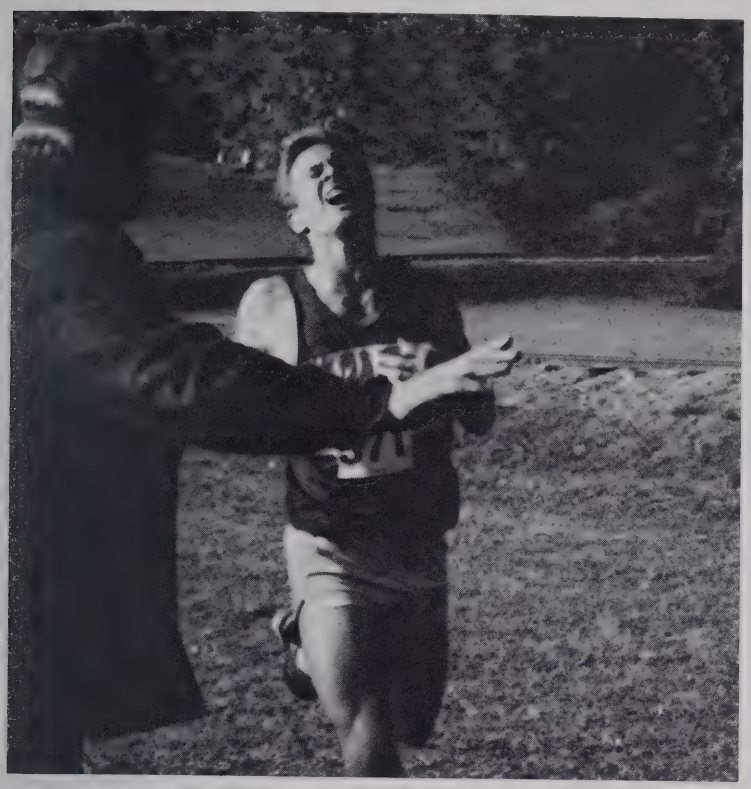
Putting forth all he's got, Bobby Jesswein gains a spot at Regionals.



Finishing with flying colors, Greg Campbell crosses the line of relief.

Pushing each other on to victory, Kim Tillson and Jenny Wee show their team unity in action.

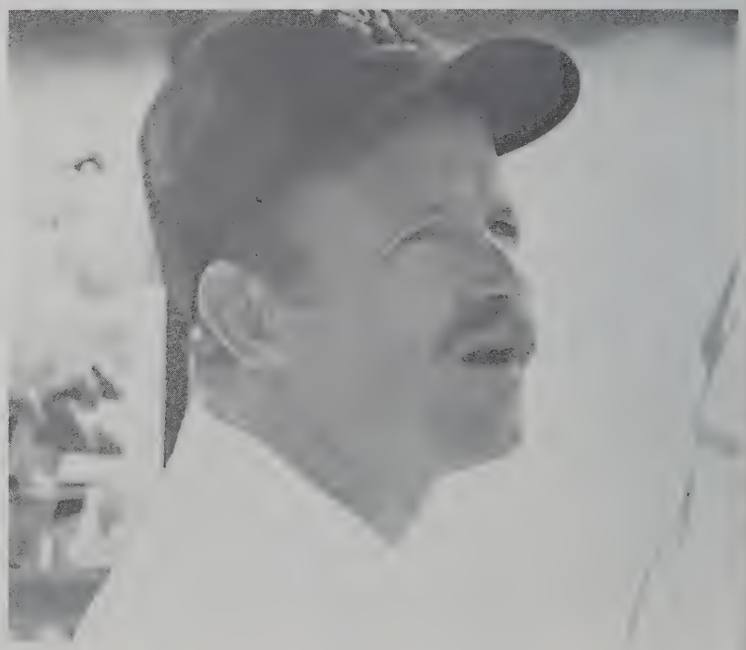
Watch The Birdie Fly . . .
. . . And Chase It

The golf season had a roller coaster year. In the eloquence of coach Brian Taylor "we lacked consistency," but the team had good potential. Captain Steve Clary lead the team through the high-points such as the out-stroking of West Potomac by one—a glorious victory over a competitive rival, as well as the low-points. There was a first for the Major golfers. Unfortunately it was not a memory to remember for the Majors. They lost to the Edison Eagles for the first time in the history of Gunston District Golf. Despite the inconsistency, captain Steve Clary was a second year district medalist and freshman Chad Blair qualified third in regional competition.

The athletic ability of the golf team contained unlimited destinies. The technique involved in golf requires precise timing and coordination. These people were the cream of the crop when it came down to the seemingly never-ending chase of a small white ball. Golf is not an easy sport in which to be successful because one small mistake can determine the winner and the loser as it did against West Potomac.

Only five of the fourteen golfers will not return for next season and with powerhouses like Chad Blair, Robert Kelly, and Mark Avery the golfers of the mighty fine season of 1988-1989 are bound to make the sun radiate with blinding brightness in the talent-filled hallways of M. V. High.

"Why me?" Coach Taylor asks as an uncontrolled golfball lands on his car.



Trying to give the ball the best lie, Steve Clary lines the ball up with the hole.

"Maybe if I hold my breath I'll get my way with that ball," reasons Steve Clary.

With complete concentration, Craig Forgash taps the ball towards the hole.

The Girl's Varsity Tennis Team

The girls tennis team had a improved season.

Considering that they lost 4 of the top 6 players, they made a good showing with such a young team. Kim Patrick and Gina Bergeron were the only returning varsity players. Some of the ups and downs of the season were: Kim Cotter's tremendous comeback to win when she was down 7-2 against Edison and the team's dissapointing loss to Hayfield. Coach Penny Buck specified several outstanding performances. Kim Cotter is recognized for her tenacity and spirit which allowed her to win several matches. She played number 1 and 2 positions throughout the year. Kim Patrick showed lots of talent and leadership. She showed much skill playing the 1 and 2 spots on the team. Gina Bergeron's courage and leadership and determination helped her win several underdog matches. Karen Smith has good potential and basics. Coach Buck said "I am really looking forward to next season."

Piecing It Together

Part By Part

The basketball season for the varsity team was filled with high points. Being nearly undefeated in all three parts of the season- the pre-Christmas games, the Christmas tournament, and the District Tournament- secured the team's advancement to Regionals.

With constant pressure on the specific parts of the game and playing air-free basketball, Coach Don McCool and the players created a team synonymous with the type of basketball that they try to build each year. In ten years, Mt. Vernon's overall record was 199-39. This established expectations for the Majors.

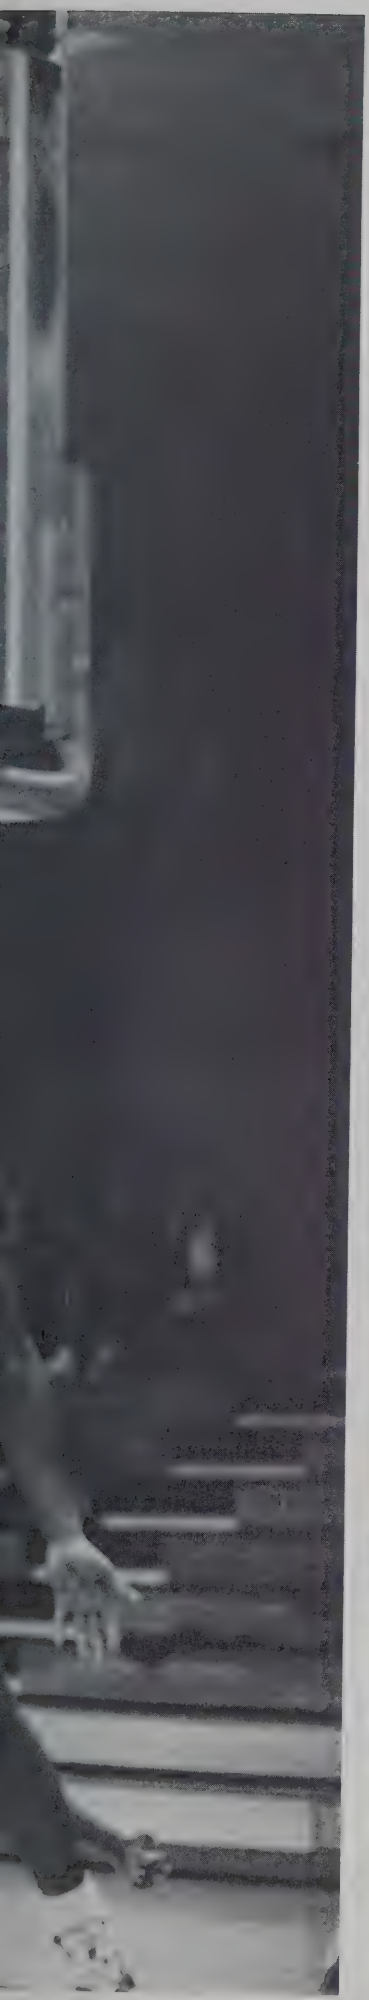
According to Coach McCool, the only game that the Majors lost, disregarding the score, was the first game against Lake Braddock.

Ranking in the top ten of the Metro area for most of the season and being spotlighted as the team of the week on Channel 9's Fastbreak, added to the sense of accomplishment during the season.

Mount Vernon is always proud of the basketball team; the support from the fans was an important factor in the success of the team. Excellent coaching and talented players were a magnet for the community and the student body. The seniors showed exceptional enthusiasm with the slogan "all the way to State with the Class of '88."

Keeping his cool, Curt Robinson knows where the ball is going.

Herndon cannot keep Norrin Braxton's feet on the floor.



Everything moves with the MV basketball team.

The visiting crowd cannot believe the coordination between David Taylor and Richie Treger.

The players wait in awe as Barry Smith shoots with confidence.

"Mine, mine, mine!" says Barry Smith, leaving his adversary in tears.

Too Hot To Handle

1988 Northern Region Champs!

An 89-72 win over West Potomac clinched the District Title for the Mt. Vernon Varsity Basketball team. This victory gave the Majors the number one seed from the Gunston District into the Regional Tournament and put them into a tough bracket. By knocking out W.T. Woodson and Washington and Lee, the Majors earned their spot in the Regional semi-finals against a talented Lake Braddock team. As the underdogs, it was a highly emotional game for the Majors. The 51-48 victory in overtime over Lake Braddock became the highlight of the season.

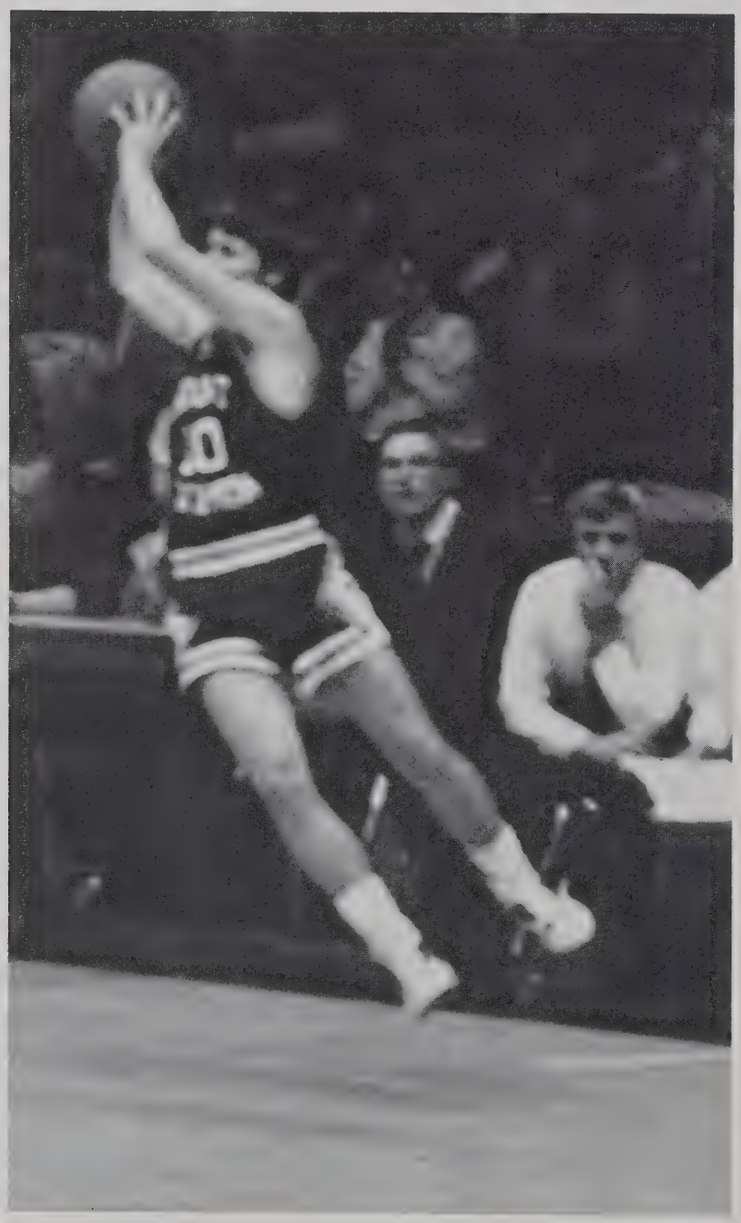
Mount Vernon met district rival Lee for the third time this season in the championship of the Regional Tournament. By winning the Regional Title, the Majors were put against a seemingly unbeatable team in the State Tournament. Indian River not only possessed power and a record of only one loss in two years, but also the number one ranked high school basketball player in the nation. "He's one of the best I've ever seen at this age level, and I've played against some of the best," said Coach Don McCool.

Indian River and Alonzo Mourning proved to be too much to overcome. The Majors lost 50-69. Coach McCool described the season as "a tribute to the players as my last year of coaching at Mount Vernon." He continued, "I was fortunate to coach, and going to the State Tournament was a thrill for us. We were not as talented as some of the other teams in the State Tournament. The Majors went farther than I ever thought they would. It was a great way for me to bow out."

In his twenty-seven years of coaching, Coach McCool's overall record of wins and losses was 431-130. Within the 431 wins were ten District Titles, seven Regional Championships, and two State Tournament victories.

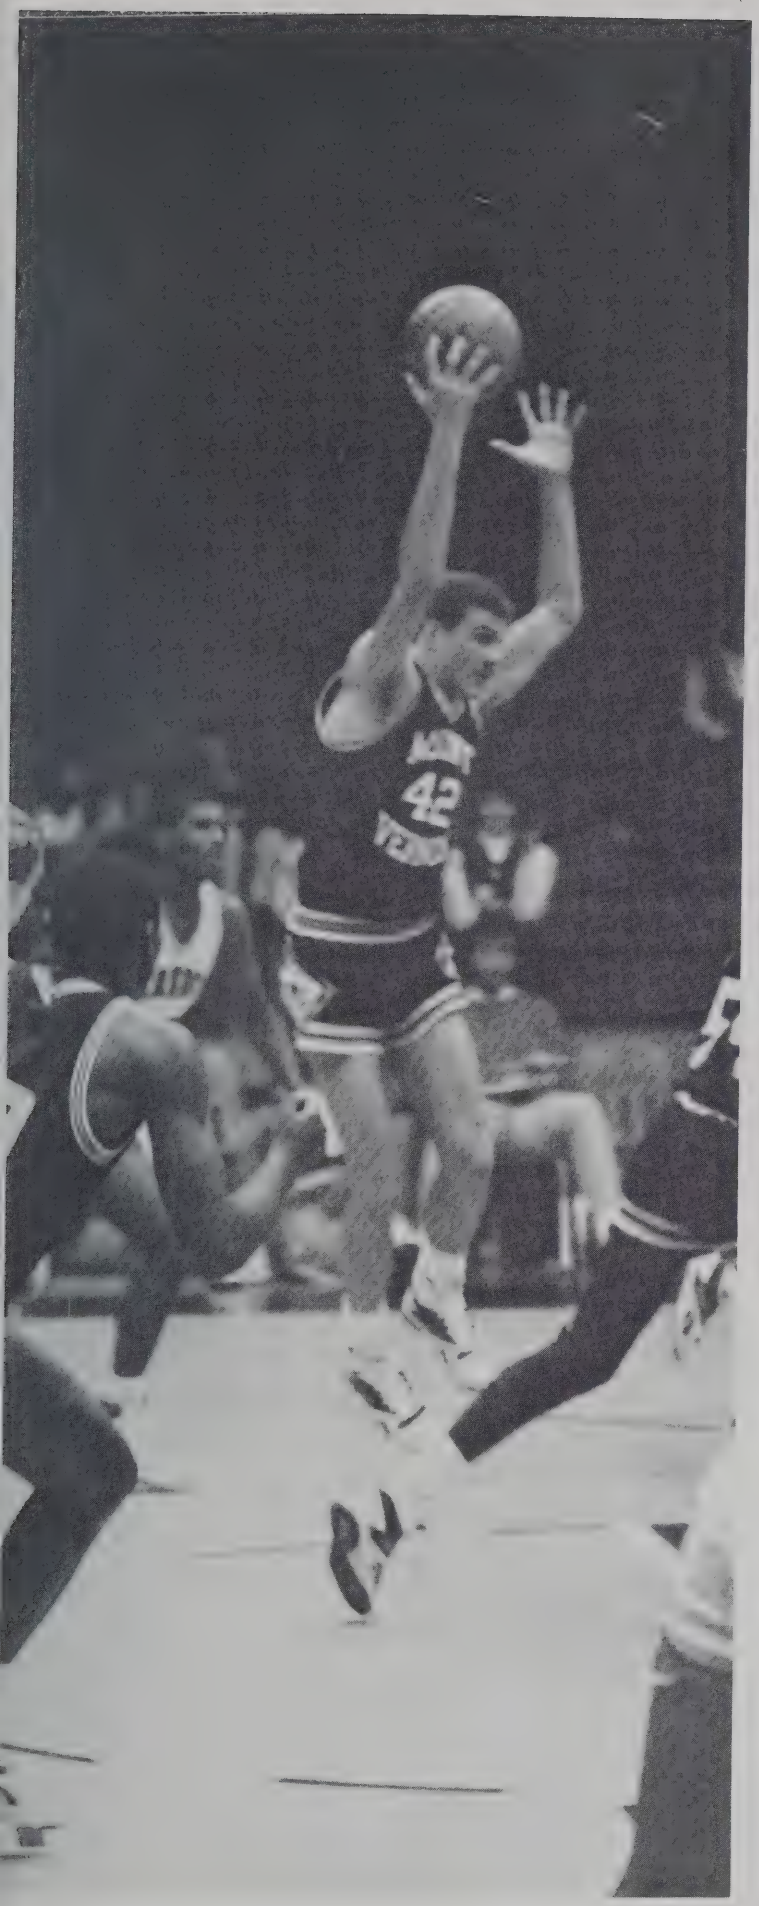
During ten years of coaching at Mount Vernon, Coach McCool's overall record was 210 wins and 42 losses, with five District Titles, three Regional Championships, and one State Tournament Championship.

One fan predicted that "Coach McCool's inspiration to the basketball program at Mount Vernon will be missed greatly."



"Here take it! There's only three seconds left," yells Richie to his teammate.

"Will it go in? Everyone cross your fingers . . ."



"Yeah buddy, it's mine! Let's hurry guys; milkshakes are on me!"

Deciding on his next move, Barry tries to outsmart the enemy.

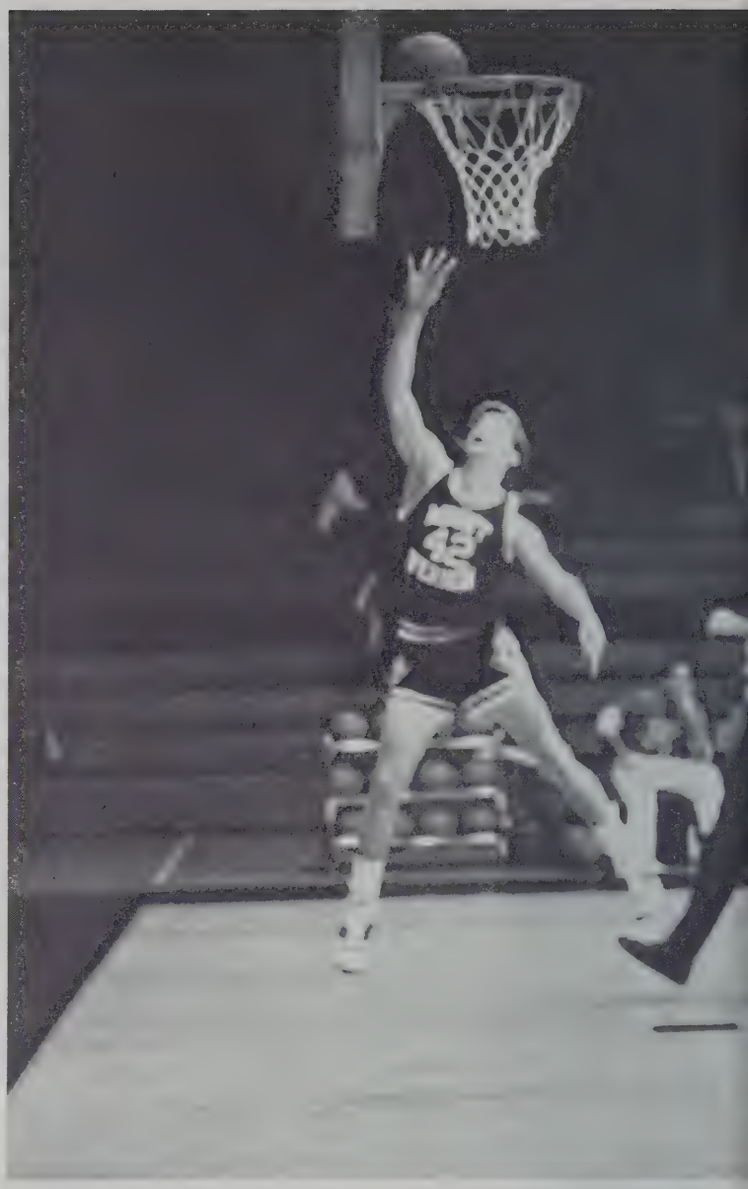
Success And Potential

Shooting Hoop

This year's Junior Varsity Basketball team had a successful season finishing second in the district. They had an exciting season with some very close games. The season started with a victory of 82-80 over rival West Potomac. The starters this year were Craig Dell, Eric Toller, Jerome Bryant, Tony Branch, and Jamie Smith. Led by these starters, the J.V. Majors entered the district tournament in 3rd place with a record of 4 and 4. The team did well in the tournament placing 2nd. All worked hard to make this season a successful one and it definitely showed.

During a time out, Coach Metress tells the team his new game plan.

Offense takes over as Jamie Smith dribbles down the court for a basket.



Everyone, even the referee, looks with astonishment at Craig Dell's unique style of scoring.

The players, taking a time out, listen to their coaches for what they should do next.

Tom Hickey fakes out the defense with his tricky shot from behind the basket.

Jumping high, Eric Toler scores another two points for the Majors.

A Winning Season

Frosh Do It Right

The freshman basketball team had a super season. They proved to be a promising, strong, active team due to their many wins. After starting off with three losses, they came back to win the next five consecutive games.

Much of their success was attributed to the new coach, Eric Brent. His ideas and techniques motivated the team. "I'm very satisfied with this year's performance," stated Coach Brent. He felt that the team improved as the year progressed.

Led by captains Kevin Besemer and Mike Carter, the freshman basketball games were always exciting. The players showed much spirit and talent and proved to be an important part of the Mount Vernon athletic tradition.

All the players watch anxiously for the ball to drop through the basket.

Following through on the attempt, Skeet makes sure his shot is good.

A perfect defense, Jimmy Rymiszewski guards the opponent while Brian Coleman waits for him.

Blocking the opponent, Jimmy Rymiszweski keeps him from shooting.

With yet another score for M.V., Jeremy Nelson makes the basket.

A Rebuilding Season

A Young Team Strives

Although the girls' record for this season was less than convincing, the team was strong and quick. With the loss of many key players last season, this year was a rebuilding period for the Lady Majors. Under the new coaching of Mr. Gary Young, the team was able to manage many great victories, ending the regular season with a tie for first place in the Gunston District with Lee.

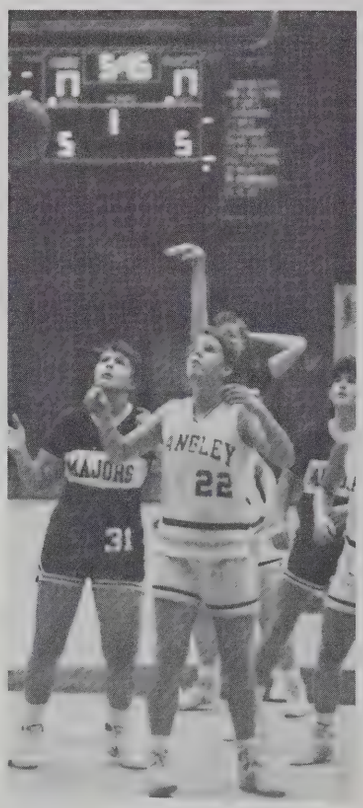
This year was an especially hard rebuilding period, because the girls had to get used to a new coach and the coach had to get used to the players. Coach Gary Young took a few years off from coaching Girls' Varsity Basketball in 1984. After Coach Jean Coder decided not to return this year, Mr. Young decided to apply for the job and got it.

Coach Young worked very hard to pull this young and inexperienced team together. This year's varsity had only three returning seniors and three players with varsity experience. Even though this team had such little experience, they had an excellent season. They pulled together very well to make it a successful season.

Senior captain Sharon Parsons was a key player this year along with junior captain Candee Zepka. Besides great talent and a love for the game, they encouraged the young team to strive for the best, even when down and tiring, to come back from almost impossible odds. No one in the region took this team lightly because of its hard working and challenging players. Many teams knew what the majors were capable of and regarded them as a serious threat. Lee didn't take the majors lightly, after a close game at Lee where the majors only lost by six. They came back to win the second game by two.

Everyone watches Candee Zepka go up for a lay-up.

Once again, Kim Patrick takes a shot from downtown.



As the ball swooshes through the hoop, Vanessa Foldvik watches intently.

Fast-breaking down the court, Sharon Parsons takes off.

While going up for the foul, Kim Patrick is fouled.

Boxing out the West Potomac player, Mary Carpenter wants the ball.

Defense, defense," repeats Andi Wilson as she concentrates.

In a struggle for the rebound, Merel VanZanten wins decisively.

Talent And Pride

Hopes For The Future

The Majors had extremely good players this season. Senior Sharon Parsons was voted first team All District. Junior Candee Zepka and sophomore Merel VanZanten were voted second team All District. It is an honor to be voted onto one of these teams since a player must show great talent to be selected.

The players on the varsity squad should be very proud of their successful season. With only three departing seniors, the majors will have great strength next year and should be one of the top teams in the region.

Playing great defense on the West Potomac player are Candee and Andi.

Fighting to pull the rebound is Vanessa Foldvik.

A New Tradition

Spirited And Enthusiastic

A new idea emerged last year to bring spirit and enthusiasm to the girls' Varsity and J.V. basketball; a group of highly spirited and enthusiastic cheerleaders were chosen for the job. Only the boys' basketball teams had cheerleaders at their games, until cheerleading coach, Miss Deaton thought it necessary last year to change the tradition. Tyrouts were held in the fall before the basketball season began. The Varsity cheerleaders helped the new cheerleaders, learn cheers and chants and the basics of pyramid building. Cheering for girls' basketball was a great way to start. The cheerleaders were able to become acquainted with the sport and build their confidence for trying out next year. Keep up the good work; everyone appreciates your hard work and dedication to cheer on the Lady Majors.

"Ready, O.K.," shouts the captain as the cheer starts.

The look of concentration shows that Suzanne, Tara, Aimee, and Brenda love cheering.

Shooting Stars

Perserverance And Attitude

"Before each game I would try to make everyone relax. I could always tell what kind of first quarter we were going to have by the way the players were acting in the locker room," commented Coach Mary Snell after her first year of coaching for the Junior Varsity Girls' Basketball team. "Before we started and as a group, we always said a prayer and a team cheer!"

Our main scorer, Christina Michaels, supplied the team with an average of 20 points per game. Becky Young handled herself, as well as the ball, great under pressure throughout the tough spots when scores were close. Five foot nine inch center, Frances Thomas, out-jumped every girl in the district. Coach Snell felt she and the team have come a long way, however there is still much more potential.

Elizabeth Connor, a former player, moved away after half the season. She was missed a lot, but somehow Frances Thomas always managed to keep everyone together.

Coach Snell's comments to the team were, "I've really enjoyed coaching this team; you are a unique group. I hope you'll each practice on your own and try out again next year." Due to the skillful coaching of Mary Snell and to the hard working, determined athletes, the Mount Vernon JV Girls came out with a 6-2 district record.

To a game well played, Coach Snell smiles with pleasure.

"Play ball!", yells the ref as Becky steps in for play.

"It's mine!" "No, it's mine!" mumble the players as they scramble for the ball.

Concentrating on her foul shot, Christina gets a grip on the ball.

Individual Champs

Winning The Gold

The Boys' Indoor Track team proved to be one of the best in the Region with a fourth place finish in the Regional Track Meet. The team sustained only two losses in the regular season.

At the District Meet, MV had several individual champions: James Colbert in the triple jump and 500, Joel Ross in the 55 dash and the 55 hurdles, and Brian Bond in the 300 dash. These three, along with Troy Fox captured the 800 relay. Vernon Conaway took 5th in the shot at Regionals. James Colbert and Joel Ross also earned individual championships.

Records set by James Colbert and Joel Ross highlighted the season; both should be extremely proud of their accomplishments. With many successful underclassmen, the boys' team has high hopes for the future.

Against All Odds

Small But Potent

The Girls' Indoor Track Team was very small this year; only fifteen girls came out. Despite the lack of depth, the team finished 4th in the district and 14th in the region.

Spirit bonded the team together and inspired Sherri Miller, Anna Nicholl, Barbara Kelley, and Donna Basel, who advanced to Regionals. Sherri Miller and Anna Nicholl went on to participate in the State tournament. Sherri placed in the shotput and Anna placed in running events.

Coach Greg Sullivan hoped for a better turnout in the spring,. A 1-5 record did not provide inspiration for a strong spring season, but with a significantly larger turnout, the spring track team surely surprised the competition.

With long strides, Barbara Kelly hopes that she will go faster.

Breezing by the competition, Anna Nicholl thinks about the finish line.

A Year Of Decline

Rebuilding For The Future

The Varsity wrestling season began optimistically this year with a significant turnout of new comers and veterans. As the season progressed, injuries and less than satisfactory grades plagued the team. These problems placed the Majors in a 24 point hole before competition began. "We have to pin them, gentlemen!" was Coach Brian Taylor's polite way of reminding the team that they needed some extra points in order to win.

The Varsity team finished a low fourth in the District Tournament. With a weak bond as a team, it was an individual season. Chris Cox went on to place in Regional and State wrestling tournaments. He finished third in the region and in the top eight at the State Tournament.

It was a year to rebuild the wrestling team and to look forward to future seasons and team victories.

Skillfully pulling his opponent over, Chris Cox gains three more points.

Confidently, John Hodges literally dumps his opponent.

Grapplers Ready To Scrap

Taking It All

The Junior Varsity wrestlers were ready to go before the season began. Without letting up, the young wrestlers started and finished the season strong. By winning all but one match during the season, they went into the district meet with confidence. The JV team surpassed their competition and ran away with the district title. Grapplers who stood out during the tournament were Sam Song, Vince Owusu, Roger Castillo, Mark Avery, Tom Ervin, and Chris Voeller, who finished first.

Against The Odds

Girls' Varsity Gymnastics

This year the girls' gymnastics team had to overcome several obstacles. They were without a coach and had to go to another school to receive coaching. Because they had to share practice time and a coach, this greatly affected the turnout for the team. As a result, only four girls stuck with the team.

Even with such a small team, the girls tried their best and made a very admirable showing in Gunston District competition. Part of this is because all of the gymnasts on this year's team were members of last years team. Regena Oelrich was the only senior on the team, the other three girls being sophomores.

Because of our small and young team, the girls did not place as a team as well as they would have liked. Most of the scoring responsibility was placed on senior Regena Oelrich. Regena has been competing in the sport of gymnastics for a long time and is definitely an experienced veteran. The most outstanding performer on the team, Regena has been district champion for two years straight and placed well enough in the region to continue to the state competition. Regena's season was marred when she sufferd a terrible ankle injury at a AAU meet. This injury greatly affected her regional performance. Kim Espeland showed great potential for next year. Good luck next year girls! And good luck Regena!

District Champs Again!

An Undefeated Season

This turned out to be another outstanding winning season for the Boys' Varsity Swim Team. They have had continued success as Gunston District champs for four years in a row. This was the payoff of all the dedication and hard work the guys put in throughout the season. They practiced five days a week with several swimming twice a day. The practices were long and grueling; just ask any swimmer and he will tell you. The team plans to continue it's four year reign as undefeated Gunston District champions next year.

The most outstanding senior was Tim Boyd, with three gold medals. Ian Powell had three top three finishes and Jerry Kelly placed in the top three in one event.

Great things can be expected next year from Chris Kohl, who this year got two golds, one silver, and Matt Bondurant, one gold, one silver, one bronze. Robert Kelly, Chris Cannavaro, David Askin, and Rich Jacobs all placed well in the top three and received medals.

One of the high points of the season was defeating West Potomac twice. The icing on the cake was blowing away W.P. and the rest of the district in the district championships.

Special thanks to the coach Bo Jones. Bo has coached the team for many years and his leadership and vast swimming experience really showed. We could not have done it without you, Bo!

Diving

An almost unknown but very important part of the swim team, is the diving team. Undefeated senior Eric Elliot won first place in the Gunston District. His score earned him ALL-AMERICAN honors. He leaves the winning tradition in the hands of first year divers Eric Robinson, Jonas Majerski, and Sean Card.

Splish! Splash! Swim Fast!

Nearing The Surface

The girls' swimming and diving team played the underdog to West Potomac. "It allowed us to swim recklessly and aggressively," said Coach Robert Jones. Two of the three losses came from West Potomac and one from Annandale. The second West Potomac meet was highlighted by a closer score against a stronger W.P. team.

Sophomore Bonnie Williamson came within one second of the school record in the 200 Individual Medley. Diver Melissa James displayed her phenomenal Butterfly for the swim team and earned the third leg of the Medley Relay. Shawnee Bruns placed first in district diving. Three of the top six places in the 100 yard Butterfly in the district were MV girls. Melanie Malerich and Krista Green placed second and fourth, respectively in the 500 yard Freestyle.

The enthusiasm displayed by the girls and the hard work they put into each practice paid off in district and regional competition. Co-captains Susan Heuerman and Mary Chapla, and Seniors Krista Green and Michelle Schorr were the last remaining members of the first Gunston District championship. Although the girls lost to W.P. this year in the district meet, it was more than 50 points closer than last year. "This has been one of the top three years," reflected Coach Jones. Next year the Juniors are expected to step in and lead, bringing even more enthusiasm to the MV girls' swim team.

Battle Of The Bats

A Smashing Season

This year's Varsity Baseball team brought an exciting season of competition to MV. Four returning seniors, ten JV veterans, and four newcomers provided the team with a strong foundation in skills and talent. Mr. Sparling's formula for the season, "sound pitching and defense, aggressive baserunning, and timely hitting," led the Varsity Majors to many victories.

The Junior Varsity team had a lot to live up to this season after last year's District Championship. The "quest for the District Title," as described by coach Randy Slack was led by returning players Jay Miller, Craig Dell, Mike Hendrix, Chris Scipione, and Kevin Newman.

The JV squad was strong and hoped to improve upon last year's 14-2 record.

Stealing The Scene

Aggressiveness The Key

The Varsity Softball team was, again, very competitive within the Gunston District and the Northern Region. These Lady Majors overflowed with enthusiasm. Team captains Sharon Parsons and Martha Heyden, along with returning starters Ashley Austin and Colleen O'Malley led the team through an outstanding season.

The infield was very strong; 1987 All-District pitcher, Mary Carpenter was exceptional on the mound. The outfield was rebuilt after the loss of last year's starters; however, Krista Green, Heather Leach, Melissa Nash, and Maryce Brown added experience and all-around depth to the squad.

Every member of the team played a key roll in contributing to the team's success. Through the practices in the sun, rain, and snow, the Varsity Softball team, closely knit under the coaching of Elliot Tepper and Sharon Rucker, proved themselves tough and came out winners in every aspect.

The Junior Varsity Softball team was equally as spirited as the Varsity. Coaches Mary Snell and Ronald Wilson used their expertise to create a powerful squad that finished with an outstanding season.

Next year's Varsity looks stronger than ever with the experience of the Varsity players and the power of the Junior Varsity squad.

Alive And Kicking
Boys Look Strong

The Varsity soccer team had its hopes set high this season. The team strove to improve upon last year's record. With a group effort, the team was predicted to win the District Title and advance to Regionals.

Coach Robert Sanders drilled the players hard and produced many outstanding talents; Gerard Schwenk, Fo Matin, Brent Hill, and Jeff Schwaninger were top players.

Coach Eric Brent led the Junior Varsity Soccer team through a challenging season. The young team played with a lot of power and skill. The Junior Varsity season was a build-up for next year's Varsity team, which will be losing several of its strongest players.

The Young Ones

Starting Fresh

The early soccer season was plagued with bad weather. Because of this, it took longer to solidify the Varsity and Junior Varsity squads as team units. Secret pals between the teams helped to break the ice. An especially high spirit showed in the t-shirts that the squads made before the more competitive games, such as the one with West Potomac.

There were many sophomores on the Varsity squad, making it a young team. Senior captain Alicia Doe, Junior captain Melissa James, and Sophomore captain Lisa Manzo provided leadership and guidance.

Varsity coach Jim Jones and Junior Varsity coach Jean Coder coached together as the teams practiced together. This strongly bonded the two teams.

The soccer season for both Varsity and Junior Varsity was spirited and united. There is much to look forward to with a young Varsity team and the coaching of Mr. Jones and Mrs. Coder.

Pounding The Ground

The More, The Merrier

The boy's Spring Track and Field team has been one of the strongest in the region over the past few years. With only six dual meet losses in the last eight years, the Majors started with a strong base and high expectations.

Many talented individuals led the team, especially in the field events and sprints: District Record holder in the high jump, Norrin Braxton, James Colbert in the triple jump, as well as Troy Fox and John Holly in other jumping events. The depth of the throwers continued to be strong with the abilities of Seniors Vern Conaway, David Weller, and Mike Jakaitis, in addition to Sophomores Brian Hall, Roy Devine, and Jason Barnwell at the front of the pack. The leading sprinters were Chris Beam and Leslie Hogan. Evan Riley headed the distance runners.

Coach Greg Sullivan specified five goals that were accomplished during the 1988 Spring Track season: increase the number of participants, develop the hurdlers, increase the depth in the shot put and discus throwers, emphasize the jumps- long jump, triple jump, and high jump, and finally Coach Sullivan wanted to make track fun. The future holds a lot for the girl's track team if the young participants continue to work hard both during the season and in the off-season.

The girls' shot put showed exceptional potential with Sherri Miller, Shelby Stilwell, April Logan, and Dominique Abernathy placing first in discus and third in shot put at the Harringer Relays. Winter competitors Donna Basil, Barbara Kelly, and Anna Nicholl added talent and leadership in uniting the young team.

Able to leap tall buildings, the hurdles don't challenge Tara Nester.

Tennis Courts Masses
Talent In Numbers

They were ubiquitous! No matter where you turned, there was one of THEM . . . a tennis player! The exceptionally large team was divided into Varsity and Junior Varsity squads. Coaches Penny Buck and David Robey had a variety of abilities and potentials to work with. Successful coaching and cooperation between the coaches and players resulted in an outstanding season.

The Boys' Tennis Team did not let bad weather keep them from practicing. Through the bitter cold, the nipping wind, and the grueling sun, they were out on the courts beating little yellow balls.

The depth of the team was a hopeful indication for future seasons. With Coach Robey's help, Coach Buck looked forward to developing the talent of the team. The return of the numerous young players makes a district title seem within the reach of the Boys' Tennis Team.

Academics

The day began at 7:35 with the 1600 students who made the school thrive.

Need we forget the faculty, who constantly questioned our punctuality!

The curriculum was one of a varied sort which enabled us to interact with many cohorts.

The algebra was difficult to calculate, the ledgers hard to tabulate.

Whether you made an A or barely passed that physics quiz, you gained the confidence of a science whiz.

The artistic and musical talent was evident in the school, a paintbrush or instrument as their tool.

Speaking of tools, you guys that made a clamor, don't forget that Philip's screwdriver and hammer.

In any class, think before you say, it might affect your GPA.

Plants, Burners, Springs

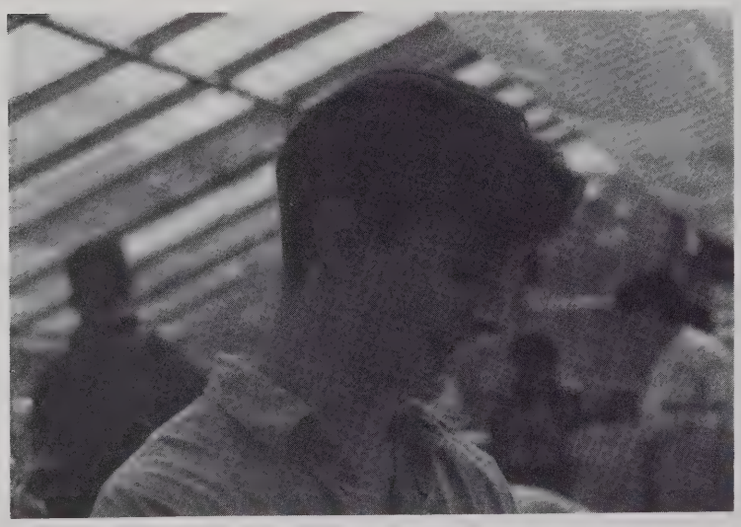
Toys for Girls and Boys

Each student at MV has the opportunity to experience being a mad scientist. Whether it was Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry, Plant Science, Physics, or Bio II, each student got hands on experience in science. This year the students taking Biology got their first look at the insides of worms, frogs, and fetal pigs; for some it was more enjoyable than others. In Earth Science, students studied geology, astronomy, and meteorology. Those who took Chemistry learned to name the elements of the Periodic Table, combine them and analyze chemical reactions. Safety in the lab was also learned and practiced. The sure sign of a chemistry student was the lines across the cheek where there were goggles the period before.

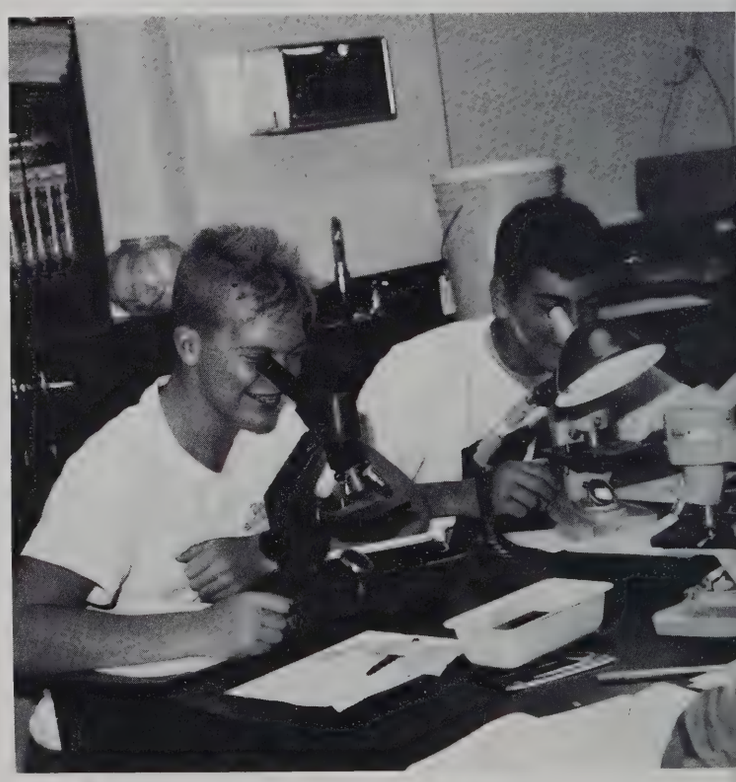
Carts, bricks and clamps were just a few of the objects used in the Physics labs. Velocity, force, mass and proportional soon dominated senior vocabulary. Bio II was taken by students who wished to expand on the study they started in Biology, or by those seniors who wished to avoid Physics. Once again the Biology II students took a trip to Wallops Island for field study. The Plant Science class had field study without even traveling off MV soil. They kept the greenhouse here in fine shape.

This year a lot was achieved in science. The Science Fair was a great success with projects from many fields. It was an outstanding showing for the Science Department. Students from all classes participated and many came away with awards.

At the starting line, Bobby Kelly waits for the checkered flag to signal for him to push his cart along.



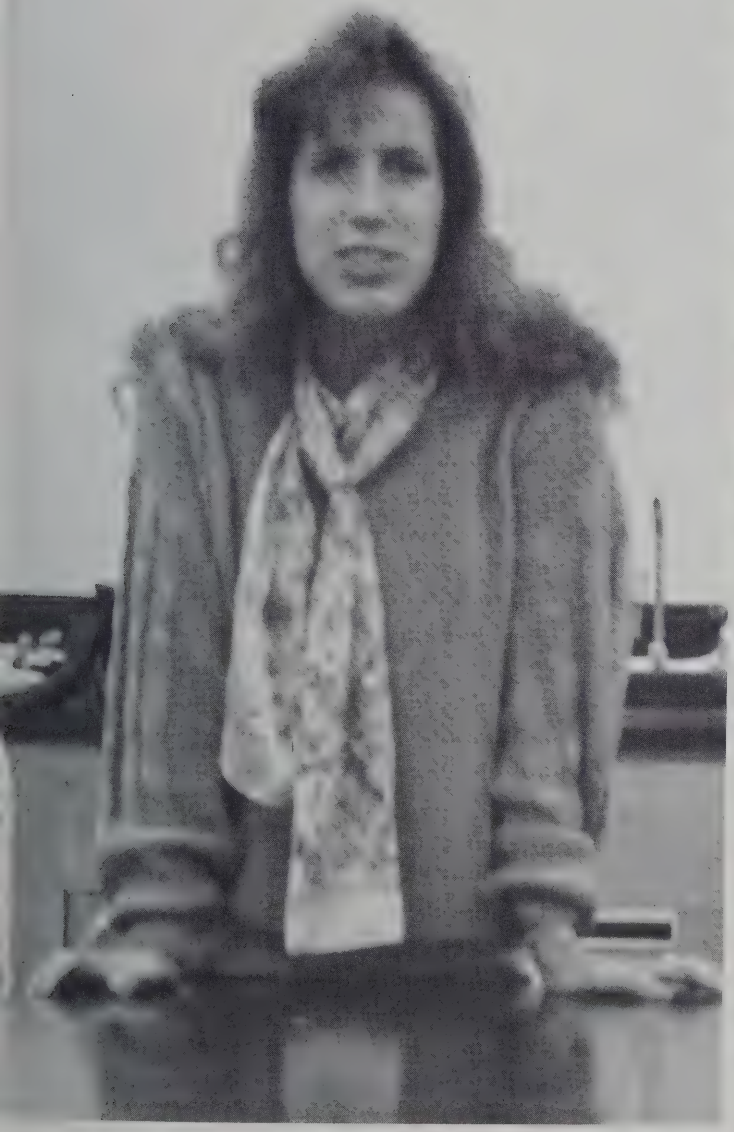
Like the happy planter he is, John Schultz talks and sings to make his plants grow to be happy and beautiful.



Happy to uncover the mystery of those intriguing plant cells, Richard Jacobs looks through a microscope.

Unassisted by Kent Hull, Neil Butt uses his trusty stick to ward off the mad scientist Junes Chae.

Unaware that the killer potted plant is ready to attack his head, Warren Grffith and Neil Butt look on.



Showing the typical look of Mr. Young's Physics students, Joanne Martinez is extremely FRUSTRATED and CONFUSED!!

Carefully choosing her ingrediants, Elaina Lin experiments with the wonders of science.

It's Amazing the things people do with numbers. It's also amazing that they would actually want to do some of the things they do. Students can thank people like Newton and Descartes for the different types of math courses they have to chose from today. At Mount Vernon, a variety of classes are offered for a variety of people. Students are encouraged to go their own pace in taking courses from General Math to BC Calculus.

Not many projects or presentations can be centered on math, so it depends a lot on the teacher how enteraining a class is for students. As senior Sally Pickering said, "Mr. McCool taught class the same way he coached basketball; he was loud, active, and effective."

Students were often heard saying "how is this going to help me in the future???" Some people just don't see the fun in finding derivatives of equations or finding the missing parts of triangles. Believe it or not, Math can actually help in the future, whether a person's career is a microphysicist or not. Everything in life can be traced back to math somehow, from writing poetry to solving puzzles. Mrs. Atkinson used her math ability to solve the famous Rubik's Magic puzzle. Now whether the ordinary human being can accomplish such feats, it's debatable.

On a more earthy level, every student at Mount Vernon should be able to determine how many seedless watermelons can be grown within a three week period if watering and exposure to the sun are not factors. Now that's important.

Hanging on Mrs. Atkinson's every word, Karen Torres is sitting on the edge of her seat in anticipation o what's to come.

"No Johnny! I have not been sniffing the markers!", exclaims Krista Green in Calculus.

As unusual sight at MV, Kenny Washington actually can crack a smile while doing math problen Somebody call Guiness . . .

Bits, Byte Computers Make It Right

All students should get with it and get educated about computers. Computers, as they say, are "the wave of the future" and the future is rapidly approaching. The colleges and universities are equipped with computers and some students are even required to own a computer. Many students here at MV have gotten smart and learned about computers. The courses that were offered this year were Problem Solving (half year), Computer Science II (full year), and AP Computer Science (full year).

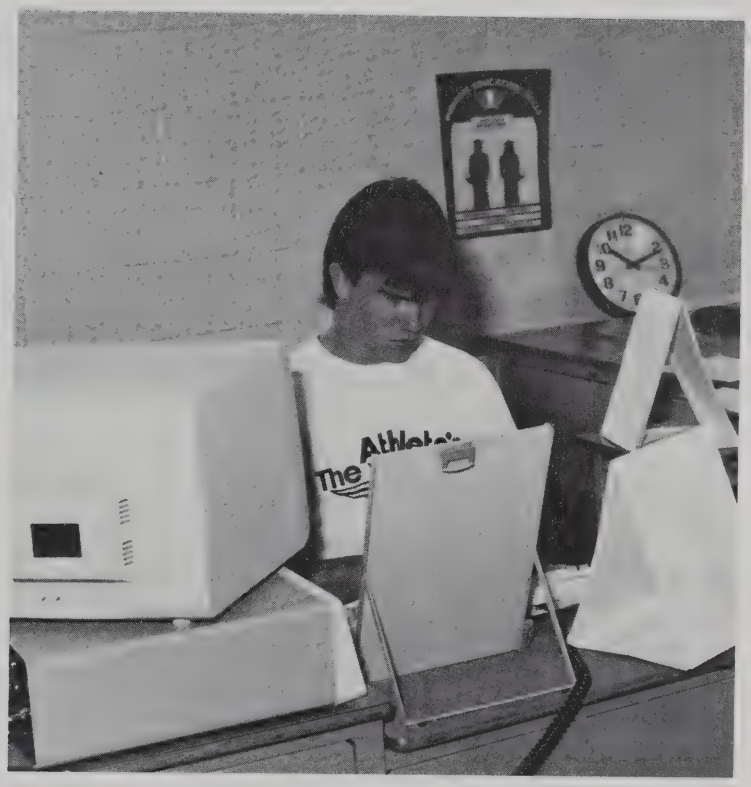
Those who took Problem Solving learned Basic language. Students learned simple programming and also how to use a word processor.

Computer Science II was a course for those students who were already familiar with computers and the Basic language. In CSII, Pascal language, a more complicated computer language, was taught. Students learned how to use Pascal in programming and problem solving.

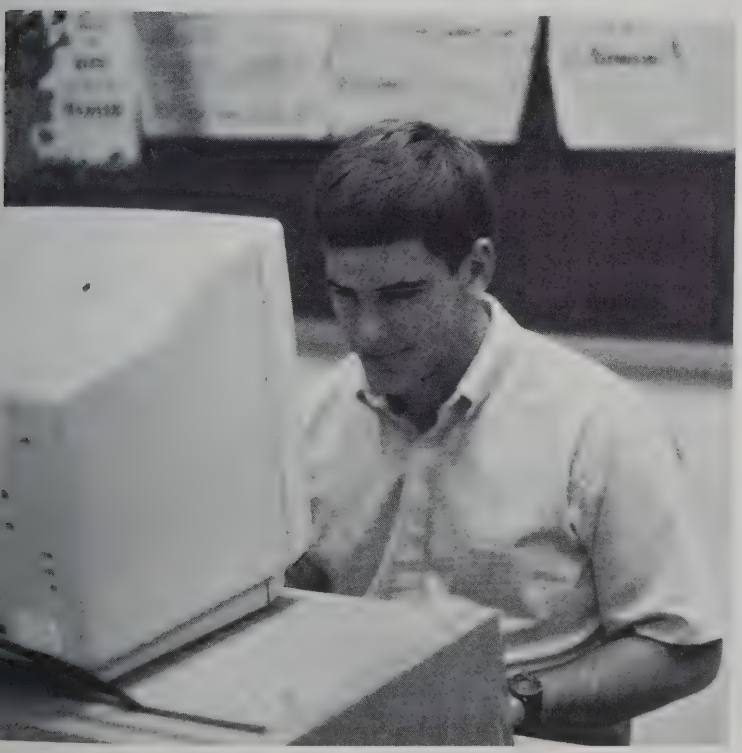
In AP Computer Science, students furthered their study of Pascal and its many applications. Students receive an extra .5 on their GPA for this course, but are not eligible to receive college credits regardless of their score on the AP test. 92% of Mt. Vernon students who take this AP test get a score of 3 or better.On other AP tests, these scores could earn them college credits.

Computer classes are highly reccommended for all because at some time, all will have to use a computer for something.

Will someone please tell Mark Palmosano to stop trying to write on the computer screen and use the keyboard.



Enthralled by what he is doing, this student has no questions and no gripes about computers.



Happy to be nearing the end of his program, David Weller smiles at his success. Give this boy a cookie!!

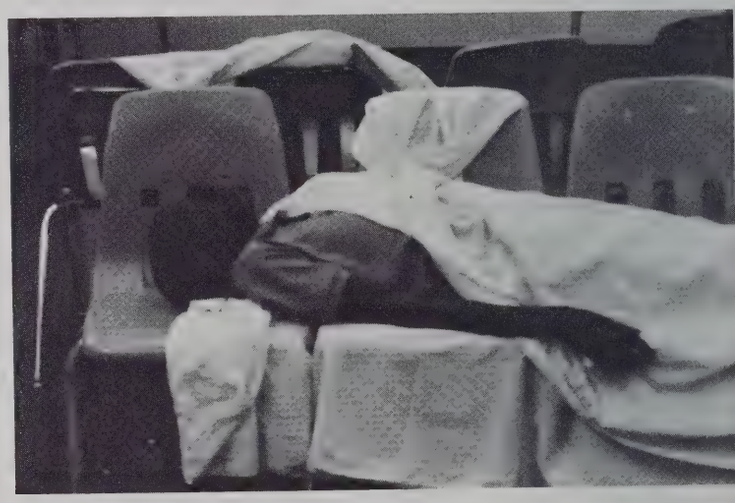
Past, Present, Future

Students Travel Through Time

High school students learn about the past, present, and future. History classes of the World, Virginia, and the United States deal with the past up to the present. World Geography students learn about the customs of today as well as those come and gone as geography has changed. U.S./VA Government classes teach how the government works today and how it worked in the past. It prepares students to make political decisions in the future.

After completing all these classes in high school, the students, who will one day rule the country, are able to make better decisions about life. History teaches what mistakes have been made in the past and how to avoid the same ones in the future. It deals with political, economic, social, and cultural growth. Government then deals with the political aspects of how the government functions and how it is structured at local and state levels.

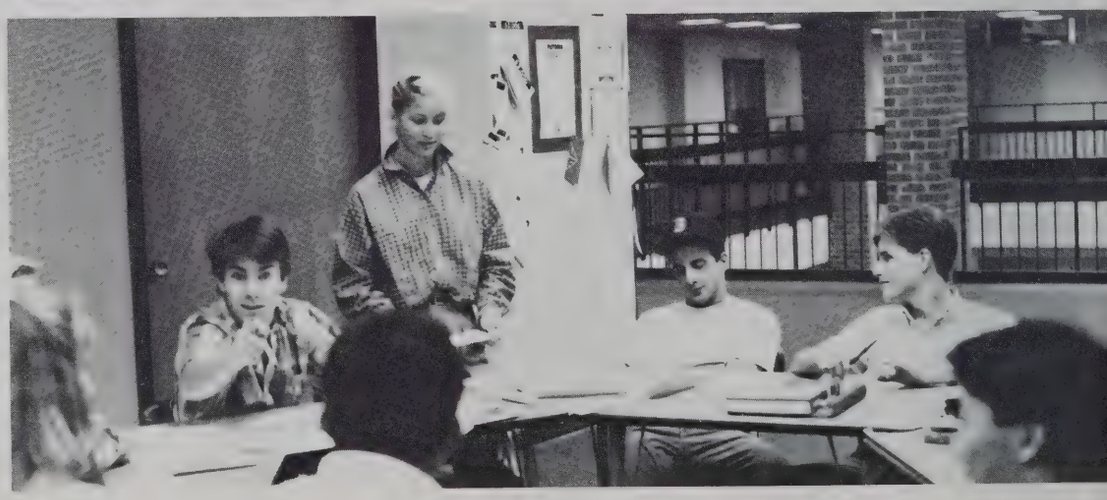
The main event of the year was when the government classes formed a Constitutional Convention and were later joined by History classes to vote (ratify) on amendments to the Constitution.



"No, this isn't my prom dress."

Not to worry, Dwayne Hopkins is only pretending to be dead for a World Geography project.

Art work by Adam Dolder illustrates an historical point.



Getting into the politics of the Constitutional Convention, Grant Baker wants to be sure his point is clear.

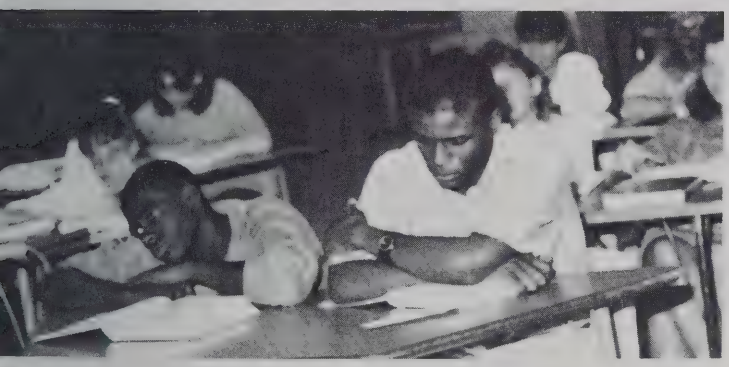
Essays Galore

Grammar is a thing of the past. After the eight grade, students get very little grammar work. Novels, essays, and their authors are the studies in high school. Each student must have four years of high school English in order to graduate. This year the freshmen studied Romeo and Juliet, the sophomores, Julius Ceasar, the juniors, Huckleberry Finn and The Scarlet Letter, and the seniors, Beowulf, The Canterbury Tales, and Macbeth. There were many creative projects that stemmed from these studies. Students presented their own plays, skits, and posters; the more creative, the better.

Writing, communication, and interpretation were areas of high concentration. The students were expected to interpret books and poems, and then be able to relate their views in essays and speech. The Reading-Writing Groups were a large part of the English scene. In these groups, students received feedback and constructive criticism on their writings. With these comments, the students revised and wrote final copies. Vocabulary studied this year in preparation for the SAT's was a tremendous help. Students felt more comfortable after the testing because they were more prepared.

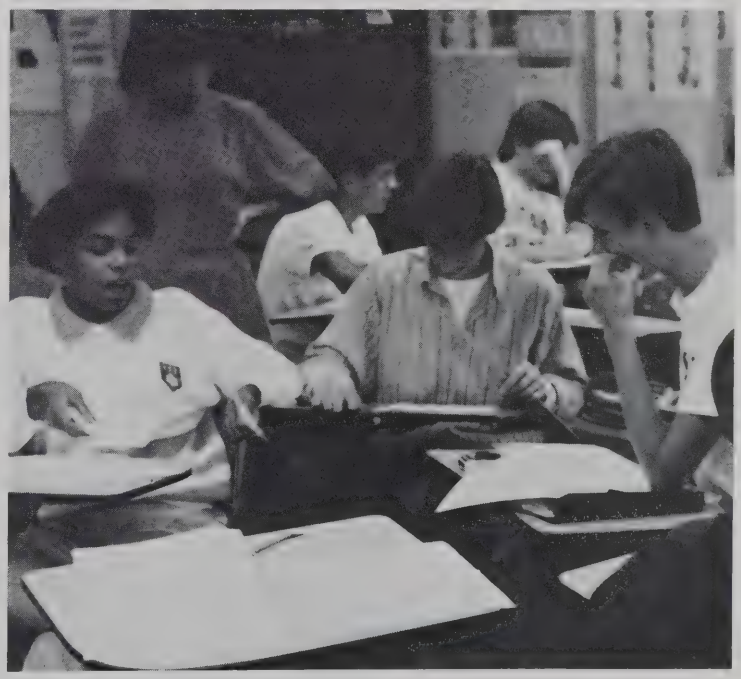
In the AP English class, students were given college level work and graded accordingly. If these students did well on the standardized test, they were eligible to receive college credits

Sonnets, essays, and research papers are just a few forms their writings took. The assignments to write using different styles of writing and the backround on the classics this year prepared all students to move on in their study of English.



Looking at Ms. Clark's English class from new angles are Odell Lewis and Oscar Eastman.

Captivated by Zak McNamara's paper, Evan Reiley, Julie Meadows, Laurel Mitchell and Lorna McDonald listen intently.



"Ya'll stop studying that ruler and help me with my paper!" exclaims Angie Robinson.

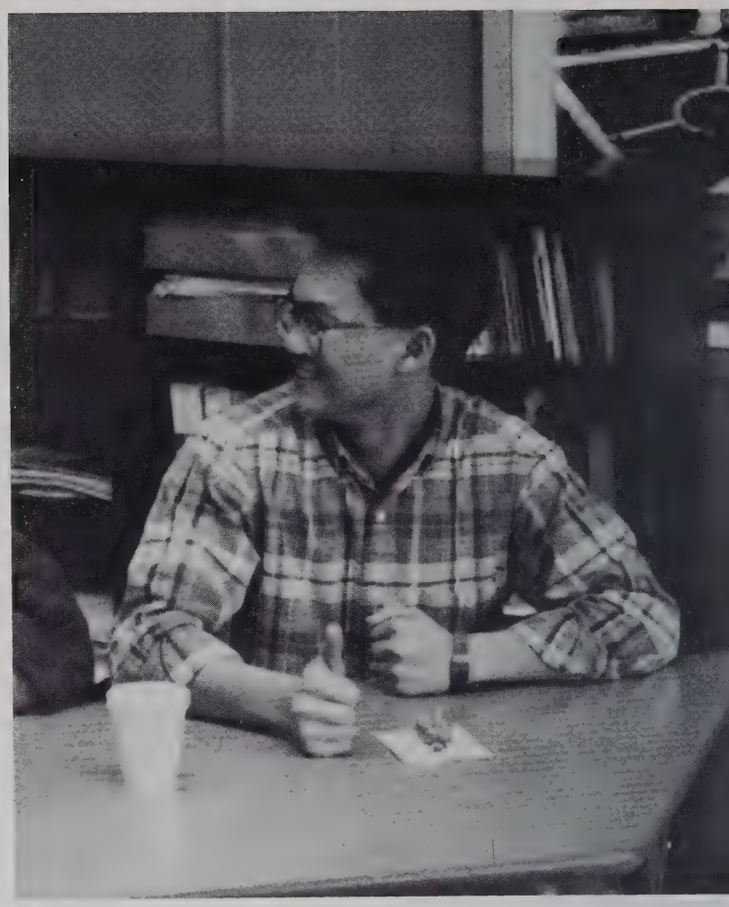
Quoi? Qué? Wass?

One way students expand their cultural knowledge is by studying foreign languages. Many choices are available at Mount Vernon: Spanish, French, German, and Latin. A person can either take four years of one language or two years of two different languages. The early years of language study teach students the basics of language structure, simple vocabulary and conversation, and expose them to a culture with customs and lifestyles different from their own.

In upper levels of study, students learn more about the histories, philosophies, literatures, and governments of other countries. Some of the activities involved in the study of a foreign language are dialogues performed in front of the class, listening to the teacher speaking the language, and food days that let students experience different regional styles of food.

Language classes took field trips to see art exhibits, or the next best thing was to view works of art on film strips or movies. Those students who were lucky enough to have the means and parental permission went to France or Spain. The trip to France was during Spring Break. The students got first-hand experience dealing with foreigners.

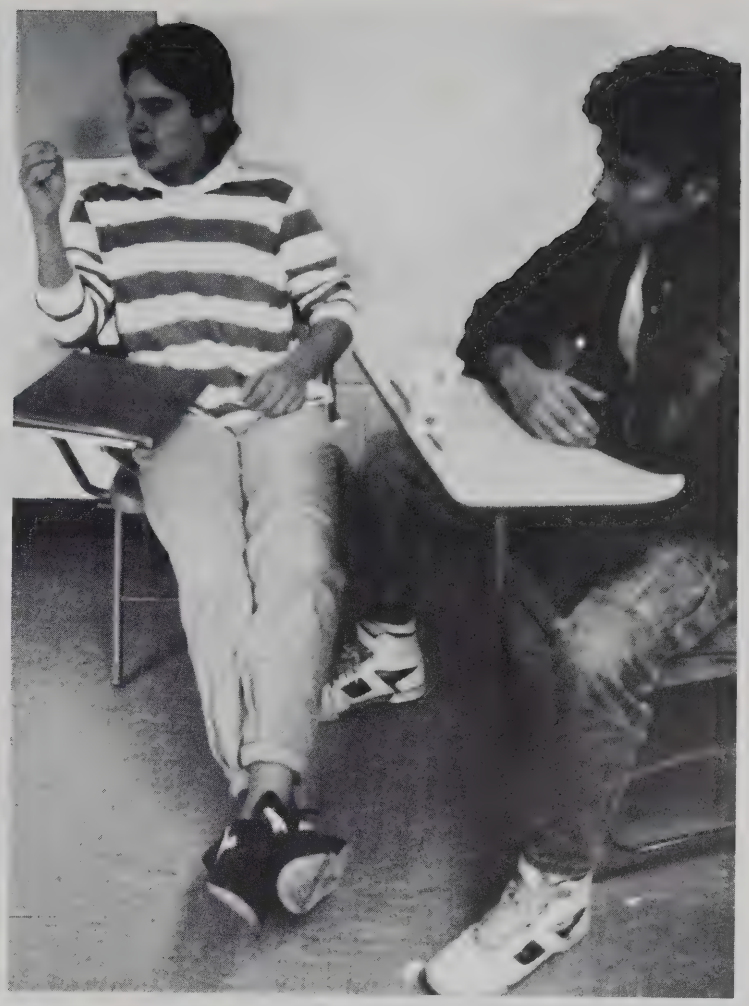
Every student at MV can give a big "Hello" in some language or another.



Happy with his success on the French test, Junes Chae gives himself a thumbs up.

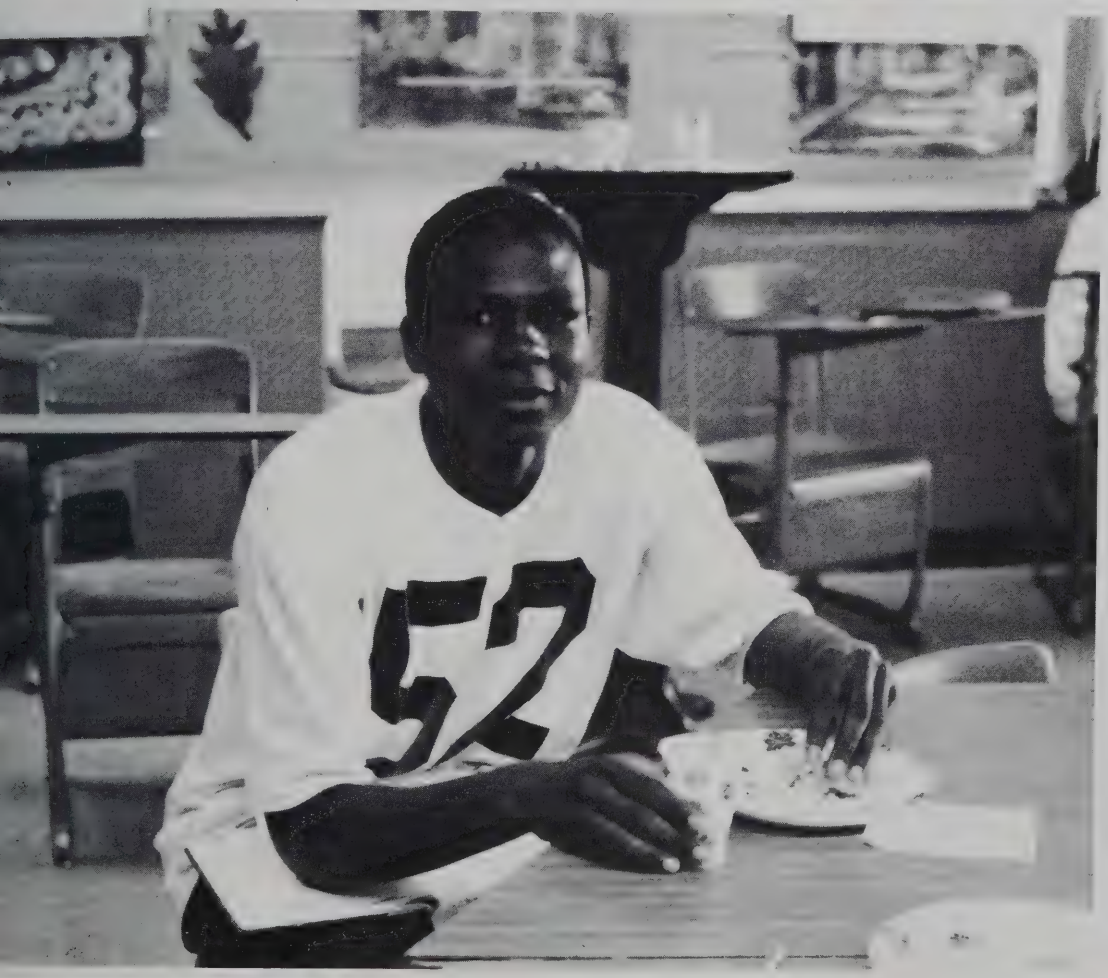
Engrossed in their study of Latin, James Colbert, Neil Butt, and their class don't hear the bell.

Startled, José Caballero makes sure that no one's copying his paper.



Relaxing and talking are Julio Nunez and Edwin Andrade.

Getting a taste of Spanish culture is Dean Evans.



Road to Success

The Question: What's the purpose of High School? The Answer: to prepare for the future. Whether students plan to go on to college or not, there is always a business class that can benefit them. Actually, a lot of students go to college to furthur their study of business. Even if Business is not a student's major, he will find that he needs Typing or Data Processing as a skill later in life.

Another option to college is to go right into the Business world. After taking several basic courses in the field, many people are able to get good positions as secretaries or clerks. They have a head start over others who have not taken any training at all.

No matter what profession a student plans to enter, knowing how to manage their money is important. The accounting classes offered at MV teach basic skills from balancing a checkbook to more complex situations such as managing multimillion dollar corporations.

For students interested in Marketing, there are a variety of courses offered. Media Marketing exposes students to selling products through the use of media. Fashion Merchandising deals with the manufacturing promoting and seeling of fashions.

Cosmetology

Not Just Cut N' Dry

Mrs. Margaret Pilger directed a very busy cosmetology department this year at MV. The students (all girls this year) learned the arts of cosmetology: hair styling, skin care, and manicuring. The girls were instructed in giving perms, coloring hair, and of course, cutting and styling hair. For the skin, the students learned to give facials and apply make-up. For the nails, the girls were taught the proper ways of giving manicures and pedicures.

The main objective of the class was to train the students to be proficient hair stylists, able to pass the state exam. In order to work in a salon as a stylist, one must pass the state exam which consists of a practical part (5 hours) and a written part (2 hours). After passing the exam, one becomes licensed.

The cosmetology department was open to serve the public. In order for a student to work with the public, they must have had 150 hours of work completed. The prices offered were low and senior citizens paid half price.

In the past, students from MV's Cosmetology have participated in student hair shows locally and in New York City. This year the girls went to the student hair show sponsored by Davidson. The students had a good time and learned a lot.

Modeling the latest for cosmetology is Paula White.

Skillfully using her curling iron, Missy Entwisle is happy to please.

Practice makes perfect. Here Leslie Butler practices the latest style on a mannequin.

"So, that's what it was," says Odell Lewis as he sees the problem.

Fixin' For The Future

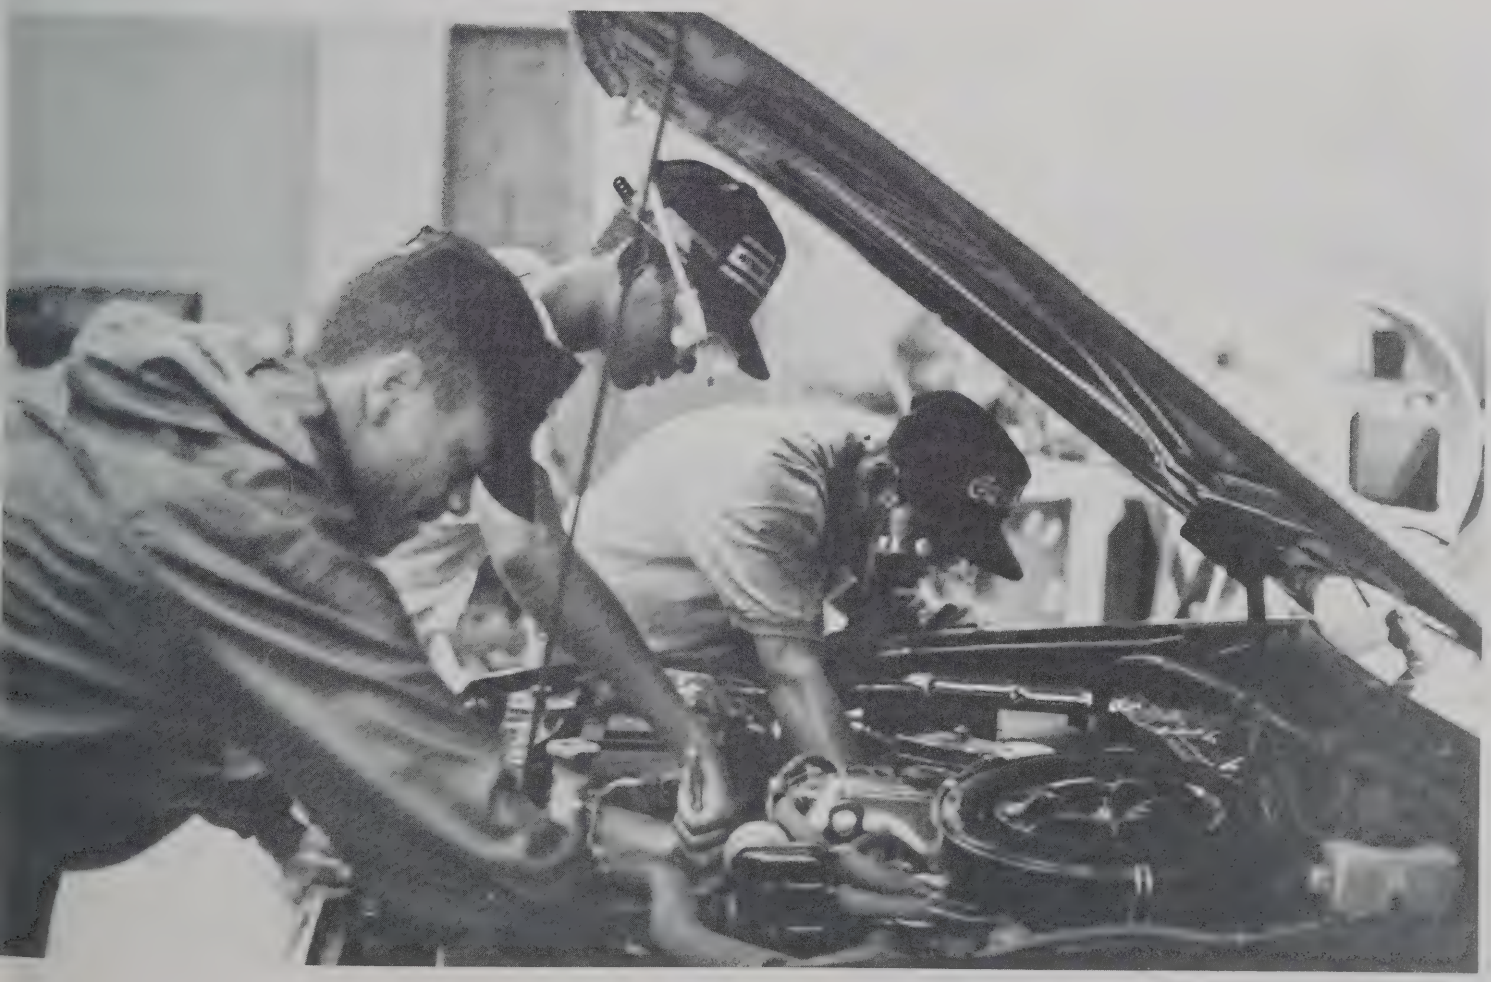
Students Learn A Variety Of Repairs

Did you ever just want to toss that small appliance that you couldn't get to work or trash the lawn mower? Think it's too expensive to get them fixed? It's not if you bring them to the General Maintenance class here at Mt. Vernon. Under supervision and direction, students make repairs for only two dollars and the cost of any parts needed.

Through hands on experience, students learned to make a variety of repairs that are applicable to our everyday life. They were taught to weld and work with sheet metal. Students repaired furniture, lawn mowers, small appliances, and cars. Students learned enough about car engines that chances are good that they won't need mechanics to service their cars.

Lawn mower repairs can be an expensive nightmare. The General Maintenance students will most likely be able to avoid them because during the year they learned all about repairing lawn mowers. They became very familiar with motors and their functions. Trained to make everyday repairs that many wish they could do, these students stepped out of this year with skills that will make their lives a little easier.

Using team work, Ken Bailey, Laurence Brawner, and Odell Lewis make the necessary repairs.



On Your Mark, Get Set, Go!

A Race For Healthy Bodies

Fitness of the body is as important as fitness of the mind at Mt. Vernon. A minimum of two years of Gym classes is a requirement that must be completed prior to graduation. The physical education department, headed by Mr. Brian Taylor, trains students in a variety of sports as well as safe playing practices. In the fall and again in the spring, students participated in Physical Fitness Testing, as they have done every year since elementary school. Many scored in the Presidential range. All the scores from the boys and girls are compared on countywide and nationwide scale each year.

This year girls learned many aerobic dance moves and formed groups in which they choreographed their own routines to their own selections of music. Through the AV Department, the routines were video taped and later used as class exercise and warm up.

Some say that lifting weights is just for guys, but here at MV the boys and girls alike were introduced to weight training and followed a personal plan for lifting. In the spring, girls' and boys' classes combined and the students signed up to participate in the sport of their choice. A few of the many choices were soccer, softball, badminton, basketball, and tennis. Students learned the rules and regulations for each sport and techniques used to play the sport.

The active physical education department at MV is provided so that to support our strong minds, we have strong bodies.

"Hi Ho!, Hi Ho! It's off to walk we go", sing Angie Williams, Angela Price, and their friends in Gym class.

Approaching the long awaited finish line, Scott Santiago and Se Won An give it all they can as a final attempt.

Pushing themselves to the limit, these girls strive to do their best and achieve excellence in Physical F ness Testing.

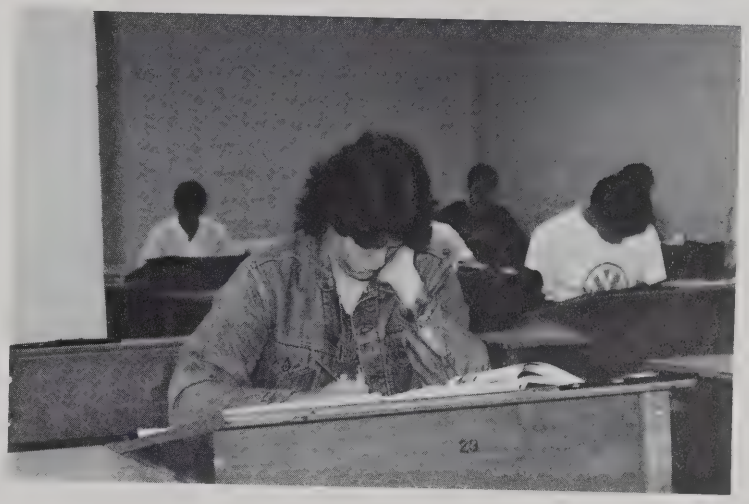
Letter Perfect

Have you ever stopped to look at a screw and its threads? Basic Technical Drawing students not only looked at them this year, but also drew them. These students also drew many three view drawings and learned to do perfect lettering. BTD served as a preparation for them to go on to Enginering or Architecture. The Basic Technical Drawing classes were full this year. The reason for this was that it gives a very strong background for the classes of Engineering and Architectural Drawing. The things taught were similar to those covered in the universities. Students learned good eye and hand coordination. By the end of this year, they were able to design their own projects.

All Drawing students became very familiar with T-squares, triangles, compasses and their many uses. As in many subjects, there was also a special vocabulary learned. Isometric and orthographic are just two of these terms.

This year, Mr. Adamusko often lectured to his Engineering students on new things that appeared in the technological field. His students were informed of things in the real world that their studies could be applied to and became familiar with other fields that they could later choose to pursue.

Few girls took BTD although females have done equally as well as males in this course.



Striving for perfection, Steve Monk sits in total concentration and wishes not to be disturbed.

As The Curtain Rises

Stars Are In Their Eyes

Many Mount Vernon students are headed for the fame and fortune of stardom. This group of students are those who take Drama, sometimes known as the hams of the school. However, some of the shyest people got up on stage and went crazy.

That's what people learn in Drama, how to become someone other than themselves. Through lots of improvisations, such as "Death in a Minute", where students were challanged to die in exactly one minute after only thirty seconds to gather ideas, students learned to be creative on the spot.

Drama is more than acting. Students learned about how the stage is broken up into sections and how to give and use stage directions; all of this, in addition to learning theatrical lingo. Drama students also read a lot of different types of plays and watched some on video tape. Sometimes they even went to live performances.

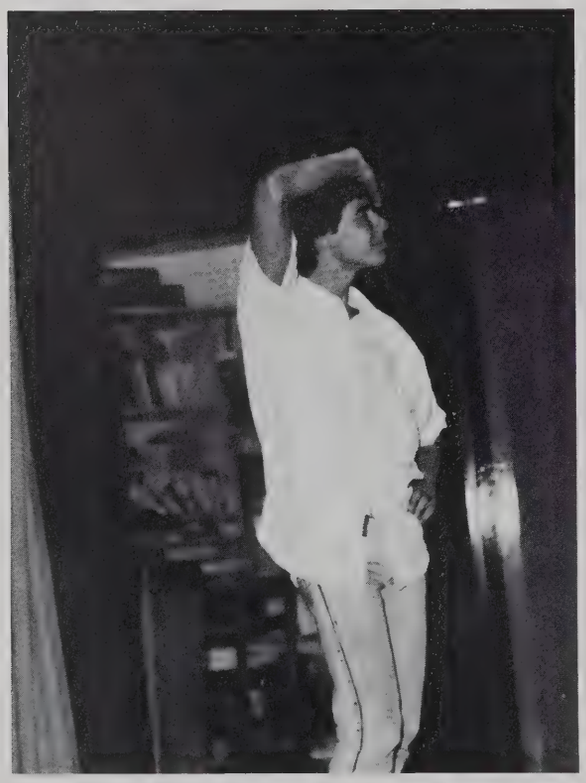
Each year at Mount Vernon there are a few Drama productions presented to the public. Sometimes they were limited to Drama students and sometimes they were open to the school. Either way they were always big hits.

A lot of Drama students are Thesbians, which means that they put in a great deal of time working on a production. It doesn't matter if the time was spent selling tickets, doing stage lighting, or acting, all are necessary for a successful outcome.

It is obvious that there are many Mount Vernon students headed for success.

"Give me five, man", says Eric Willoughby.

Hoping that Vogue will like his pose, is Chris Santiago.



Sucking their thumbs, Gena Pezold and fellow dramatist have regressed back to their earlier years while on stage.

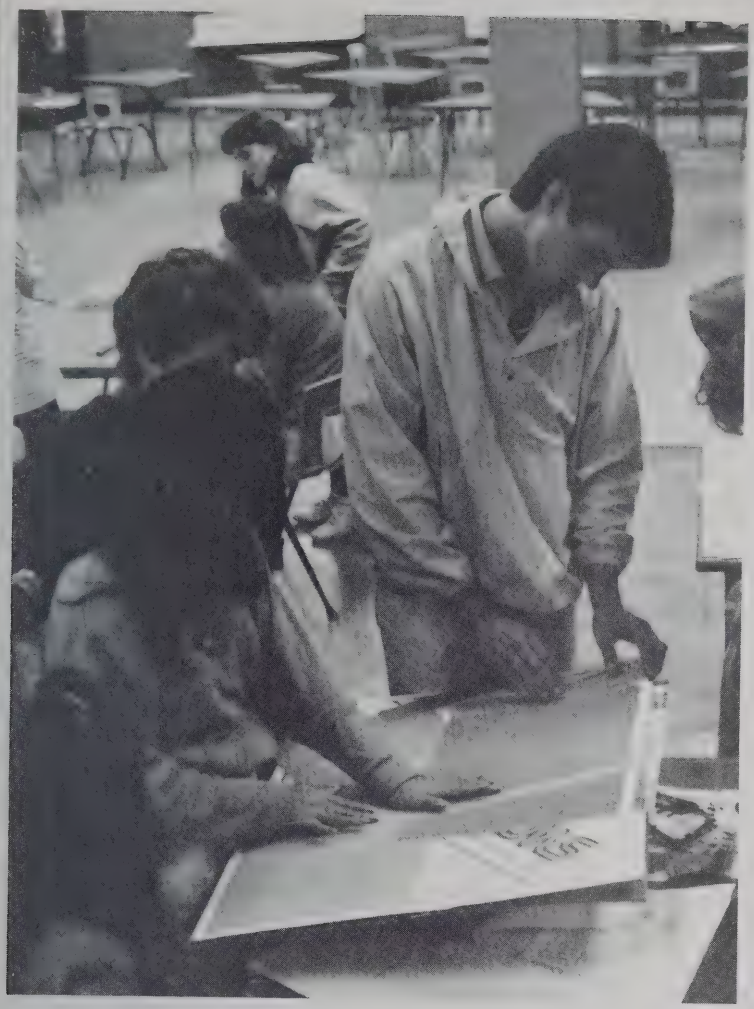
Deadlines!

Rolls Of Film, Hours Of Sweat

Making the Yearbook is such a large project that it has to be a class, not an after school activity. It takes about thirty staff members, including editors of each section and the Editor-in-Chief, to make a quality yearbook.

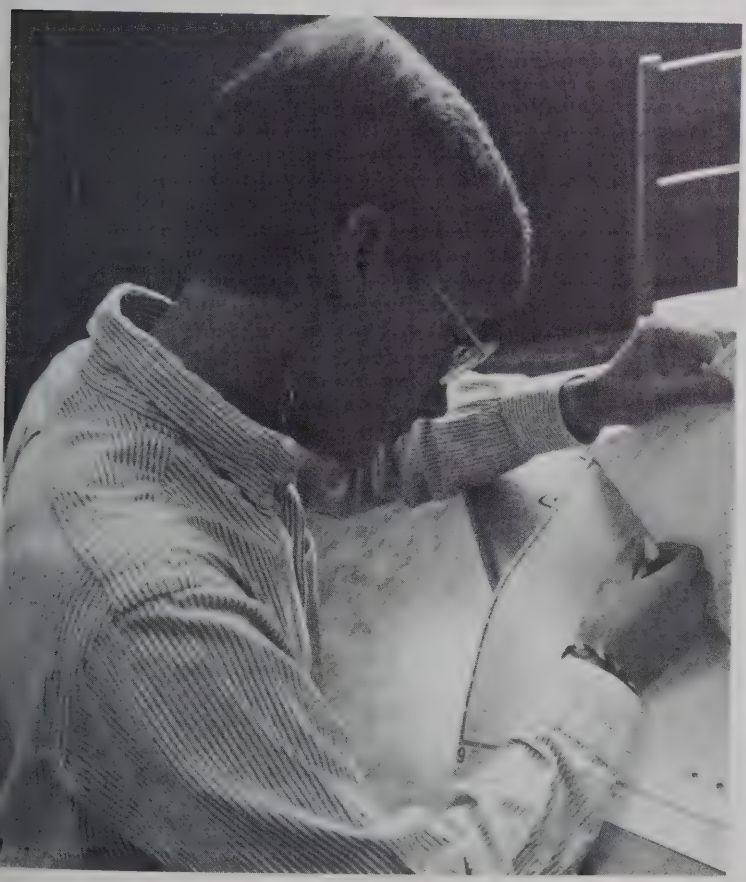
Students must be able to handle responsibility if they are in yearbook. There is a lot riding on their being able to complete what they are assigned. If one deadline is missed then the whole book may be finished late. The student body can be a fierce mob if they don't get their yearbooks on time. Luckily, this has not happened in recent years.

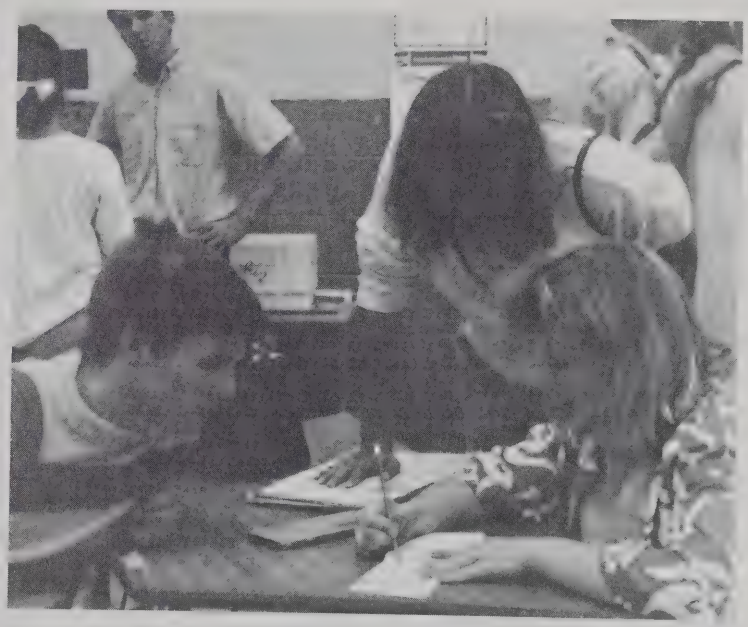
Students in Photojournalism do not have to have experience in Yearbook. They are taught the techniques for designing a layout and for writing body copy and captions. They also get the experience of working in close connection with the printing company, a real life business. Since this class involves photography as well as journalism, the staff is also instructed in the use of a camera and darkroom. All the work for the Yearbook is done by the students and Mount Vernon should be proud of the fine products the students can produce, not only the yearbook, but in all areas of MV curriculum. The Surveyor is another prime example of the pride at Mount Vernon High School.



Chris Keenan shows his editors the way he wants it.

Carol Rush rushes to meet an important deadline.





At a sports section meeting, Vanessa Foldvik watches the tic-tac-toe match of Chris Cox and Melanie Malerich.

FEELING GREAT

Exercise is great, but students also needed to know what else they could do to stay healthy. It is required that all students have nine weeks of Health before graduation. Health class covered many things that students could do, or not do, in order to be healthy. They covered nutrition, disease prevention, alcoholism, smoking, tobacco, and substance abuse. Through updated films and class discussions, students learned all they needed to know. In the nutrition unit they were taught how to coordinate a balanced diet for themselves.

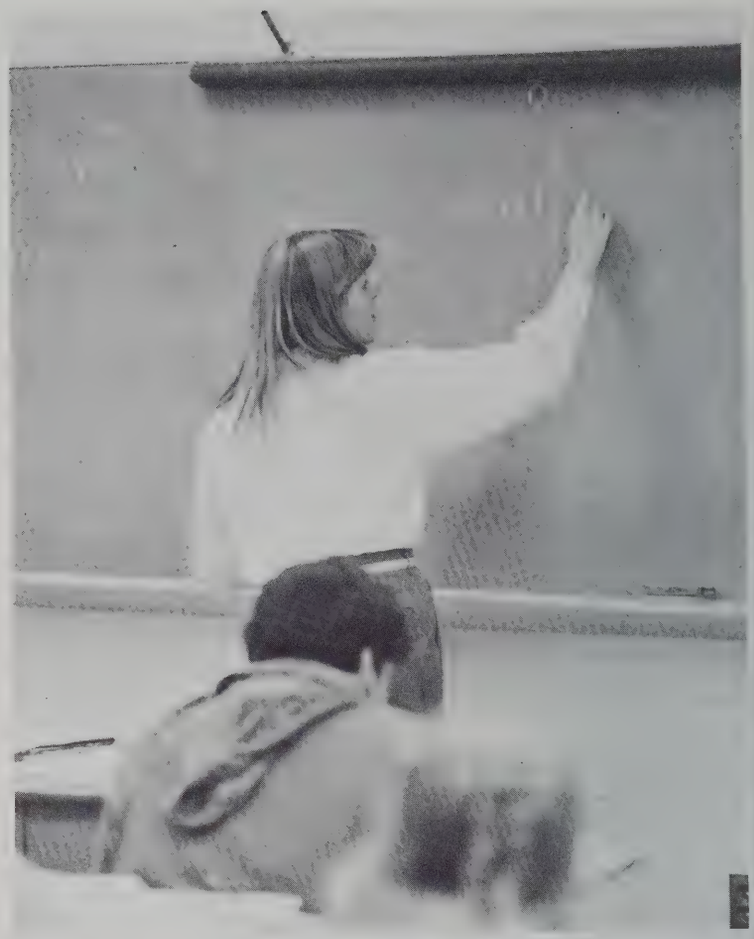
As teenagers, all were faced with drugs - legal and illegal- from depressants to stimulants. They needed to know more. In Health class, students got strictly the facts. As Mr. Bendorf said, "Things were told straight (in class), because on the streets you hear a lot of stuff." Students learned about the development of addictions and how addictions are beaten.

There is a lot of stress involved in being a teenager. In Health class, students were taught about this stress and their bodies' reactions to it. Students learned how to maintain their health despite the stress they had to handle.

All students were required to keep a notebook. Later, they would have something to look back on. The students also had a chance to be creative here too. Projects were done and displayed.

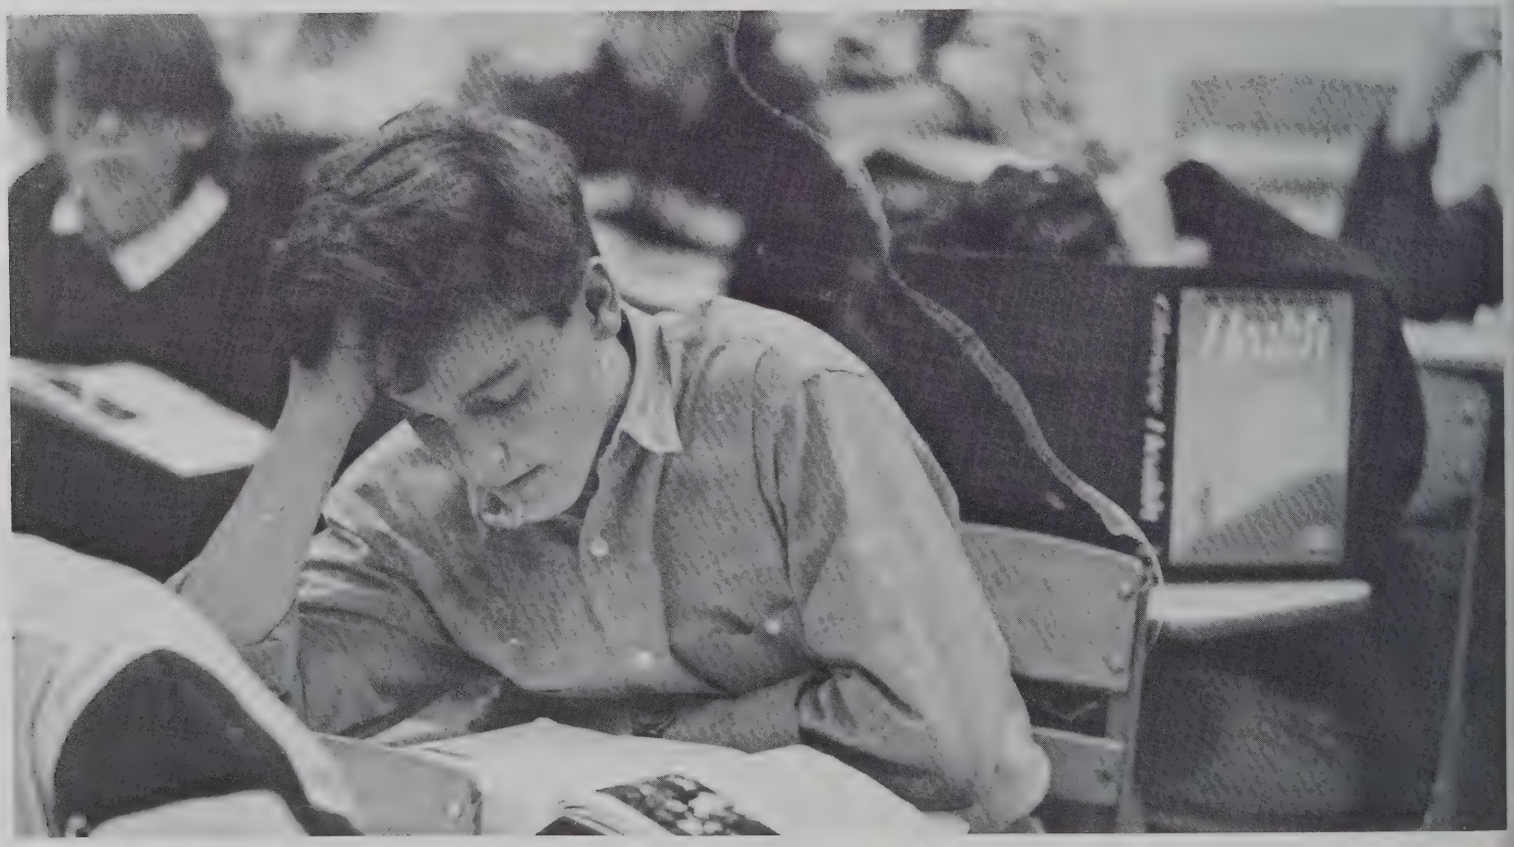
Because the health classes had many things to cover, students learned Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) during their gym classes. Students were also certified in CPR if they were qualified.

After nine weeks, these students were more aware of the many components of a healthy body.



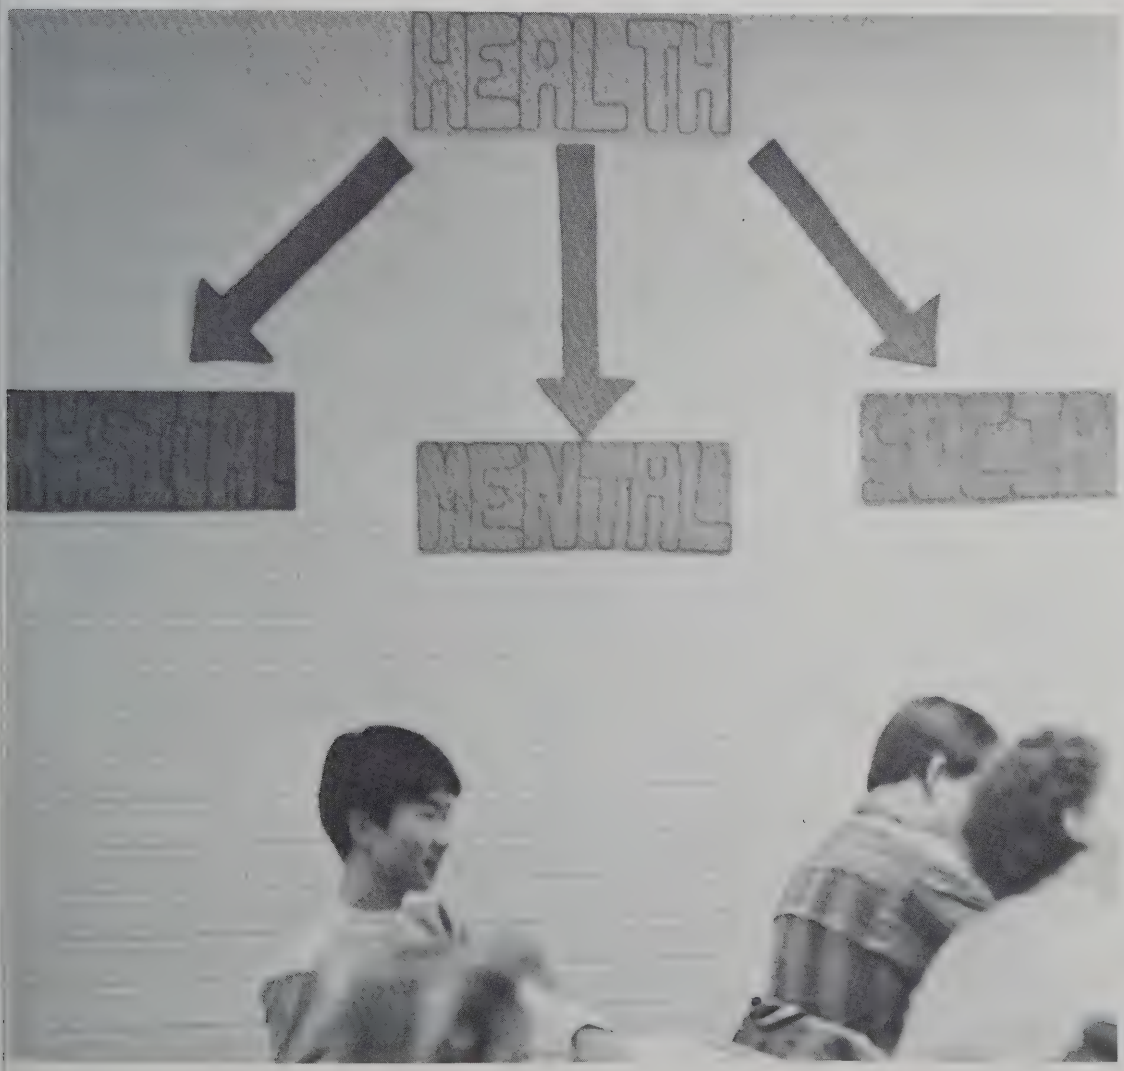
Having her class' undivided attention, Mrs. Coder discusses the stresses of everyday life and the body's reactions.

Pouring himself into it, Gary Scofield searches for information on nutrition.



Looking at thinks objectively, Viet Le does his assignment on signs and effects of alcoholism.

Not quite able to make sense of it all, Jennifer DeJong thinks about drug addiction and its causes.



Brightly, Hyo Yi replies, "Health is physical, mental, and social."

Not Just Fingerpainting Possible Picasso's

Mount Vernon is filled with talented people. Some of these students are especially talented in Art, not just drawing, but painting and sculpting too.

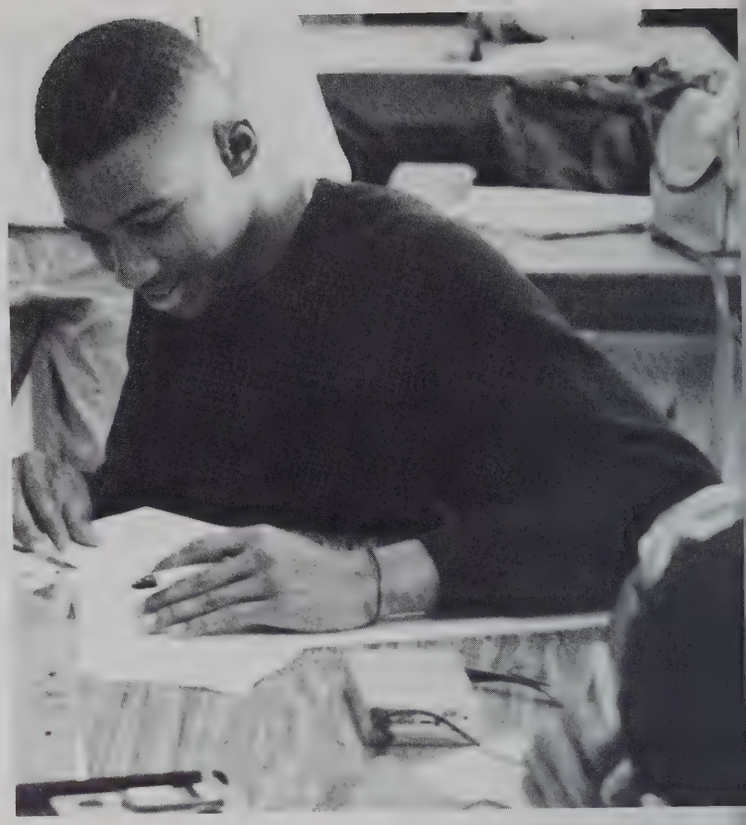
There are many levels of Art classes at Mount Vernon for the more and less experienced artists. A new student does not have to be a great artist, just willing to learn. Each individual has a different style that must be perfected.

Many materials were used in classes, including paint, clay, chalk, ink, and paper, of course.

Aside from "hands-on" work in class, students watched videos demonstrating different styles and techniques of art.

Throughout the year, the halls of Mount Vernon were decorated with the work of students. Masterpieces, from self-portraits to sketches of everyday objects, adorned the walls. When it came to art, anything went, the more unique an artwork was, the more people were interested in it.

The wonderful accomplishments of the Art Department were just another example of the talented and creative students who pass through the halls each year.



"Should I add a touch of blue or green to the background?" questions Slim Bryant as his masterpiece appears before him.

Newsflash!! Read All About It!

Ask any journalist, and they will tell you the phrases above mean a hot story right off the press. The Em Vee Hi, Mount Vernon's newspaper, worked to bring these words to life in each monthly issue.

The paper grows out of the Journalism class, taught by Mrs. Julie Wilson, and included first through third year students. All these students gained "hands-on" experience by writing and revising news stories, features, and editorials.

While all thirty-one students contributed written work, it was the editorial staff, made up of students with more than one year of experience, who made the copy a finished reality.

"Our job as editors," explains Co-Editor-in-Chief Kaley Middlebrooks, "is to take single stories and turn them into pages . . . complete with headlines, pictures, and graphics. It's how these elements are laid out that determines if your work is going to grab someone's attention."

Grab attention the paper did—this fact proven by the newspapers first place award from the Virginia High School League and second place recognition from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

But it's not just contest results that show the hard work paid off, Krissy Mullen, the other Co-Editor-in-Chief states, "When students and teachers reacted to what they read in the paper, either through letters to the editor or classroom debate, you knew you produced something good."

Scott Mason ponders awhile for a catchy headline. Debating an issue are Robert Bunker and Jennifer Ocean.

Co-Editor-in-Chief Kaley Middlebrooks relates to the class her approval of this issue of The Em Vee Hi.

Look Out!

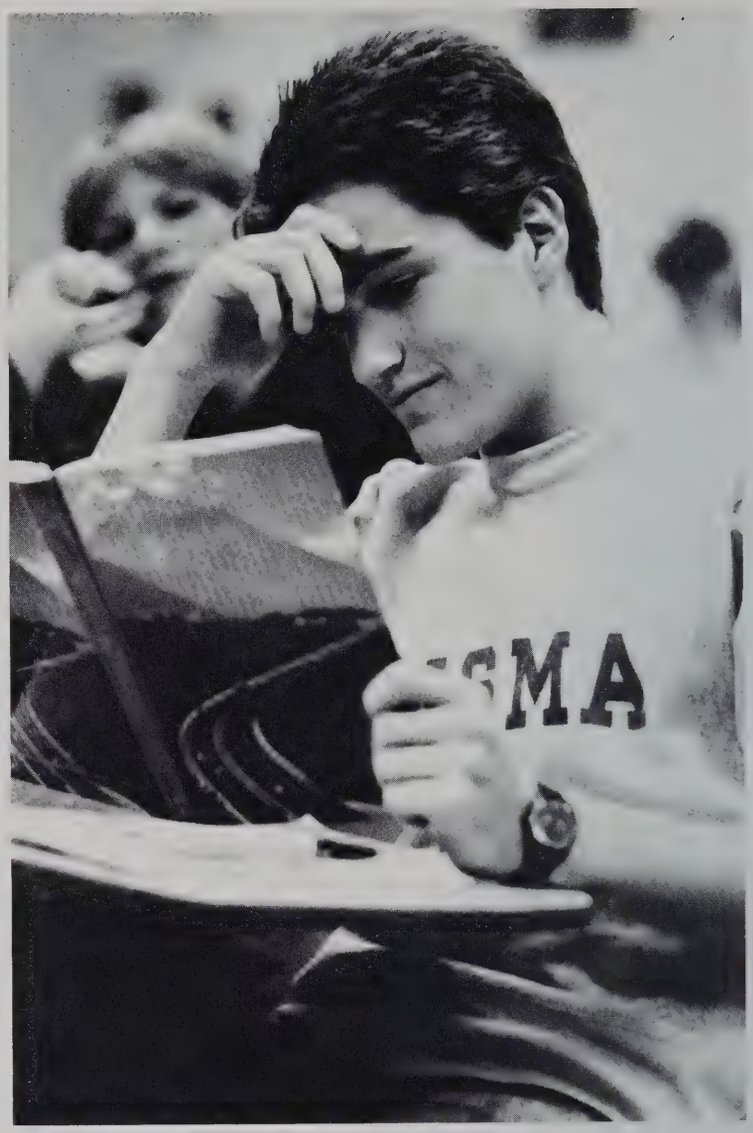
Varrrooomm! Sophomores all over MV were getting their licenses. In preparation to obtain these licenses, they had to get trained in the classroom and on the roads. Both types of training were offered here at MV. Mr. Slack taught students about the laws of driving and IPDE- Identify, Predict, Decide and Execute- which are the basics for defensive driving. Students learned about driving in adverse conditions and how to handle emergency conditions.

The on-the-road portion of the training was taught by Mr. Lam and Mr. Fox. In most cases the requirement of 14 hours was completed in 7 sessions. The driving range provided a place for those students who were just beginning their driver's training.

On January 1, 1988, the seatbelt law in Virginia went into effect. All front seat passengers are required to wear seatbelts. Mr. Slack felt that the importance of seatbelts could not be emphasized enough.

Many area schools have lost a number of students because either they were driving drunk or someone else was. Auto accidents are the leading cause of death for teenagers. In Driver's Education class, students learned about the injuries, not just the deaths, that have been, and could be, caused by drunk driving accidents. This year, there was a lot of emphasis put on not riding with people who have been drinking; being a passenger is just as dangerous as driving drunk yourself. Police officers came in and informed students of the procedures taken by Virginia police officers over someone they suspect is under the influence of alcohol.

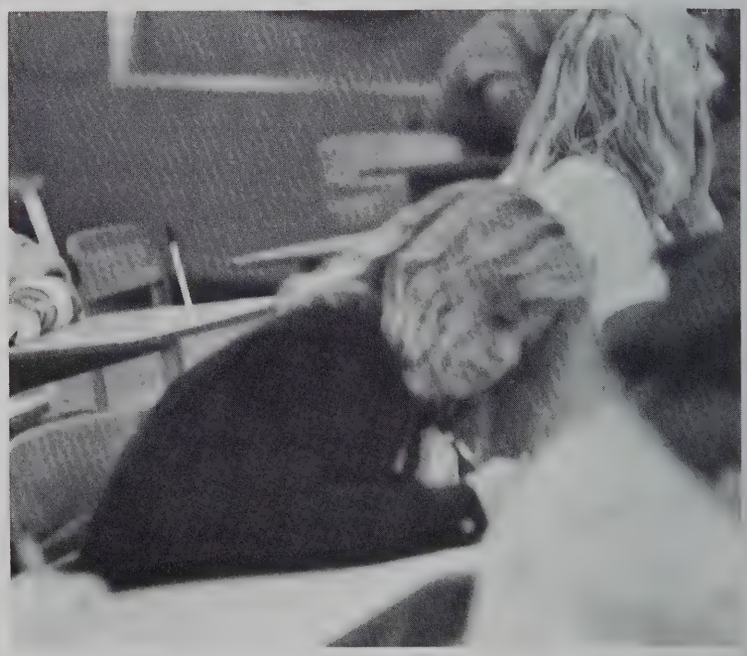
Interesting projects were made by students based on what they had learned. Newspaper articles about area accidents were read and reviewed. Students learned that driving is a responsibility as well as a privilege. For many it was something earned through good grades.



Reading through the many laws of driving, Steve Pratt realizes there's much to learn.

"If You Remember Anything, Wear Your Seatbelt."

-Mr. R. Slack



Mastering the Driver's Ed. final, Heather McCulluck is determined to get that license.

"So, what do you think, Laura? True or false?" Angela Dorr asks Laura Blackner.

Listen To Us Now Entertainment At MV

Mount Vernon students can make beautiful music with each other. Whether it was the hum of a violin, the beat of a drum, or the sound of a student's voice, students found ways to express their talents.

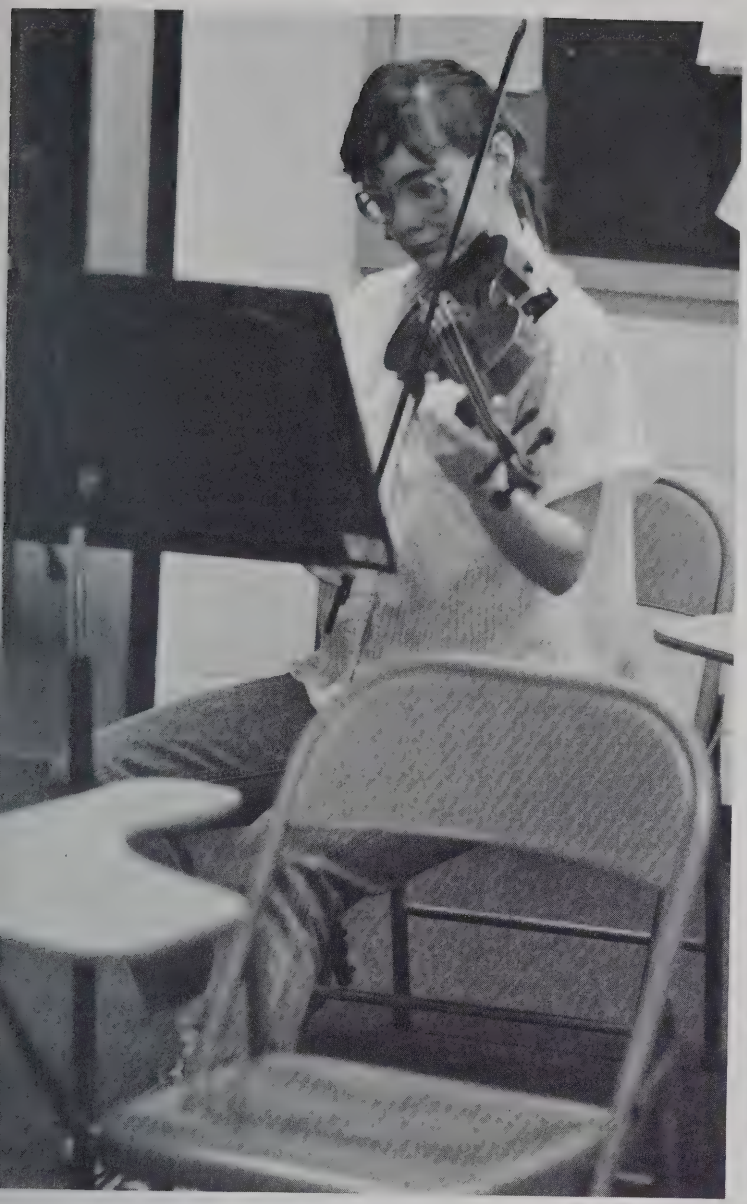
There were various types of performance groups, such as Concert and Symphonic Bands, as well as Concert Choir and Madrigals. These groups were taught as a class; however, many smaller and more specialized groups worked together in the after-school hours.

Many ensembles were formed to perform at extracurricular activities. At Christmas time, groups from all musical areas performed at Beacon Mall in order to raise money for the Performing Arts Department. Music classes taught students to read and perform various types of music, ranging from seasonal to classical.

Music groups entered many competitions with prepared and sight-reading competitions. All groups received excellent marks in their respective areas.

Under the direction of Mr. Walker are Dawn Carroll, Jeff Queen, and Belinda Rodriquez, three dedicated drummers.

Chris Cannavaro will not be out blown by a bunch of girl musicians.



Lauren Montgomery, Eleanor Ferguson, and their fellow Madrigols gather around the piano for an old-fashioned sing-along.

"Practice, practice, practice," thinks Julie Meadows.

Betty Jo Murane and Carrie Janssen show the togetherness of the close-knit choral family by singing a meledious note.

"Is that a c sharp or b flat," ponders Noelle Valley.

The Art Of Communicating

French, Latin, German Honor Societies And Clubs

Many students have a genuine interest in languages such as Latin, German and French.

These students formed clubs that represented their desire to learn more about the particular language. All students may join these clubs as long as they are presently taking the language or have completed one year of the respective tongue. Students got together and held fundraisers to raise money for field trips taken throughout the year. The German Club and Latin Club are as above, but the Club Cinq is for students who are currently in their fifth year of French.

How often did they meet? Whenever was convenient for the majority.

Those students who maintained an "A" average in their respective languages were inducted into THAT particular honor society. Some of these participants were lucky enough to travel to France or Germany during the spring break. This gave students more educated thoughts on the language and how to use it.

Clubs For All

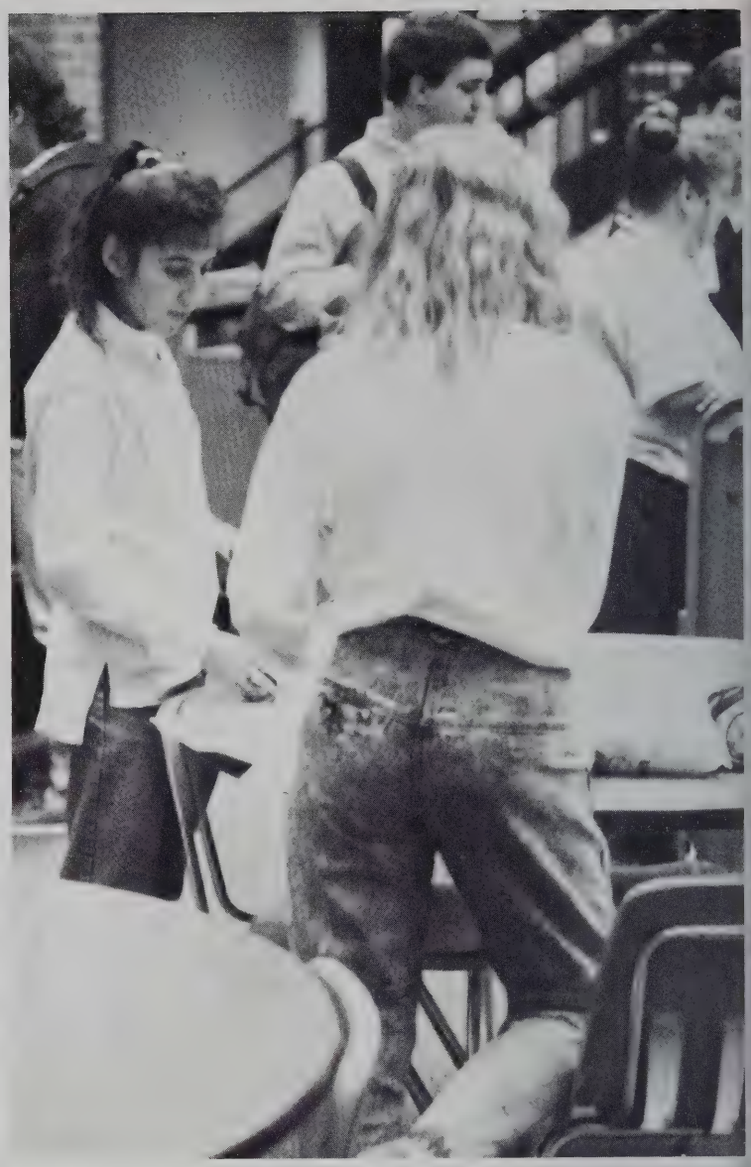
They're For Everyone

The Korean Club is a culture interest group open to all Mount Vernon students. It's purpose was to help bridge the gap between the Korean culture and the American culture. The club sponsored picnics and games. Members helped staff in translating. They met on every second and fourth Wednesday at 2:15.

Stage Lighting set up the lighting for many of the musicals and plays. In addition, they handled other large events in the Little Theater as well as Graduation.

The Video Club members taped many school activities, both curricular and extracurricular. They also produced their own productions and entered them in video contests.

The Spanish Honor Society members were required to tutor one hour a week the past year. They helped the underclassmen who took Spanish.



Sally Pickering dreams about her future with Spanish.

Where It All Counts

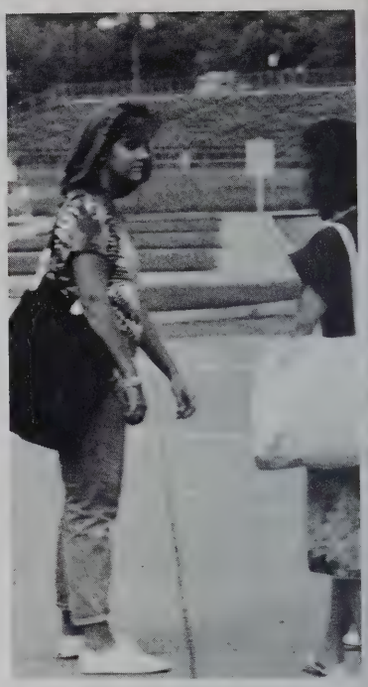
Jr. Math Team, Sr. Math Team, Nat'l Honor Society, Math Honor Society

The Senior Math Team competed with other schools in the area, and sometimes even out of the area, for awards for excelling in team mathmatics. Students met monthly to take a small test (usually about ten questions) and the best scores were totaled and sent in to compete.

The Junior Math Team followed the same proceedure as the Senior math team, but most of the members were sophomores. Many juniors, however, competed until they were skilled enough to move up to the Senior Team. This competition has been compared to a Junior Varsity sport.

The National Honor Society helped to recognize the leaders in our school. These students maintained a 3.5 (B+) average and had to be willing to lend a hand to students who needed assistance in all educational areas by tutoring a minimum of twenty hours. Students were inducted after being chosen by teachers and counselors. Dr. Betty Lindholm was the sponsor and Neil Butt was the president. Inductions are held semi-annually.

The Math Honor Society requirements were the same, but the group focused on mathmatics only.



These students confer with each other about the answers they had on their Jr. Math Team test.

Mixing Education With Morals

F.C.A., HERO, FBLA, "It's Academic"

"Sorry Mr. Young, I didn't go to F.C.A last night!"exclaims senior Katy Symms.

The organization of Fellowship of Christian Atheletes is not a religious education class nor is it a social club. The members of this group are atheletes who want to share their beliefs and contribute how they help them in sports. Mr. Gary Young was the sponsor and the club enjoyed special projects such as Christmas caroling and weekend retreats.

The HERO club is affiliated with the Home Economics department. The students are usually enrolled in Child Development or Single Living. In the fall the students went to Riverside Elem. and taught kids how to have a safe Halloween.

Future Business Leaders of America is one of the fastest growing clubs at M.V. More students are taking business courses to help them in our competitive world.

What is the capital of Nepal? Confused? Well, I bet Neil Butt, Thomas Webster, and Warren Griffith could tell you. These men represented MVHS on "It's Academic," the locally televised quiz show. Many study sessions were held after school with their sponsor, Mrs. Rufty.

Wondering what she got hers into, Martha Heyden is the found and president Of The Bio Intere Club.

MV's Own Einsteins

Plant, Bio II, Bio Interest And Chemistry Club

The four science clubs in Mount Vernon were organized for those who wish to know more than they are taught in the classrooms. The science clubs have been a popular part of Mount Vernon's extra-curricular activities; and, with a new club to add, the science department is growing stronger than ever.

The Biology Interest Club was organized last year by junior Martha Heyden. "I just wanted a biology club that anyone with an interest in biology could participate in," says Heyden. The idea proved to be a good one. With 27 members, the Biology Interest club actively participated in Mount Vernon's science department, and, with the help of sponsor Mrs. Hatch, the club planned activities involving out-of-the-classroom experience in biology.

The Bio II Club furthers the interest of AP Biology students in biology related fields. The club maintained the members interests through creative projects and field trips dealing with biology. As in previous years, the entire club spent a weekend on Wallop's Island where they had a chance to use the information taught in the classroom.

Got a green thumb? Mount Vernon's Plant Club was organized to keep it's plant loving students happy working in the greenhouse and in the courtyard.

One of the school's largest groups, Mount Vernon's Chemistry Club is for those people who posess an interest in chemistry. Members were kept busy organizing club activities and tutoring all those students in need of extra help in chemistry.

Jodi Ledbetter stops to smell the roses.

Mr. Sanders keeps a watchful eye over his class while they take a test.

Performance Counts Both Ways

Key Club, DECA, SADD, And Thespian Society

The Key Club is a select organization. To qualify a student must have at least 15 hours of volunteer work. These members have participated in various projects, such as adopt-a-grandparent. SADD speaks for itself-they solicit support against drunk driving. DECA members are enrolled in classes involved in fashion, marketing, radio broadcasting, and more. One of the more prominent events was the employer-employee banquet. Chosen students were invited to compete in the DECA district contest at Fair Oaks Mall. Participants of the Thespian Society had to accumulate so many points (by performing in M.V. plays) and then were inducted. All of these groups gave a lot of time and effort. All of the students worked together to conquer many projects and helped to entertain the community.

These students converse quietly so they do not disturb others.

Striving For Excellence

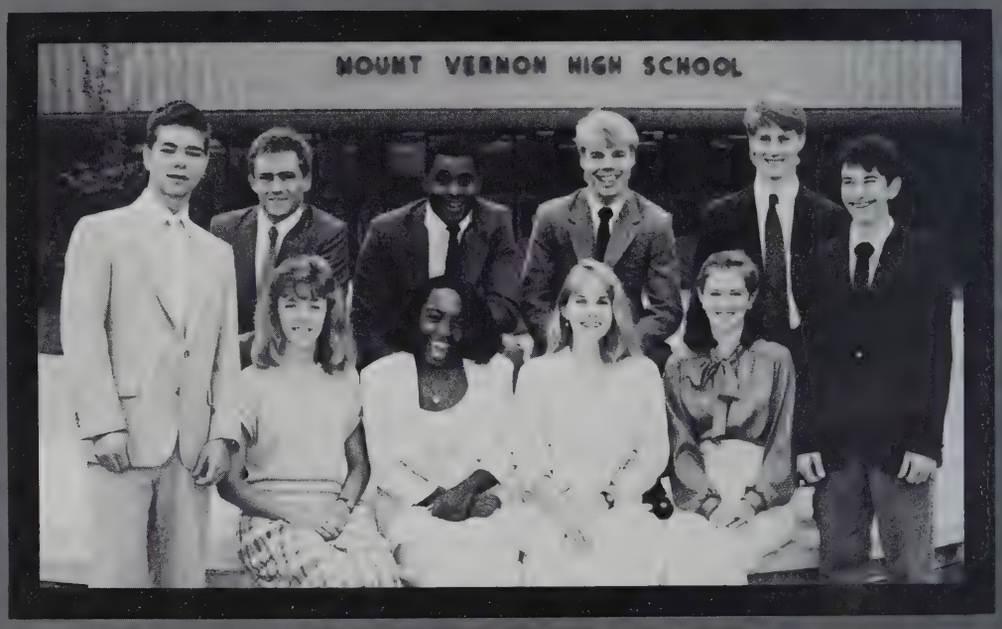
SGA And SAC Work To Improve MV In All Areas

This year's Student Government, headed by President Eric Weis, worked to raise student involvement to the level it was a few years ago. In order to get the students more involved, committees were created to communicate with more people.

Eric Weis also headed the School Improvements Committee which discussed painting new murals and designing a graffiti board. Todd Harris tried to involve more students in school activities with his Spirit Committee. The Academic Achievement Committe, headed by Donna Buddenhagen, recognized high academic achievers by passing out chocolate to A students each marking period. The Interacial Committee led by Greg Harris, helped bridge the gap between the many different cultures in MV. Sharon Parsons headed the Public Announcements Committee. Its purpose was to make sure students knew of al school activities during and after school.

Another idea for keeping students involved was to get representatives from each class who would meet with the SGA periodically and then report information back to ther classes.

The Student Advisory Council led by Jerry Kelley, also met periodically to discuss school progress and needed improvements.



Girls' State Representatives: Alicia Dow, Shaconna Haley, Michelle Schorr, Christie Scanlin, Boys' State Representatives: Doug Minson, Jimmy Whalen, Mike Huckaby, Greg Harris, Eric Weis, Jared Ferris.

The Mount Vernon representatives joined 1500 other outstanding high school Juniors at Girls' and Boys' State last summer. Chosen for their good character, leadership ability, scholarship records, their desire to serve, and their loyalty as American citizens, the representatives spent a week learning about government by participating in a mock Virginia legislature. The intent of the program is to better prepare these young leaders to uphold the ideals of our democracy.

Keeping The Winning Tradition

Mount Vernon Festival Chorus At Their Best

The MVHS Choral Department was extremely busy this entire year. Auditions for GODSPELL began the second week of school. Mrs. McConnell directed a cast made up mostly of choral department members. The show, held at the end of October, was wonderful.

The following week, the choir members participated in a joint concert with West Potomac High School.

Then on to the holiday season; what a time! The choral groups sang in more than 30 performances from Thanksgiving to Winter Break. Whew!

After the first of the year, the choristers dove into serious contest literature and on to many performances. They represented Mount Vernon at County Choral Festival with five groups: a large number and a successful day.

From Festival it was on to contests at Busch Gardens and Tampa, Florida. The choral majors excelled and continued their winning tradition. They ended the year with their traditional Spring Frolics Concert. All in all, it was a year of many performances, successes, and growth for the Mount Vernon Choral Department.

Marching With Major Pride

The Mount Vernon Marching Majors Show It Off

The year, 1987-1988, saw the Marching Majors continue with their successful past. The band took first place or grand champion honors at all contests in the fall, except for the infamous "West Chester Contest." Grand Championship honors included the "Liberty Classic" at W.T. Woodson, and Woodbridge High School's "Viking Invitational." The Marching Majors took first place at the Oakton High School show.

In addition, the band was the featured half-time entertainment at the January 17th Redskins-Vikings NFC Championship game. Cold hands and chilly toes did not stop the band from giving their all, and Carrie Janssen may have a future in interview backgrounds!

This year's band was led by directors Mr. Stan Schoonover and Mr. Jay Walker, along with the following students: Drum Major, Chris Cannavaro, Assistant, Heather Leach, Flag Captain, Betty Jo Murane, Co-Captains Carrie Janssen, Krissy Mullen, Kaley Middlebrooks. The rifle captains were Bonnie Kelso and Molly McFillen. The Drill Team was led by Captain Sally

Expressions Through Paper

The Newspaper Staff And Quill & Scroll

Where else can you get the inside scoop on what's happening in school and have fun doing it? Welcome to the EM VEE HI. A staff of about 30 people was guided by co-editors Kaley Middlebrooks and Krissy Mullen. The M.V. paper released 10 issues this school year. All members of the staff were enrolled in Journalism 6th period. "It's a lot of hard work and a lot of deadlines, but the end product was worth it!", commented Kaley.

Students with a minimum 3.5 GPA are eligible for induction into the Quill & Scroll Honor Society.

The Surveyor Creators

Memory Makers At Their Finest!

After starting in September, the yearbook staff worked diligently producing the 1987-88 Surveyor. The theme, chosen this year by Editor Krista Green, was "Take a Look at Us Now". As usual, MVHS had a very eventful year which meant there was a lot to cover. From Academics to Sports, Faculty to Student Life, the staff covered it all.

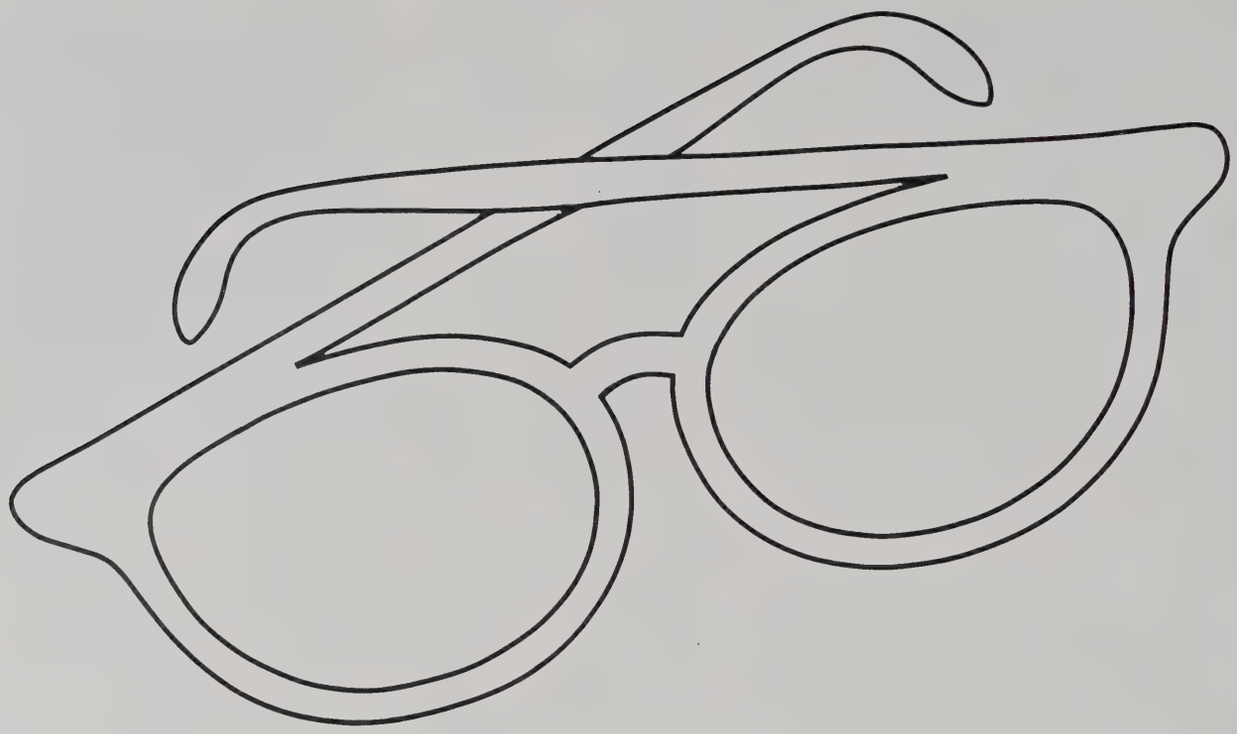
The pressure came around every week before a deadline. Delayed pictures and unexpected set backs were sources of stress for the staff. Missing any deadline would result in a delay of the completion of the yearbook. During the year, there were about six deadlines containing over fifty pages each. As one can see, there was a lot to producing this yearbook.

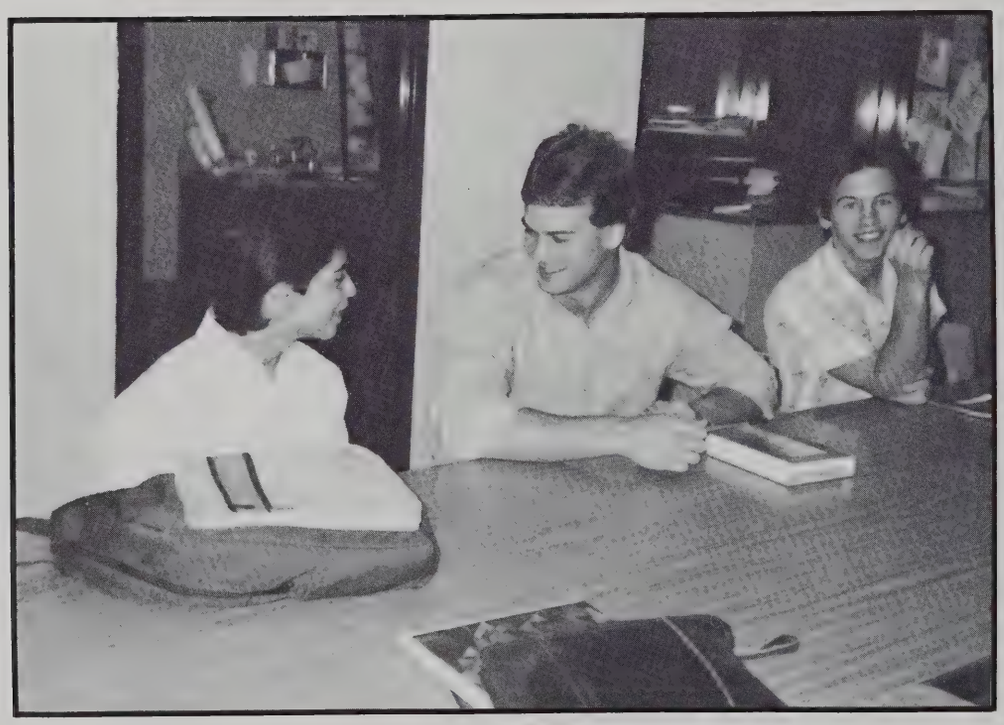
This year the yearbook staff made good use of the computer. Carl Rush, the Student Life Editor, was an experienced programmer who taught others to use the computer properly. The typewriter also was quite useful in producing this year's book. Hundreds of copysheets and layout sheets were used by the staff for the production. Like anything else, these things cost money.

In order to produce this year's Surveyor, the staff had to raise over thirty thousand dollars. Under the spirited new advisor, Suzanne Clark, the staff sold ads, held the Mr. Mt. Vernon contest, and sold Boo-Bags to raise the money needed. Through hard work and extra hours, the staff worked to preserve on paper the reasons why this year the sun shone so brightly in the halls of MV High.

Busy with upcoming deadlines, Monique and Penny work continuously.

Sally Pickering perfects her work while relaxing on the floor.





Seniors

'Twas the day before graduation and all through the school, the anxiety was high for a great celebration.

We made it through those long, tough years and now the end drew near.

We were once those freshmen, mild and meek but now we have reached our peak.

The epitome of spirit we set; two sweeps of Homecoming to prove it.

Busy as beavers we were it's true, there was always SOMETHING to do.

The college acceptance letters began to arrive, the feeling of nervousness was hard to describe.

The Proms and Alphas were a fancy affair, staying out to the wee hours of the morning if you dare.

As seniors we have set an example.

Good luck class of 1988, you're a hard act to follow.

Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW!

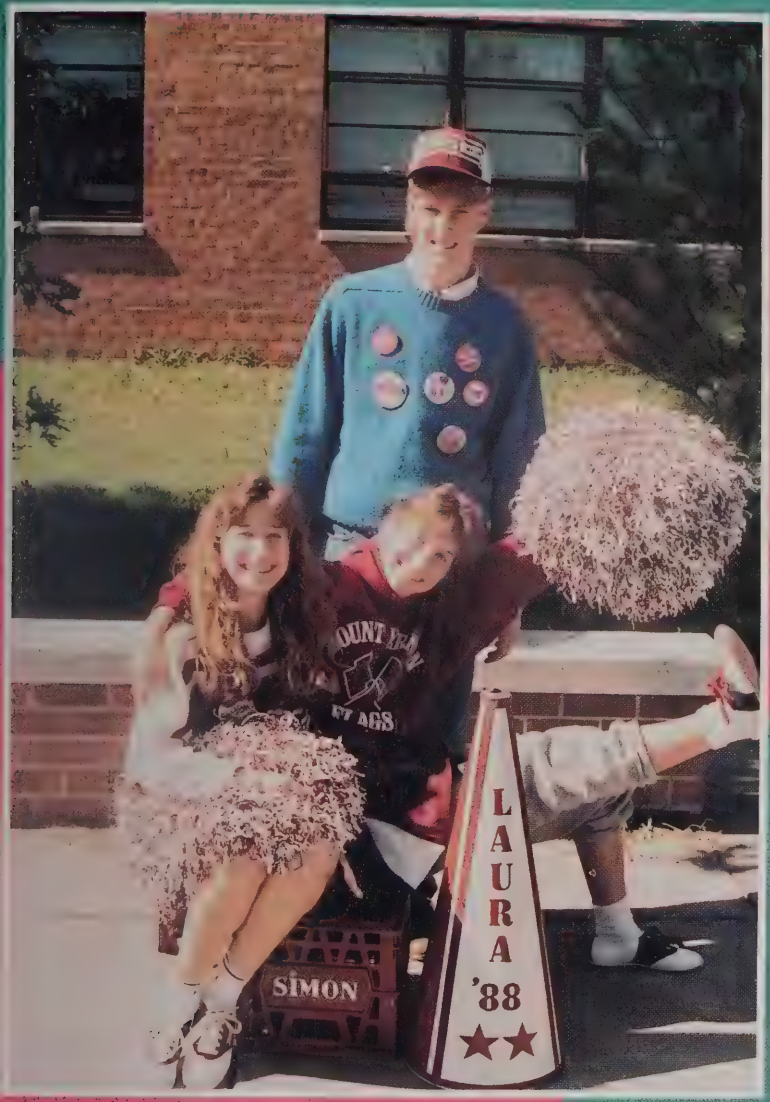
The Best Of '88

"So what are you trying to say?" Shannon Quinn and Jimmy Cieutat argue it out as Most Talkative.

"Can't you just be serious for a minute?" asks Lea Maier to Todd Harris posing for Class Clowns.

Biggest Egos, Gerard Schwenk, and Jenny Reutershan, can't seem to get enough of themselves.

Trying to make people happy, Jimmy Whalen and Katy Syn are the Friendliest.



Most Spirited, Eric Weis, Laura Middlebrooks, and Kaley Middlebrooks entice the crowd.

"I dare you to come a little closer," threatens Most Progressive Cathy Vardiman.

"Do you think I'll make enough to get a Gold Card?" asks Susan McClesky to Mark Priest as Most Likely to Succeed.

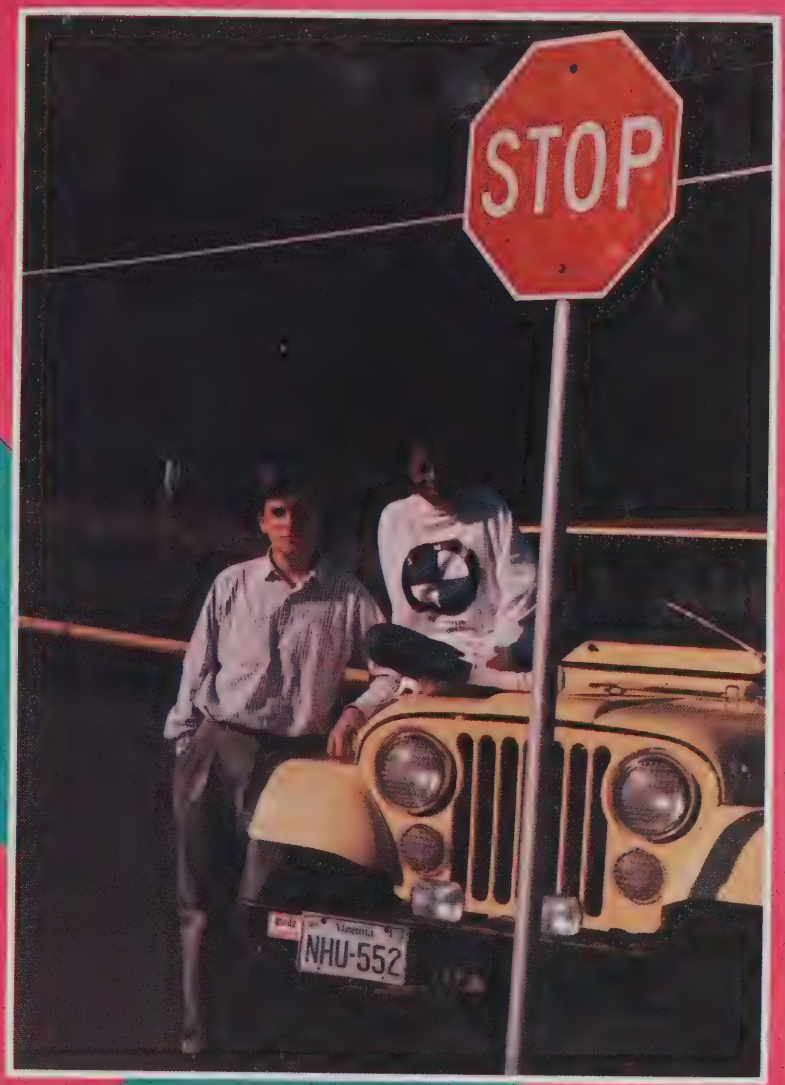
"Hey big stud take me or lose me forever," says Lauren Montgomery to Rob Bunker as Biggest Flirts.

"Can you repeat the question?", asks Charise Henderson to Frank Fra setto, as Most Confused.

Voted Most Athletic, Sharon Parsons and Shane Scott, represent MV with pride.

You've got that look! April Harvey and Jeff Schwaninger pose as Most Attractive.

The picture shows it all- Steve Hardeman and Mandy Kendall have the Best Bods.



"If you don't like our driving, then stay off the sidewalk," comment Steve Jackson and Tanya Wilson as Biggest Threats to Pedestrians.

Sharon Parsons and Jimmy Whalen are the class of '88's Best All-Around.

"Chuck, can you believe it's only five dollars?" asks Tran Vu to Chuck Beaumont as Most Gullible.

The picture shows it all- Steve Hardeman and Mandy Kendall have the Best Bods.

For your eyes only! Laura Kerlin's and Mike Ob meyer's Best Eyes glimmer for the camera.

Holding on to the good times together, Alicia Doe and Brent Hill are Cutest Couple.

"I promise I'll pay you back tomorrow," says Steve Senkus to Kim Jessee as the Biggest Mooches.

Ultra Bright gets you noticed. Cutest Smilers Jana Swanson and Mike Huckaby know so.

Expressing themselves with style, Brandon Ashby and Julie White pose for Best Dressed.

"Will you hurry up and get this over with!" plead Allison Brothers and Pierre Jones as Biggest Complainers.

Catch That Senior Spirit

The Pep Jug Comes Home

Seniors have done it again! In the annual Homecoming festivities, the seniors finished with a near sweep except for a controversial "disqualification" during the skit. By repeating last year's winning ways, the Class of '88 stretched their winning record to 3-1 to complete a three year sweep. Events like these certainly make the "sun shine in the Senior Lockerbanks at MV High". These victories would not have been possible without the time, leadership, and organizations of the class officers: pres. Christie Scanlin, vice-pres. Adina Gittens, sec./treas. Judi Bennett, and senators Mary Barton, Jimmy Whalen, and Becca Gaskin.

Preparing for the pep rally, senior rah-rahs Jana Swanson and Sara Michaels smile for the camera.

During the skit, Travis Teale displays his disappointment at being disqualified.

Senior Beach Week '88

Fun in the Sun

"Look at their sunburns," says Mike Huckaby about Pete Bergen and Paul Freeman.

Webster defines the word summer as "the time between spring and autumn." For SENIORS, summer took on a different meaning. No longer did you have to await the drudgery of another year of high school because, as the popular slang goes . . . "You're History!" Although you and your friends planned to go separate ways, there was still time to catch some rays and to have a good time. What better place or time to get the good times rolling than "Senior Beach Week!"

Can't you just smell it now, the tropical suntan lotion, a number 4 for those tanned babes and number 15 for those who spent one too many hours in the library. You can also hear the ocean waves slapping against the beach and the laughter of the people enjoying the summer sun.

Partying was not limited to beach houses because once you smelled the aroma of the Boardwalk delicacies, your mouth said, "There is a party going on in here."

Sadly the week came to an end but we had our memories. We'd captured our memories in pictures, thoughts, and, don't forget those special souvenirs-tee shirts, keychains, and buttons. But the biggest souvenir from the beach that we all shared was . . . SUNBURN!

Perfecting her style for the upcoming Olympics, Tiffany Froman skis with determination.

A Step Above The Rest

Senior Pride Intensified

One of the Merrymen, Ian Powell prepares for the skit.

After four years of high school, the seniors deserved to have a little pride. They've been through freshmen year, they've struggled through classes, and most of them managed to maintain some sort of social life through it all.

They captured the right to use the word "underclassmen" without hesitation, and survived the pressures of high school.

The seniors brought great spirit and dedication to the halls of Mt. Vernon. Now that they have reached the top, they can put our past behind us and look towards the future.

Senioritis Strikes MV

Underclassmen Seem Immune

Every teacher said he wouldn't allow it, every administrator tried to stop it; their efforts were worthless though. Every year after Christmas even the most studious seniors were hit by an infection of epidemic proportions...Senioritis (also called Senior Slump). This virus quickly made its way to the brain of the defenseless seniors where it attacked the attention span and memory.

The symptoms of this infection were sleeping in class, forgetting assignments, arriving late for class, and sometimes forgetting to arrive at class at all. These affects wore off around 2:00 p.m. on school days and didn't seem to surface at all on weekends and holidays. Test results showed that the immune system's natural reaction to this virus was to go into a mode of self-destruct. This included partying nonstop, loss of self-respect, and total disregard of authority. This proved that nature is always right, for around September 1st the senior (now college freshman) miraculously snapped out of his trance-like state and began preparing for the start of fall classes.

Senioritis strikes this senior English class.

Some of the missing students are found napping in the senior courtyard.

Jeff Schwaninger

The New Kid In Town

Having only been at Mount Vernon for two years, Jeff Schwaninger has made quite a name for himself. Jeff moved to Virginia during the summer of '86 from Jackson, New Jersey.

At Mount Vernon he was quickly accepted and had no problems making new friends. He added, "I'm very happy with my move here, Mr. Match, my teachers, coaches, and especially my friends have made it very easy to settle in."

He's been an above average student, maintaining a B+ average throughout high school. Jeff participated in many extracurricular activities including: FBLA, Senior Math Team, and he was a United Way Youth Ambassador. Also, at Jackson High School he was class president his freshman and sophomore years.

When he wasn't budgeting his time between his many activities he was on the soccer field. He lettered both years at Jackson on a championship team, and he was a major contributor to the Majors Varsity Team. Also, during the offseason he played on select traveling teams. Although soccer was his major sport he also enjoyed waterskiing, weightlifting, and pick-up games in all sports.

Looking ahead, Jeff would like to attend The University of Virginia in the fall.

Checking out the girls, Jeff is mesmerized by the new prospects.

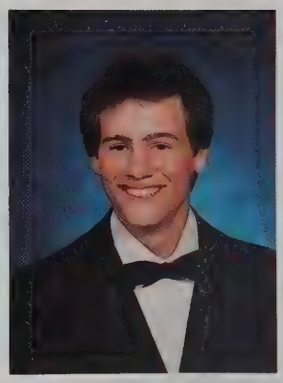
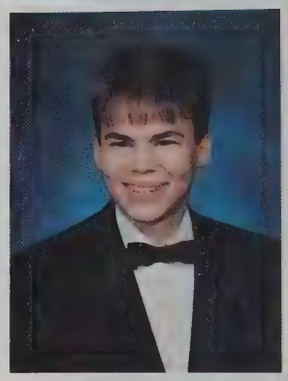
Here's To Good Times

Weekends Are Something Special

It was a relief to students when the final bell rang on Friday afternoon. The books were thrown into the lockers for two relaxing days. The weekend usually began right after school when friends got together to make plans for the night; usually a game or a party was decided on. Some seniors were found in Old Towne, at the movies, or at a little get together at someone's house. But if there was a big party going on, there was no doubt that everyone would be there dancing, maybe even a few brave freshmen.

The seniors had the most fun over the weekends just being with each other. It was the final year of sharing good times together so they made the most of the weekends. Whether skiing, going to the beach, or just hanging around, the seniors definitely let loose and had a good time!





Busted! Rob Bunker assumes "the position."

"Honestly officer, I thought the speed limit was 95!"

That's What Friends Are For

Can't Live With Them, Can't Live Without Them

Have you ever wondered what high school would be without friends? The friends we made in high school were more than special; they were a lifetime of memories. For the last four years the friends cried and laughed together. Through tears and fears, they stood by each other and formed unbreakable bonds.

When August rolls around and they have to depart, their bonds will be put through the test. The memories they made today will last forever. They were there when the other needed someone to talk to or a shoulder to cry on. Like the old slang goes "Friends are Forever". And as a chapter in our life ended, a new one began. So, thank a friend for who they are, because nothing can ever replace a true friend.

Helping injured QB Mark Palmisano up the stairs are Afshin Mobasher and Chuck Beaumont.

"We're so happy together," says Sheri Davis and Susan Conners.

Leaders of "The Pack"

Senior Supervisors

Subschool IV
Principal - John Nottingham
A - K Counselor - Carl Schloemer
L - Z Counselor - Oscar Match
Secretary - Hannah Miles

The class of 1988 saw many new faces come in, and sadly, many people leave the Sub-school. Throughout our four years at Mt.Vernon we have had three different secretaries: Mrs.Rice, Mrs.Kandt, and Mrs.Miles,and two different principals: Mr.Propps and Mr.Nottingham. Despite these changes, everything has always flowed smoothly thanks to the staff's always being there to meet our needs.

We were all sad to see Mr.Propps leave in 1986, but Mr.Nottingham has filled his shoes better than we imagined. It was nice to know he was always there if someone got lost on the way to lunch and ended up at McDonald's. We were especially lucky to have Mr.Schloemer and Mr.Match behind us to shuffle our schedules around when needed, and to help us prepare to apply and finally enter college. Hats off to Mrs.Miles for being able to come into our sub-school in the most chaotic year and keep everything running nicely. Thanks a lot to you all!

The subschool crew pauses for a quick picture.

"How many people skipped?" questions Sheriff Nottingham and his deputies.

Busy writing transcripts, Mr. Carl Schloemer is rudely interrupted.

College

One of the Pressures

Finding help in the career center, Kristy Maddox gets her applications.

Having to prepare for college was a frightening experience for most Seniors. Many responsibilities came with it such as registering, taking SAT's and maintaining a good grade point average. Many Seniors had such a heavy load during the middle of the year trying to balance homework, extra-curricular activities, and filling out applications.

Most Seniors put off applying to colleges because they felt they had plenty of time. But time passed quickly and there was the usual panic to meet deadlines.

The goal of getting through high school was usually getting into college. It definitely is the place to have a good time and meet new friends, but a lot of hard work goes along with it. It's also a time to plan for the future. College may be frightening when the freshman year begins, when you feel all alone. After adjusting to the new atmosphere, you will realize that college is an enlightening experience.

The bulletin board on the fishbowl is the place to find critical information.

Making A Name For Herself

Sharon Parsons

Sharon gets ready to hit a homer during practice.

"Being successful means feeling good about yourself and being respected for the way you are," according to Sharon Parsons. There is no doubt that Sharon was successful. All you had to do was take a look at her high school record; it is quite impressive! How many people do you know who were on varsity softball and basketball since they were a freshman, in addition to being captain for many years and maintaining an outstanding GPA? Sharon was also the 1987-88 Secretary for the SGA. "I ran because just being involved wasn't enough, and you can only get out of it what you put into it." This past summer , Sharon was chosen to go to Govenor's School at the NASA Langley Research Center. She and forty other students from the state of Virginia spent six weeks at the center testing flight articles for the shuttle. Not your average summer for a seventeen year old, but then again, Sharon is not just an average girl!

For Sharon to be voted "Most Athletic" and "Best All Around" was no surprise to us. Athletics is a valuable quality in Sharon's life. "Some of it is natural ability, but most of it is just hard work." She loves to play team sports because she gets to know all different kinds of people and everyone works together towards a goal.

This reserved girl who moved here from Holland in her freshman year has taken Mt.Vernon by storm, and undoubtedly will find success in whatever lies ahead in her future. Right now she is thinking of a career in finance and general business by attending one of these competitive schools: Notre Dame, Syracuse, Wake Forest, or Villanova. This list just goes to show you that Sharon (alias -Madame Woo, Cabbage Patch Kid) continues to set high goals for herself. Her positive attitude and determination are attributes we all admired.

Working hard, "Cabbage Patch" looks up.

"Chubby Cheeks" makes the winning play.

Smiling as always, Sharon is ready for anything.

Senior Privileges

Seniors Feel Cheated in the End

"I'll trade you my peanut butter and jelly for your Oreos." Michelle Field, Rob Bunker, Gerard Schwenk, and Sara Michaels take advantage of the senior courtyard during lunch.

With the senior courtyard and the two minute headstart on lunch, did the seniors appear to be a little spoiled? Senior privileges are just a small part of being a senior, but many seniors felt that privileges should've been a bigger part of senior life. Many wished to see more privileges along with improvements to the ones they already had.

"I think the seniors like having the authority to be able to do what they want. Seniors like to be treated like adults, and we should be treated like adults. And I'd really like to see open campus lunch for seniors and juniors." stated Darren Duricka.

It is highly unlikely that open campus lunch will be added to the list of senior privileges because it is unlawful for Fairfax County schools to allow students to leave campus during school hours.

With or without open campus lunch, the seniors felt that their privileges were something that they had earned and deserved.

"We're all going our seperate ways soon, and we should have fun while we're together, and that's the whole point of senior privileges, to have fun while we're still together." said Carl Rush.

Those Were The Good 'Ol Days

The Way We Were

As graduation neared, our thoughts drifted back to that first day we arrived at Mt. Vernon High. We all remember those humiliating freshman experiences put upon us by the upper classmen. Our weekend life was usually spent at the football games, dances, or just going to the movies. Our first Homecoming was just the beginning for 88's class spirit. We earned the respect of the upper classmen by winning 2nd place overall in the Homecoming actives. Remember Major Man?

Our sophomore year finally arrived; no longer were we the "wimps" of the school. Most of us got our driver's license and we could say "goodbye" to the "Big Cheese." Homecoming was even more spectacular than our Freshmen year. "Snow White and the Seven Majors" carried us to the top and we took first place over- all. This wasn't the end to the '88 class spirit.

The Prom, class rings and finally becoming upper classmen were the highlights of our Junior year. We were just starting to think about colleges and SAT's. How can you ever forget Madame Woo, Ed Grimely and our landslide victory in overall Homecoming activities. That year brought many happy memories.

The year of 1988 arrived and we were now officially seniors. All of our high school years came to an end. We made long, lasting friendships that we'll remember for the rest of our lives. We have grown-up together and have learned a lot from each other. Now we will be going our seperate ways and our minds will be looking ahead into the future. Until we meet again at our reunion, good-bye for now.

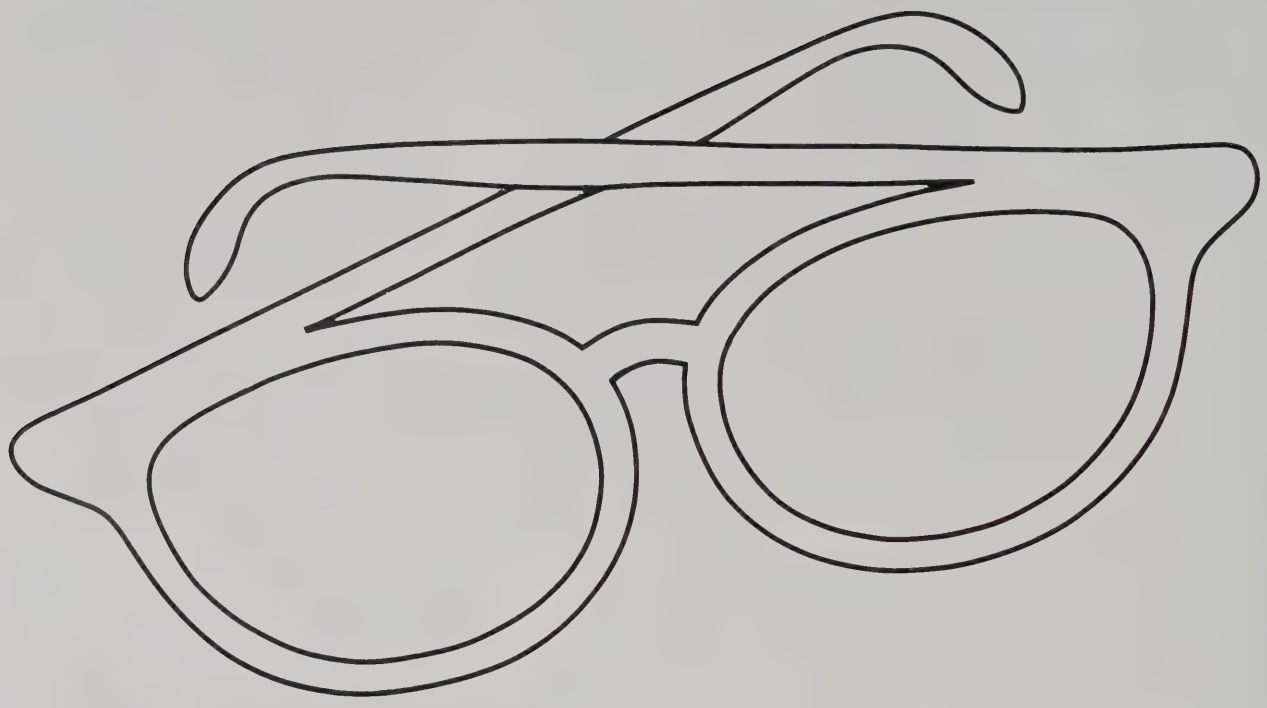
One Last Look At The Class Of '88



Juniors

"The mighty fine class of '89," Mr. Hill proclaimed it with adamant praise!

We carried much clout, but what truly made us stand out?

Was it the razzle and dazzle in the "Land of Oz," "easin' down the road" without any flaws?

Could it have been the participation in varsity sports - did you see that junior dribble down the court?

Was it academic excellence and test taking skills - American literature, $3H_2O$, and timed-writing drills?

Homecoming and Prom were fancy affairs, each prepared with great time and care.

The answer was clear - we worked as a whole to achieve our goal.

Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW!

ABSOLUTELY POSITIVELY MAJORISH

SPIRIT WEEK

It was a MAJOR HIP HOPIN',HAWAIIAN,TOGA week! This year's SPIRIT WEEK was a great turn-on.Many of the Juniors used that week to prove their MAJOR spirit by dressing up in all kinds of creative ways.

A special thanks to ROB SANCHEZ,AMALIA URIBE,KRISTI PRATT,JULIE BERTRAM,SCOTT PRICE, MONIQUE FILER,MELANIE MALERICH,MARCIA MAGILL, BINH LUU, CHRIS GRIGGS,CRYSTAL SIGNAL, BEVERLY BOGERTY,CHRIS VOELLER,TIM BURNS,AND TO ALL THE OTHERS who participated by displaying their creativity.

"Is there anything on under that toga?"

Walking through the halls, students commented on some of the outfits.One comment was,"Is there anything on under that toga?" Compliments were given to Melanie Malerich on her genuine letterman sweater-a real antique. Some teachers, including Mrs.Marino and Mrs.Hancock, who sported their favorite bed-time sleepers,also showed their spirit.Yet when it came to TOGA DAY or HAWAIIAN LUAU DAY,there was nary a brave teacher in a sheet or grass skirt...oh well, maybe next year.

Showing off their creative outfits, juniors showed their spirit in many ways.

Having fun, goofing off and standing out from the crowd was the objective during spirit week.

AN UNHAPPY ENDING FOR THE JUNIOR'S MAJOR CITY

"We're off to see the wizard...",so the story went.The Junior class eased their way down the maroon brick road to an impressive second place in almost all homecoming events.The hard work paid off as the festivities came together with a bang.

The well known story "The Wizard of Oz" was the Junior class' theme for the homecoming festivities this past year. Along with having the responsibilities of putting together all homecoming activities, they managed to put together a great skit and theme related float which were creative and entertaining to everyone. The wallhanging and locker decorations were also well done.

Sarah Carlson and Jennifer Donellan represented the junior class on the homecoming court as princesses. Steve Thomas and Glenn Eickenhorst were our class princes.

"Auntie, tell the story about Dorothy,Toto and the Wizard of Oz one more time,please!" cries Amy to Aunt Kimmie even though she knows it's past her bed time.

"Which way is it to Oz?," questions Dorothy. The scarecrow replies suddenly out of nowhere with,"Oz is that-a-way!Just follow the maroon brick road."

BIG WIGS

The Class of '89 showed excellent leadership. Doug Cowan lead the Juniors to success with great fund raising ideas and an abundance of school spirit. This past year was a great one to remember;homecoming,prom and all the other activities went very smoothly even though it was hectic.Christy Winkler,vice-president,Allyson Ocean,Secretary/Treasurer,Shawn Bruns,Noelle Valley,and Scott Price filled the positions of senators. All met and fullfilled the qualifications of their offices. Noelle's ability to coordinate the half-time festivities at Homecoming proved her dedication to the class. Fellow officers,Allyson and Shawn worked along side of Noelle throughout the year.Working well with Mr.Hill and other faculty members, Christy kept communication lines open between students and adult.Scott Price kept everyones' spirit up with his light wit and crazy anecdotes. When Scott Price talks...people listen!

"Class officers for the junior class worked hard!"

Doug,Christy,and Allyson give a smile of thanks for a great year.

Some say three's a crowd, but not Shawn, Noelle, and Scott.

Uplifting Shockwave

Remember the days when you just couldn't wait to wear a VARSITY uniform or have a VARSITY letterman sweater/jacket? Well, for most Juniors,this past year was their year for showing off those uniforms.

"It was a shock!", exclaimed Monique Filer as she remembered back to the first big event Friday,"I was walking through our lockerbank looking for some friends,and all I saw was the word VARSITY everywhere."

> "...all I saw was the word Varsity everywhere."

On every game day, athletes could be seen wearing parts of their uniform just to prove they were a part of that evening's event.Not only on game days would an athlete be seen with their uniform,but on other days they had sweats or t-shirts advertising their sport.

Next year,will the word VARSITY still be flaunted or will the athletes now have to prove what the title really means...?

"Varsity wrestling is just as tough," explains Lee after a match.

Pile-In Let's CRUISE

For many Juniors,mopeds, bicycles,and skateboards are items that have been long since forgotten.Only in the hidden depths of a cluttered garage or a dark closet might one of these ancient artifacts be found.Something different had taken their place...the automobile!The "good ole" school bus had been shunned and Mom's and Dad's car had been adopted.

The size,style or color of the car were of little concern to newly licensed drivers.Just as long as it rolled, had a radio,had some room to pile some friends in,and wasn't on the verge of falling apart as it rolled over a hole in the road,it was enough.

"Shotgun,"a well known phrase,meaning,"I get the front seat!",could be heard throughout the Mount Vernon hallways when the 1:50 bell rang.

Desparate for a parking place, people park anywhere.

Out of a car,Gaea has to wait for Mom or Dad for the ride home.

Presenting . . . The Spirit Behind The Spirit

Remember the old nursery rhyme, "There was an old woman who lived in a shoe. She had so many children she didn't know what to do?" Relating the nursery rhyme to these two "Mothers," Mrs. Marino and Mrs. Hancock, was easy, but they definitely know what to do! "I can't help being a mother figure. I like teenagers-- you'd have to." Mrs. Marino commented. The two of them are alike in many ways. In the beginning they set out to counsel and guide our class leaders. Then they worked towards bringing our class together to the point where we were able to work as a team.Mrs. Hancock said,

"I can't help being a mother figure."

"I feel learning is team work and that we all have to work together to make it worth while. There are many really super students in the class; but, the class seems fragmented, so it hasn't yet reached its potential." Mrs. Marino eased our fears with, "We can relax in some ways and gear up in others -- lots of preparations for graduation, caps, gowns, and good-byes." "There should also be a sense of pride of the successes you've enjoyed. Getting a high school diploma after four years of hard work, a sense of love and loyalty to these important years you've spent at MV and the friends you've made,"; concluded Mrs. Hancock.

Achieving class unity gives the juniors strength and Mrs. M. and Mrs. Hancak a reason to smile.

STANDING THE TEST OF TIME

There are many different kinds of friendships within our class, but only certain ones have lasted and stood the test of time. A group of students who have been friends since grade school best illustrated our story of friends.

Penny Hamrick, Steven Kendall, Kim Bryan, and eleven others talked about friends. "Most people stick within their 'own' group," commented Steven Kendall. There is a new word around. The word is "fake" and it seems to exist in many friendships nowadays. Kim however, believes that "Friendships should be true, and friends shouldn't turn on each other."

Most students hope to keep their high school friendships and believe they will. "There are a lot more interesting people out there, but the friends we have now are the best." That's how Penny summed it all up. "Don't get us wrong; we believe in making new friends, but our friends just seem to be the closest." And there's nothing we like more than sticking together.

Stephanie, Jennifer, Laura, and Penny are enthralled by Mr. MV.

His look is different-you gotta take a second look at Brian Hill.

"I lost my hat. Have you seen it?" asks Jim nervously in panic.

A Look All Their Own

Mount Vernon students certainly exhibited a variety of fashions and styles this past year. Most students chose a fashion statement to fit the image they wish to portray, whether it be rock star, teenstar, punk rocker, fashion freak, or plain Janes. Some people liked to stand out, like Brian Hill, while others wanted to dress like Jim Noble otherwise known as the Prince of Darkness.

Although students often find it difficult to maintain their own style when they move to a new school, Juanita Pignanelli and Kendra Carrington resisted change. Both came to MV this year but neither changed her unique style of dress to "fit in" with a group.

Although there were many different styles of clothing and different people who wore them, there would have been even more "different" styles if the schools had let us wear certain things. There was even talk of a dress code. Just think, or imagine, these people changing their style of clothing for uniforms.

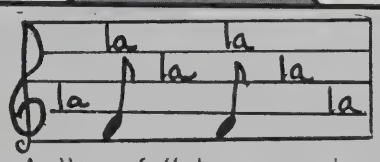
Sophomores



A "smurfy" homecoming one could see, the singing and dancing, was full of glee.

To raise class money, the pool barbecue was fun, even though at times we burned the buns.

From the meticulous dissecting of the fetal pig, we heard the beat of the square dancing jig.

As we sat "behind-the-wheel," out of the classroom, we put the pedal to the metal and began to vroom, vroom!!

Yet on the other hand, we did take heart, there were the DATs and PSATs to test our smarts.

To be an upperclassmen, that was our hope.

Next year will be tougher, we will learn to cope.

Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW!

One Step Ahead

Class Officers

The dedicated and spirited officers of the sophomore class worked hard to make it a better year for their class. Their president, Doug Anderson, commented with, "I think that the class has potential and it's the job of the officers to see that it is met." The class worked together with the outstanding leadership of the officers for a successful Homecoming. The officers organized many fundraisers to get ready for next year's prom. Some of these were selling painter's caps, t-shirts, sweatshirts and a candy sale. Helping Doug Anderson to accomplish these tasks were vice president Liz Warns, secretary/treasurer Bonnie Williamson, and senators Mary Jacobi, Kari Carroll, and Erin Kennealy. The class officers were very organized as they had many meetings to improve the sophomore class. With the help of Ms. Bratten, Mrs. Rice, Mr. Jones, Ms. Ashton, and especially Mrs. Nagelhout, the attendance at class meetings was greatly increased over the previous year. The spirit, enthusiasm, and dedication developed over the year as the officers cooperated and worked together. In conclusion, Doug Anderson felt that, "If the next two years are as successful as I felt this one was the whole class will graduate with pride and good memories."

A Smajor Event

Homecoming '87

The Sophomore class spent many long hours and hard work for this year's Homecoming. They displayed their class spirit and excitement at the pep rally and the football game. Everyone in the class worked together to help produce a first place skit and second place float. This year's theme for Homecoming was books. The sophomores chose "Smajors," taken from the comic book series the Smurfs. The skit was a good example of creativity and imagination on behalf of the sophomores. The float, carefully constructed under the supervision of senator Kari Carroll, was an excellent display of planned thought and ingenuity. The locker decorations and the wall hanging were an array of color and artistic ability. This year's Homecoming Court for the sophomores was composed of the four most popular people as elected by the class. The two princes were Andrew Obermeyer and Mark Gagan. These young men were also actively involved in the various Homecoming festivities. Angelina Gulino and Jill Johnson were the lovely princesses. The skit benefitted from the participation of Angie and Jill. Overall, the sophomore class showed a great improvement over last year's performance.

You Deserve A Break Week-end Life

A major part of a sophomore's life was going out on the weekends. "What's going on this weekend?," was one of the most asked questions. During the Fall there was always a football game to go to on Friday nights and afterward everyone piled into McDonalds. On Saturdays there were always parties to go to, movies to see, friends to visit, and various other things to do. This is what everyone did for the rest of the year, because everyone seemed satisfied doing the same thing weekend after weekend. Friday and Saturday nights were a welcome relief to the monotony of the school week. They were a break from the boring classes and the whining voices of the teachers. Sophs felt that the weekends were a time to have fun, do what they wanted to do, and to get away from all the problems of school.

The true meaning of togetherness is expressed by Chris Sammer, Sheridan Vail, Rob Travis, and Lisa Swain.

Profile: Liz Warns

Some people may think that with a brother like Chris Warns, little sister Liz may have to settle for second place, but not so. Liz, as the sophomore class vice president, has helped her class greatly with contributions in Homecoming and various fund raisers. The varsity hockey team also benefitted this year with the addition of Liz, one of the three sophomores on this years' team. Along with being class vice president and on the varsity hockey team, Liz was also a member of the National Honor Society, Math Honor Society, Spanish Honor Society, Senior Math Team, and the Chemistry Club. Although Liz is social, athletic, and smart, the quality that outshines all the rest is her friendliness. Liz has been the hostess of many parties where everyone has been welcome. Liz is always ready to listen to anyone with a problem and is always caring. Liz is certainly an asset to our school.

PSAT

This year many sophmores experienced one of the biggest pressures of high school,PSAT's, Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test. These tests are designed to help the students get ready for the SAT test. The SAT scores are the scores used to determine college entrances. Many sophmores came to school early on a Saturday morning, to take the test which consisted of two parts, verbal and math. A lot of the students welcomed the opportunity to take the test. They felt that the PSAT's really gave them an advantage on the SAT's. The students worked very hard during the test, using the knowledge they have learned over the past years. The results were returned to the students and their parents at a meeting where they were discussed and explained. All turned out well proving the class of 1990 to have much intelligence.

Forgetting about the test for a few moments, Chris Sammer glances at the pretty girl across the room.

Special Talent

Varsity

Putting in her mouth guard, Jenny Alden prepares for the game.

The Sophomore class proved to be an athletic as well as an academic class this year. This is true as there were many talented sophomores who were involved in varsity sports. They proved to be an active, important part of the teams, helping to lead them to many victories. They worked just as hard as the upperclassmen in conditioning for the sports they were involved in. They spent long hours practicing and keeping in shape in order to participate with the other people. These students displayed the talent and ability to get a starting spot on a varsity team after trying out. Once on the team they were given the chance to play at different positions of rank. Some sports like track and field, swimming, and tennis, which do not have J.V. teams, had sophomores in top positions competeting for Mt. Vernon. These students earned varsity letters as easily as the upperclassmen due to their talent.

True Friends

The Best

Throughout the years at Mount Vernon one of the most important aspects of school life is the friends you make and keep. Friends, confidants, companions, buddies: any name you like, they all mean the same thing. They are the ones who stick by you when you are in trouble, listen when you have a problem, and are there for the good times too. Without friends one could not get through a year of homework, demanding teachers, stressful tests, and problems at home.

Coming to Mount Vernon, it is always easy for a new student to find friends. The class of 1990 is caring and ready to welcome new students.

As a new student coming from Virginia Beach, Matt Martello said, "When I met people, they seemed friendly and easy to get along with. I did not expect to make so many friends in such a large school." Another new student coming from Oxon Hill, Maryland was Melissa Fleer. She quickly became an active part of the sophomore class, making many new friends by being involved in Homecoming activities and sports.

The friends made in high school are the ones that last the longest. The closeness of the friendships made at Mount Vernon are an example of how caring the people are here.

True friendship survives between Allison Beerthuis and Danette Taft even through the hardships of bandcamp.

Idol Rocks

Mr. Mount Vernon '87

This year the yearbook sponsored a Mr. Mount Vernon contest on November 19. Five people were elected from each class to participate in the contest. During the lunch periods before the the contest, a glass was put out for each nominee. Friends and admirers put money in the jar of their choice. The top money earners made it into the competition. Eric Johnson and Michael Hill were the representatives of the class of '90. The two sophomores first displayed their stunning and sometimes revolting taste in clothing during the formal and casual wear portion of the contest. Next for the talent section. Mike transformed himself into the popular singer Billy Idol. Along with Derek Kovacsy as Steve Stevens, he lip-synced "Mony Mony." Eric Johnson showed his acting ability by giving a humorous monologue. The last categorie was a question. Eric gave the witty answer that he would be a slug if he could be reincarnated. Both represented the sophomore class very well.

Gesturing about the Coke incident, Eric Johnson tells what happened.

People Are People

Mount Vernon High School is filled with many different aspects of culture, style, and personality. As one walks through the halls of M.V. they can clearly observe these characteristics as there are many different groups, or cliques.

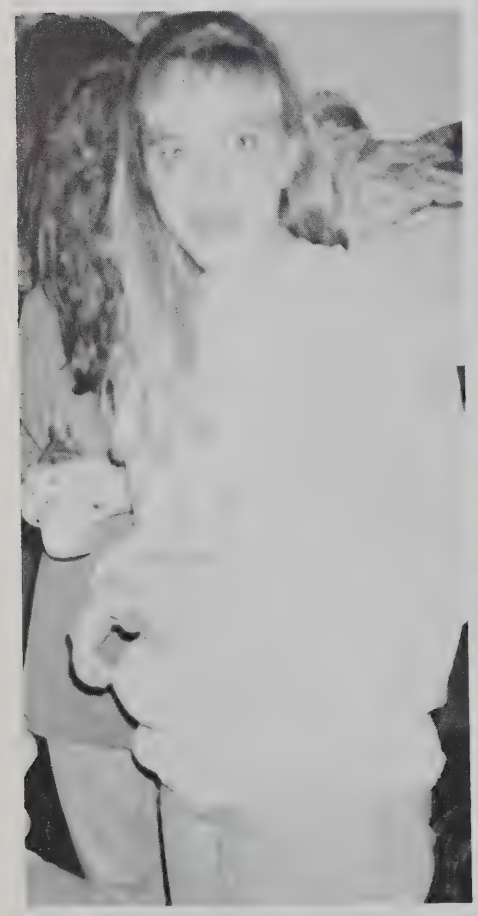
As in every class there is the althetic group, those who are actively involved in many sports throughout the year. They can usually be found in the weight room, in the gym, or out on the various fields practicing to become better in order to win the next event.

There are also the spirited people of the class of 1990. These are the people who always have the proper maroon and white colors on for football, basketball, baseball and all of the other sports events at Mount Vernon. These people are also the leaders of the class. Another group are the people who do well academically. They are known as brains, the top of the class, or the people your mother often compares you to. Although many times they are not given much credit for their good grades they too work very hard for their achievements.

Although there are different types of people at Mt. Vernon the sophomore class has grown to be friends despite their differences.

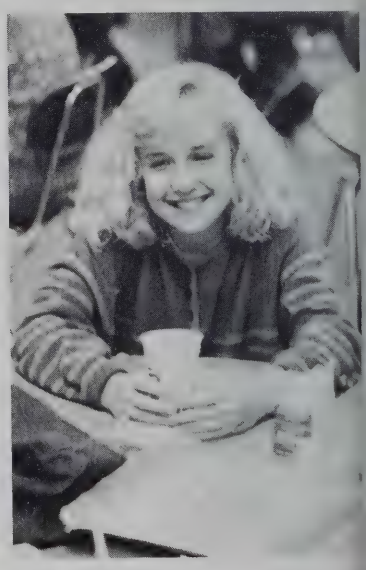
"Am I awesome or what?," asks Derek Kovacsy.

Mooching for another drink, Karen Smith eyes Kevin Newman's Coke.



"Hey wait!" exclaims Liz Warns as she protests her picture being taken.

Not pleased with the way her pictures turned out, Angelina Gulino wonders why she ever ordered them in the first place.



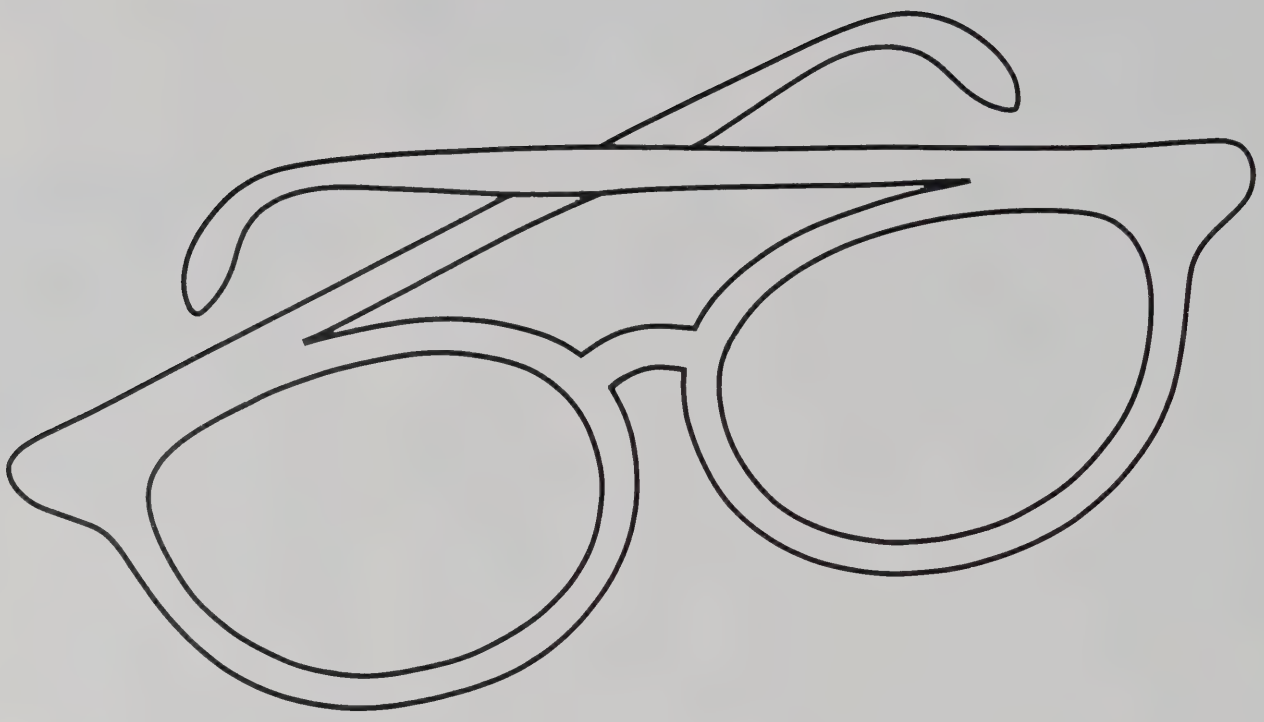
Enjoying a nutritious school lunch, Ann Bergsagel smiles happily.

Before a lacrosse game, Rob Travis and Megan Mitchell pose with friends.

Pleased after a good practice, Merel Van Zanten walks back to the school.

Sitting in the hall in deep thought, Paul Julia reflects whether or not he wants to get his hair cut.

Flexing his muscles, Chris Sammer is ready for anything.



Freshmen

Did they have fun, those students from the class of 1991?

Of course they did, who could they kid.

They broke in on the social scene, proof of an aging teen.

The spine-chilling Homecoming from the "Majors of the Corn," instilled fright . . . my oh my, what a scary sight.

Speaking of sight, did we see two?

Was that Tom Mastal OR Rick Mastal, or Tom AND Rick, which one was who?

Though they were first-year Majors, the smallest of the crop, their goals for the future remained as high as the stars- their determination did not stop.

Of course, freshmen invoke a bit of humor- this arising from a much believed rumor.

During the first week in school, if lost in the hall, who could they call?

Was it a senior selling passes to the "pool" atop the school . . . no, even a freshman we could not fool.

Whether it was overcoming the first-day jitters or the shock of 1200 new faces, the class of 1991 adjusted into new phases.

Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW!

Rising from the Cornfield...

A Frosh Start

The freshman class started off the 1987-88 school year with a bang. The class of '91 demonstrated great effort and high spirits in this year's Homecoming activities.

The freshmen gave an impressive performance with their rendition of CHILDREN OF THE CORN. "Majors of the Corn"was a bright start for their first year.

Demonstrating more of their many talents, the freshmen did an excellent job on their float. The float was the perfect example of the hard work and dedication the class of '91 put forth this year.

Then there was the pride of the freshman class, the freshman Homecoming Court.

The wonderfully proud princesses, Christina James and Julie Mullen, walked on the field, heads held high and bright smiles from ear to ear. The crowd was seeing double as Rick and Tom Mastal strolled nonchalantly alongside the two princesses. Who would have known that they would be this year's Homecoming Court?

Next year, Homecoming will prove to be better and brighter.

While making last minute adjustments on the frosh float, Nicole Epperson squawks instructions through her beak.

The Big Bite

The Lifeline

Lunch, as we all know, only comes once a day. It became an important part of the freshman class' day. For the freshmen it was the source of rejuvenation. It was their lifeline.

As you walked into the cafeteria, you could see that this was not just the time to replenish an empty stomach, but a social gathering. At one table the events of the past weekend were being discussed, and in the a la carte line, there was a stimulating debate on the INS of the fashion world.

For many, lunch was the time to retreat to the library. In fact many in the freshman class invaded the media center. It was a quiet place to do last minute studying or just to read a good book.

When the bell rang many of the freshman class were reluctant to leave their lifeline. They wanted to stay longer to finish their unfinished conversations, or their science project, or maybe catch a bite to eat.

During lunch, many freshmen found their way to the book shelves of the library. The library rarely sees this many students outside of lunch.

Back To School

Thoughts of Beach And Classes

As the year came closer to an end, the freshmen put their thoughts towards their adventurous summer plans. They spent their earnings on suntan oil, beach attire, and sunglasses. Thought of school were hidden by the sun, the water, and approaching fun.

Counselors brought the freshmen's minds back to school. It was time to schedule classes for their SOPHOMORE year. Just the thought of being a sophomore brought smiles to many faces. With those smiles came a little panic.

"Will it be harder?" "What classes should I take?" "Drama sounds great, but Mom wants me to take typing!" These were just a few of the thoughts that ran through many minds. What to do ? Talk to counselors of course. They helped staighten things out for the freshmen.

With schedules out of the way, freshmen were once again able to lose their thoughts to summer.

Finding it hard to study while thinking about summer and next year's schedule, April Braxton daydreams.

Success Freshman Style

Class Officers

A wise man once said, "To be a great you have to have great leaders." To say the least, this year the freshman class had GREAT leaders. They were driven to prove their class was like no other.

Homecoming was the perfect example of their drive to be on top. Each officer did all he could to arouse spirit from his timid peers. Every afternoon the freshman fishbowl was a cauldron of creative and imaginative students. Ideas were bubbling from all over.

Rick Mastal was the man in charge. It was under his leadership that the class of '91 made their first mark at Mount Vernon. By his side, Julie Mullen served in the position of vice president. Filling the position of secretary was Adam Gerloff. Helping the officers to keep in touch with the students were the three senators: Sandi Baughman, John Harris, and April Logan.

These officers gave it their all to make the class of '91 the best it could be.

Profile : James Rymiszewski

Athletics, for many freshmen, was a way to get involved in school activities, to prove themselves, and to leave a mark. Football, undoubtedly was the most popular sport. Numbers of boys lined up to participate in freshman football.

One of these young gentlemen was James Rymiszewski. To some, his name is familiar. His older brother, John, graduated in 1985. John made quite a name for himself while attending M.V.

Thursdays were game days for the freshman football team. Sure enough, every Thursday, Jim would proudly wear his jersey. This pride continued throughout the season. He was the one to keep his teammates hyped as well as his friends. Even after football season, Jim's spirit was high.

Jim was nominated for the annual Mr. Mount Vernon contest this year. He took this chance to demonstrate his style, charm, and talent. Jim shared with all his natural singing ability. "I Found A Peanut" will never be the same for all in the audience.

Here we see the ever so charming Jim singing his inspiring ditty.

Ins and Outs

A Daily Routine

Like clockwork, the lifeless bodies of the class of 1991 filled their lockerbank. This was the time they dreaded most. The only reason they got out of bed in the morning was to beat the tardy bell.

As the day went on it seemed that the color slowly poured back into many frosh faces. The sound of conversation and laughter filled the shining halls of Mount Vernon High. The once lifeless beings had kicked into motion.

They became eager students. They worked to complete assignments. Lunch was only a few minutes away; time to socialize.

Back to work they went until 1:45 P.M. Anxious faces watched the clock. The minutes seemed like hours as crowds formed in doorways. As the bell rang students ran to their lockers. The day was over!

"I said there is nothing in here for you!"exclaims Cristina James to snooping friend, Skeet Lotzbire, c she prepares for class.

Square Pegs

Fitting In

It wasn't long ago that the members of the class of 1991 "ruled the school." They were the supreme of junior high. They were ALMOST in high school.

This year they were the low men on the totem pole. Each student was more different than the next. All had different hopes and personalities. They had one goal in common; to fit in.

When you are new in high school, fitting in can be like putting a square peg in a round hole. It can be tough. High school is a melting pot of personalities and styles.

Finding friends that mesh with all the aspects of your personality is a challenge. A challenge that the class of 1991 met with flying colors. They sucessfully made the transition from junior high to high school.

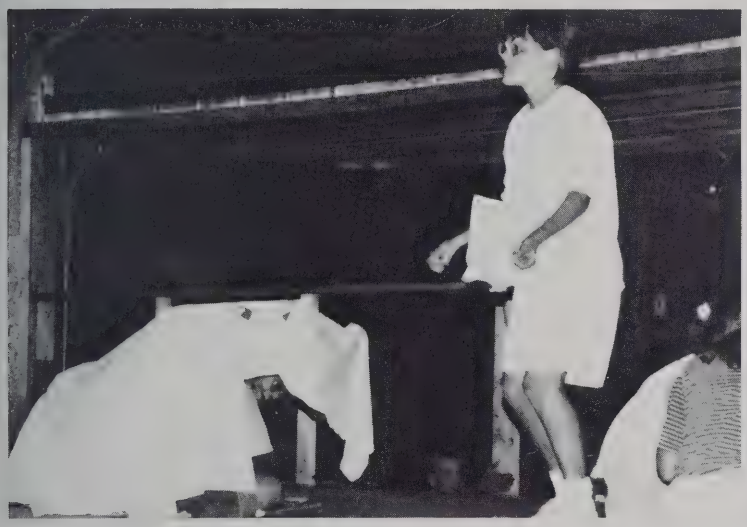
Freshmen Play Up to the Challenge

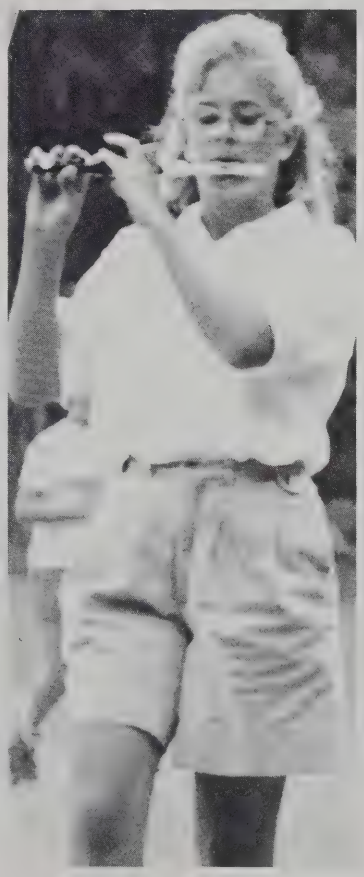
This year more than ever, the freshman class took a hold on responsibility, honor, and pride. The 1987-1988 edition of the Mount Vernon Marching Majors consisted of 22% freshmen. Though this is a great portion of the 150 member band, the class of 1991 took the challenge in step. Throughout the season the Majors did very well, topping off the season with a national competition in St. Petersburg, Florida. Great responsibility was put on these first year marchers. In a three day pre-band camp the freshmen were taught basic marching skills. By the end of it, they had to be up to par with the upperclassmen; no sympathy was given. So, with the help of these tough newcomers, the Majors marched their way to another winning season.

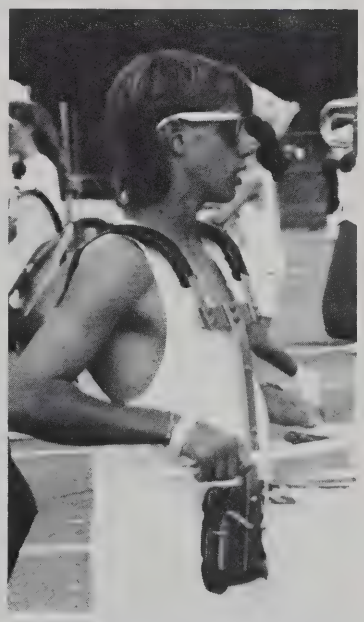
Courtney Young, Terri Selby, Becky Coligure, and Carrie Kelso enjoy the "clear blue" waters of the band camp pool.

John Janssen and Adam Needham make the long trek to the next door on the annual tag day.



Grammy award winner Carrie Kelso gives another great performance for the freshmen skit by imitating David Facey.





Snare drummer Jeff Queen watches the drum master intensely.

Lori Ayres concentrates on hitting her spot.

Freshmen woodwinds learn the basic marching techniques as Mike Perrin goes down for yet another puppet.

Faculty

Dr. Johnson and the other faculty are the core, for a school that provides a strong academic program and so much more.

They are part of the MV team that encourages a positive learning environment, to produce a broad range of academic, social, and cultural experiences is what it meant.

For students, the setting was both structured and stimulating; for teachers, needless to say, exasperating.

Each member of the faculty is a uniquely talented being, a priceless sight.

They fulfilled our need of distinguishing between wrong and right.

Not only to instruct, but to listen and to care, there was rarely a cold or mean stare.

Though this year has come to a close, the students emulate the MV faculty who have listened to their endless woes.

Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW!

Hello Again!

Did you notice all the changes that occurred this year? The person behind all the adjustments was not so new. Dr. Paula Johnson has not only worked in this county and Area I, she's been at M.V. before.

Dr. Johnson received her B.A. at Ladycliff College in Georgia, her M.Ed. from Boston University, and her Ed.D. from VPI. She then taught for four and half years at M.V. Dr. Johnson served as an adminstrator at Edison, Mount Vernon, and Area I. This fall she returned to Mount Vernon High School.

Dr. Johnson initiated only two major changes this year. Unlike previous years, teachers handled tardiness "problems" themselves, which most agreed was a change for the better. The innovative study carrel set-up in ISS convinced most students to tow the line.

When asked how she viewed education, Dr. Johnson quoted Voltaire: "The roots of the tree of knowledge are bitter, but the fruits are sweet." All in all, Dr. Johnson says that she's glad to be back and hopes to stay.

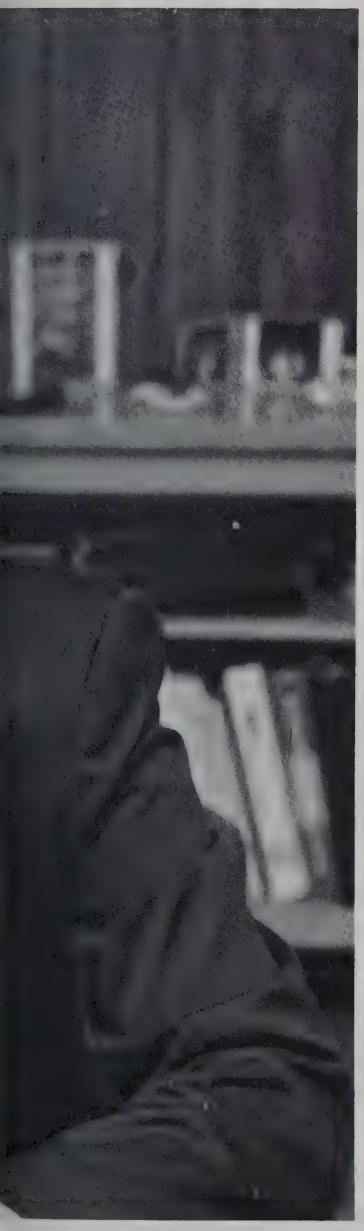
Richard Britt receives his award from Dr. Johnson as she congratulates the players of the week.

Paul and Paul-a Johnson feel at home at MV High.

Dr. Johnson busily taking over her duties at Mount Vernon.

Standing as a forceful unit in society, the backbone of MV.

Dr. Johnson shows her enthusiasm at a pep rally.

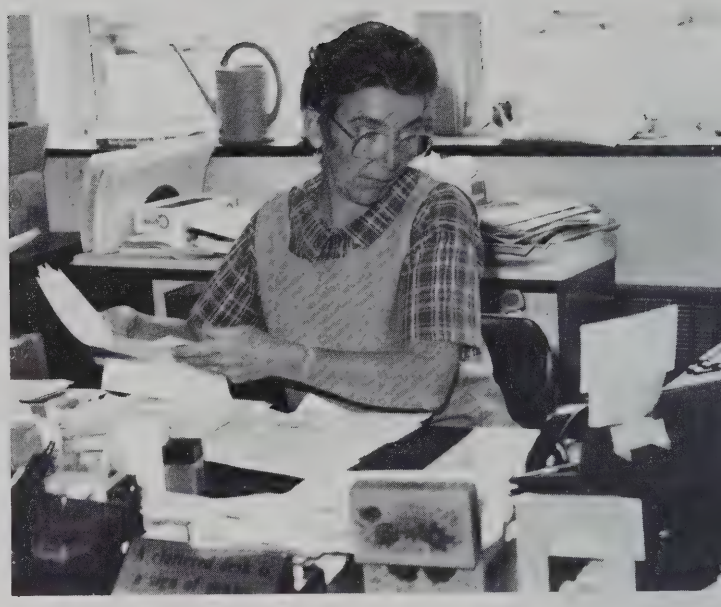


Ever at ease is Dr. Johnson, as she watches the basketball game in good spirits.

The Source Where it All Starts

Whose job is it to return lost items after school hours or to deal with parents who are upset about their children's problems? Most of us think the main office secretary's job is to type some, make a few phone calls and that's it. Well the opposite is true. Besides keeping track of the students' schedules, problems, and grades, she also organizes faculty mail and memos. Students and teachers with problems all come to Mrs. Cotter for help.

She was born and raised in Washington D.C., and attended Notre Dame Academy. Mrs.Cotter has been married twenty-five years, and her very first job was raising four kids. Three of the four attended Mount Vernon; the fourth one is on the way. Mrs.Cotter worked at Walt Whitman until she transferred here in 1984.



One of the reasons MV runs so smoothly is Mrs. Cotter always seems to be working.

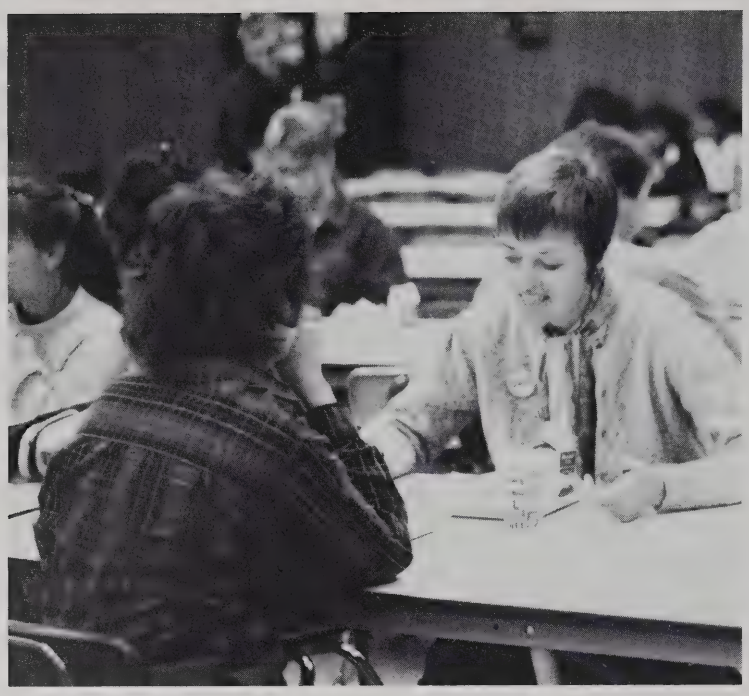
Always There For You



Mrs. Lunter shows her spirit to the student body by wearing her (anti-West Potomac) pin.

Over the past 21 years Mrs. Lunter has worked hard with the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grade English students as a counselor. She says, "The only thing that's changing are the times, the kids haven't changed at all." The same excuses have been used as long as she can remember. Mrs. Lunter even figured out the true meaning behind the excuses. For example, "I don't know" means it must be bad. "The teacher never passes papers back" means a C- or below.

Mrs. Lunter grew up in Kersburg, West Virginia and graduated from Glenville State College in Glenv West Virginia. She th moved on to a job as English and Speech spec ist in Ohio. While she wa graduate school, Mrs. Lur worked for her masters guidance and counseling 1966 she received her m ters, but didn't start coun ing until 1980. For the ei years she has been coun ing, it is obvious that she cels at what she does. W out doubt Mrs. Lunter always be welcome Mount Vernon, where has put in much time and fort to make the high sch life for students as enjoya as possible.

Embarrassing Moments?

Have you ever gotten caught doing something you shouldn't be?

Mr. Kerlin you silly boy....

Have you ever seen a teacher trip over a cord or stumble on a desk? Now is a chance to laugh at their mistake; they let us in on their finest bloopers.

"In Las Vegas," started Mrs. Lunter, "I purposely stepped into a crowded elevator with Bill Cosby in it. When I asked for the 11th floor, Cosby said quietly from the back corner, 'Lady, this elevator doesn't stop on the 11th floor!' Needless to say I hurried out as soon as possible."

Mrs. Atkinson told us,"I remember losing my wig on the bumper cars at an amusement park."

"During my wedding I forgot my own name and my husband had to whisper it to me so I could make the correct response to the minister," confessed Mrs. Nichols.

Mrs. Deaton once fell down in the cafeteria and ended up wearing her lunch!

"I jumped up to sit on a table," told Mrs. Pearce, "but missed the table and landed in the trash can."

Mrs. Kervick lost her conductor's baton into the audience during a performance.

"I was caught sitting in someone else's car I thought was mine," said Mrs. Yang.

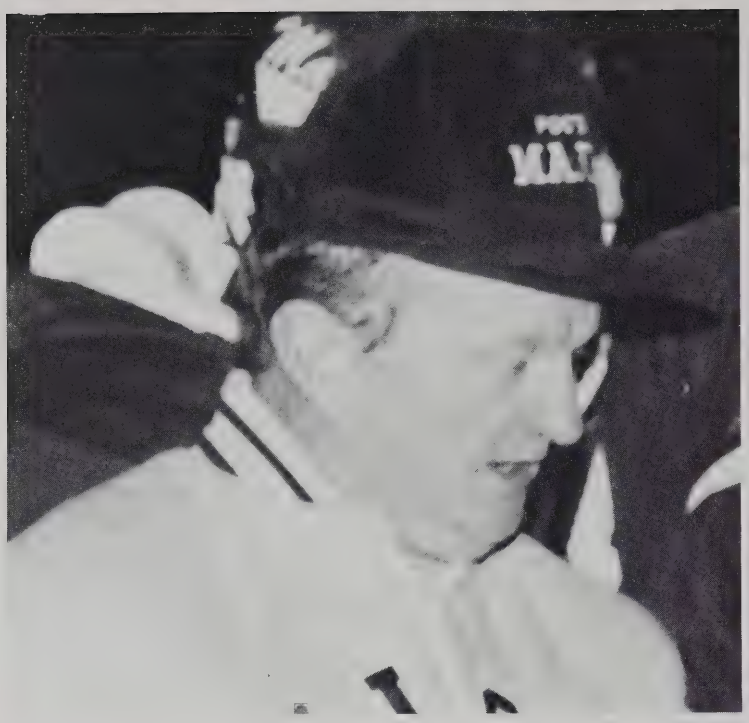
A Man to Remember



With excellence both on the field and in the classroom, Mr.Freeman prepares the second half strategy for the team.

"Keep smiling; life is worth living" by Fulton Sheen is Mr. Freeman's motto. For 24 years this man has been educating students and broadening their horizons in history, government, and economics. But he has decided that it is time to move on.

Mr. Freeman was not only a St. Vincent man in Pennsylvania; he is also a big man on campus at Georgetown University hoping for a second career as a paralegal.

We will miss him, but no one was worse off by knowing him. The students who will follow us will never know his humor, kindness, and brilliance. We were the fortunate ones! We wish him all the best in his new career and his golf game.

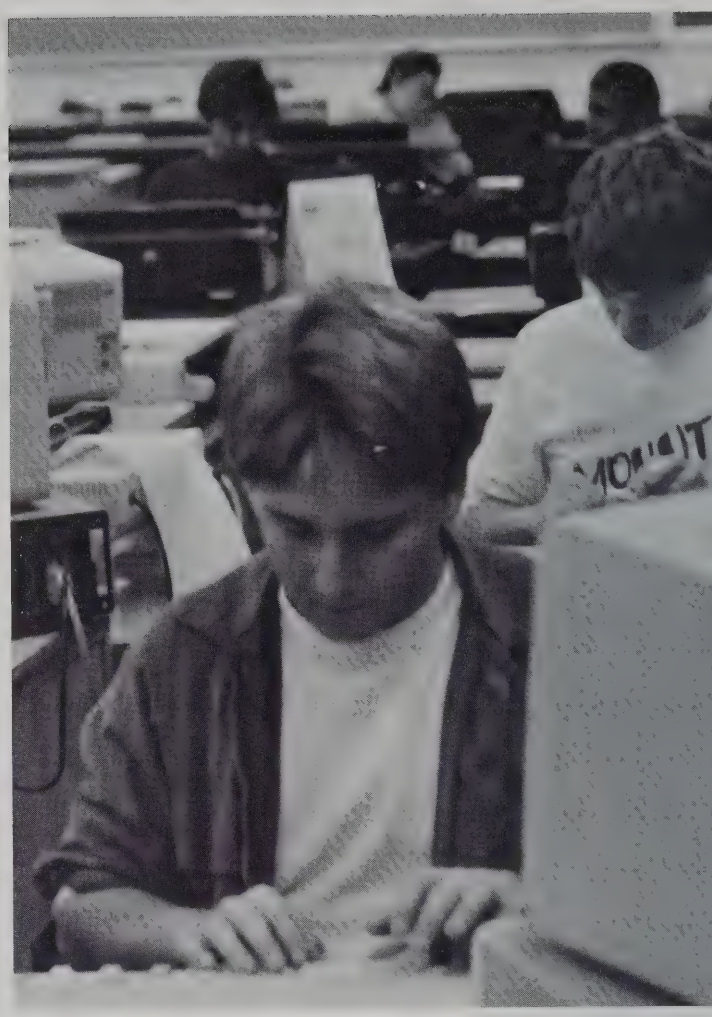
Major Excellence

Doing It All

Since 1971 the halls of Mount Vernon have been blessed with both an outstanding coach and teacher. Mr. Sullivan graduated from New Mexico Highlands University in Las Vega, New Mexico. He told us, "The only reason I got into teaching is because I didn't want to be really rich or really poor. Teaching and coaching enable me to meet both of those goals."

Mr. Sullivan coaches football and track and teaches earth science and geometry. In his spare time he likes to work with his computer, both programing and playing.

Mr. Sullivan concluded that, "Mount Vernon is run by first class personnel who care about the students."



Look at all these students taking Mr. Sullivan's advice .

The Forgotten Classes

Everyone might have a hidden talent. Yours might be telling a good joke or putting together a car engine. Well, drama or auto mechanics would be good classes for you to learn more about these things.

Do you remember those cold football nights, when the band had to perform? Well, did you hear they went to the warm beaches of Florida this spring? It's too late to sign up for these classes this year, but what about next year? Band, orchestra, or chorus may be your calling.

Are you interested in the newspaper? Do you always get A's on your English papers? You might want to sign up for the newspaper or yearbook to give vent to your creative ideas.

Symphonic Band members Marty McConagha and Noelle Valley dare to argue Mr. Schoonovers' point on tempo.

Why the Halls Shine

Could you imagine returning to Mount Vernon in five or ten years to stay, as a teacher. Ms. Allen graduated from Mount Vernon as a member of the class of 1954. She then went on to Radford for four years and returned to teach Physical Education. Ms. Allen is just one of the many teachers who have returned to the shining halls of MV High.

These include Mr. Crowley, Mr. Jones, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Brent, and Mr. Steele, who all have that certain spirit about them. All of the students are grateful that these teachers decided to return to their alma mater. It keeps the tradition in full force, and the sun shining in the halls of MV High.

Mr. Jones liked Mount Vernon so much he had to come back to teach and to coach.

Ads/Index

The advertisements within this book are somewhat overlooked, but they need not be.

We thank these businesses for their generosity.

Whether the ad covered a quarter page or half a page, the message was made clear- a lending hand of support from the community was near.

The Mount Vernon community stands united, through their support this yearbook is provided.

If there was a restaurant to please your taste, none of these ads should go to waste.

Index- so easy to see, everyone listed from A to Z.

Look in the index to find all of your friends; this is appropriate as the year ends.

Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW!

Dance: The Unspoken Language

There is a voice,
  that has no name.
It comes in the evening,
Or just before the sun's first rays rise over the horizon.
The footsteps that follow
  this voice,
  move quietly on the
  pine needles.
The wind moves freely,
  crackling leaves,
  whispering through branches.
The moon glows brightly, casting vivid shadows of the graceful moving figure.
All is silent when the dancer speaks her unspoken language.

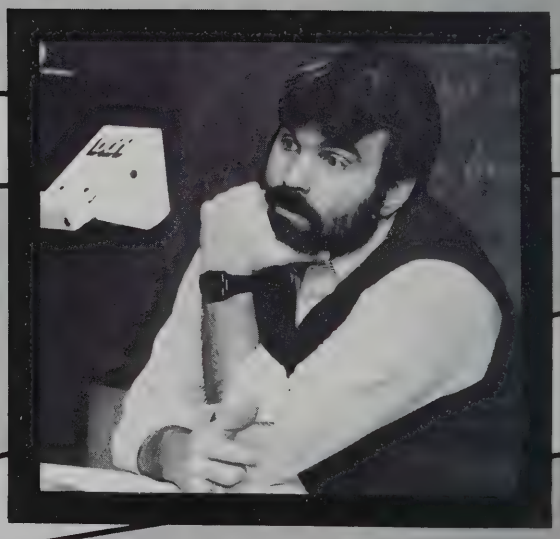
WE'VE GOT

With the coming of spring came the sunbathers. Cindy Miner and other tracksters try for that golden look before workout.

Matt Martello is awe-struck by the technical drawing done by Mr. Decamp. "Such intricate lines," ponders Matt.



"Yes, I'm a government teacher, football coach, and a lacrosse coach," states Mr. Grainer. "I'm very busy!"

THE LOOK

The smile tells it all. "I knew I could do it." This English student is impressed by his work.

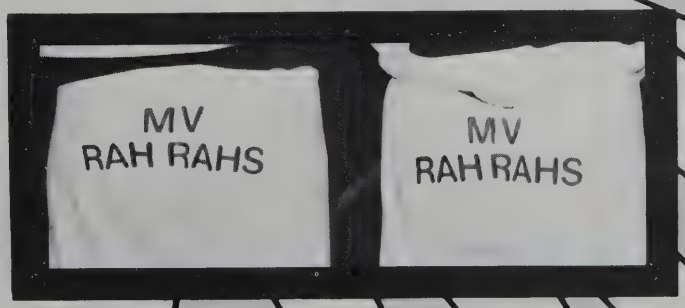
Esse-Non-Videri. To be, not to seem. Mount Vernon High School's motto tells us to be genuine—whether we are in an academic, athletic, or any extracurricular environment. We must generate a naturalness so we do not hide behind a facade. The "look" of Mount Vernon is satisfaction and the sense of pride felt by ourselves, our peers, and the faculty. Honesty, respect, and competitiveness are ingredients to the recipe of a vision of excellence, which everyone connected with our community experiences and expects. We are the best of what we can be and do. We have the keen eye to see today what awaits us in the future.

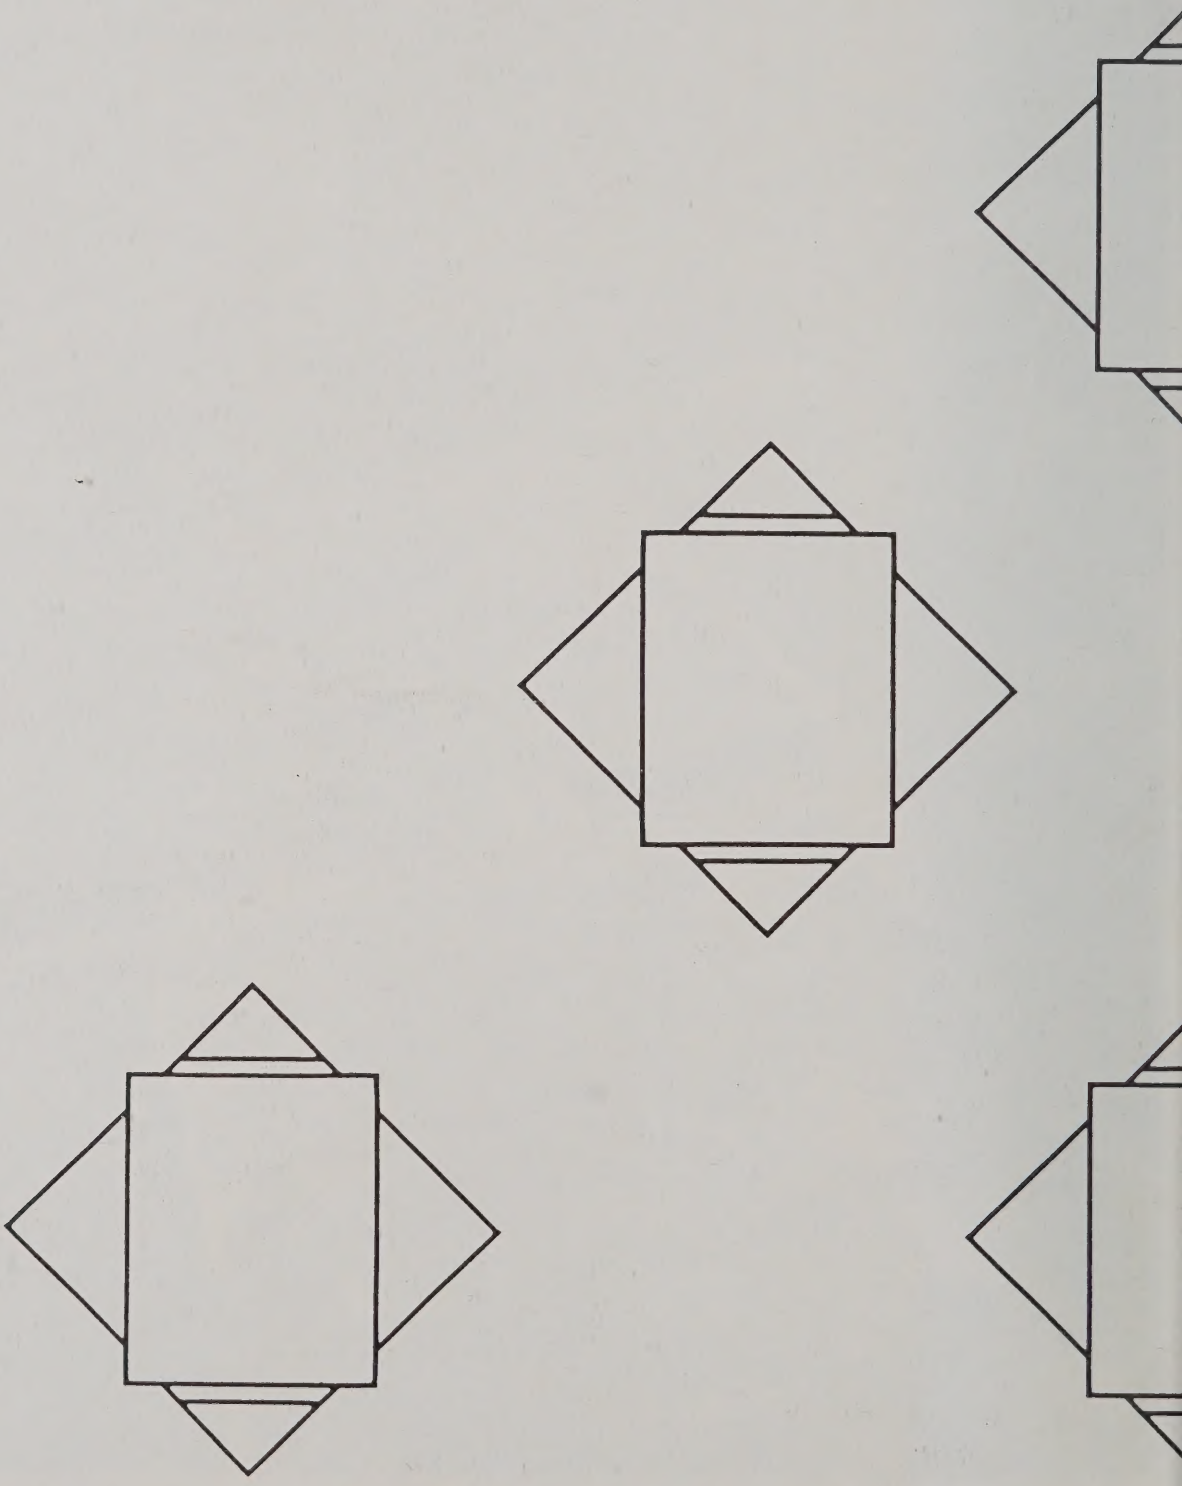
With the theme Take a Look at Us NOW!, the staff has brought to the forefront the behind-the-scenes action. It was the work of the booster organizations, of planning and preparation for such events as Homecoming and Prom. The "look" was seen on the face of a trying student, of an athlete's aggressiveness, or of a faculty's patience- all of which made Mount Vernon stand alone at the top.

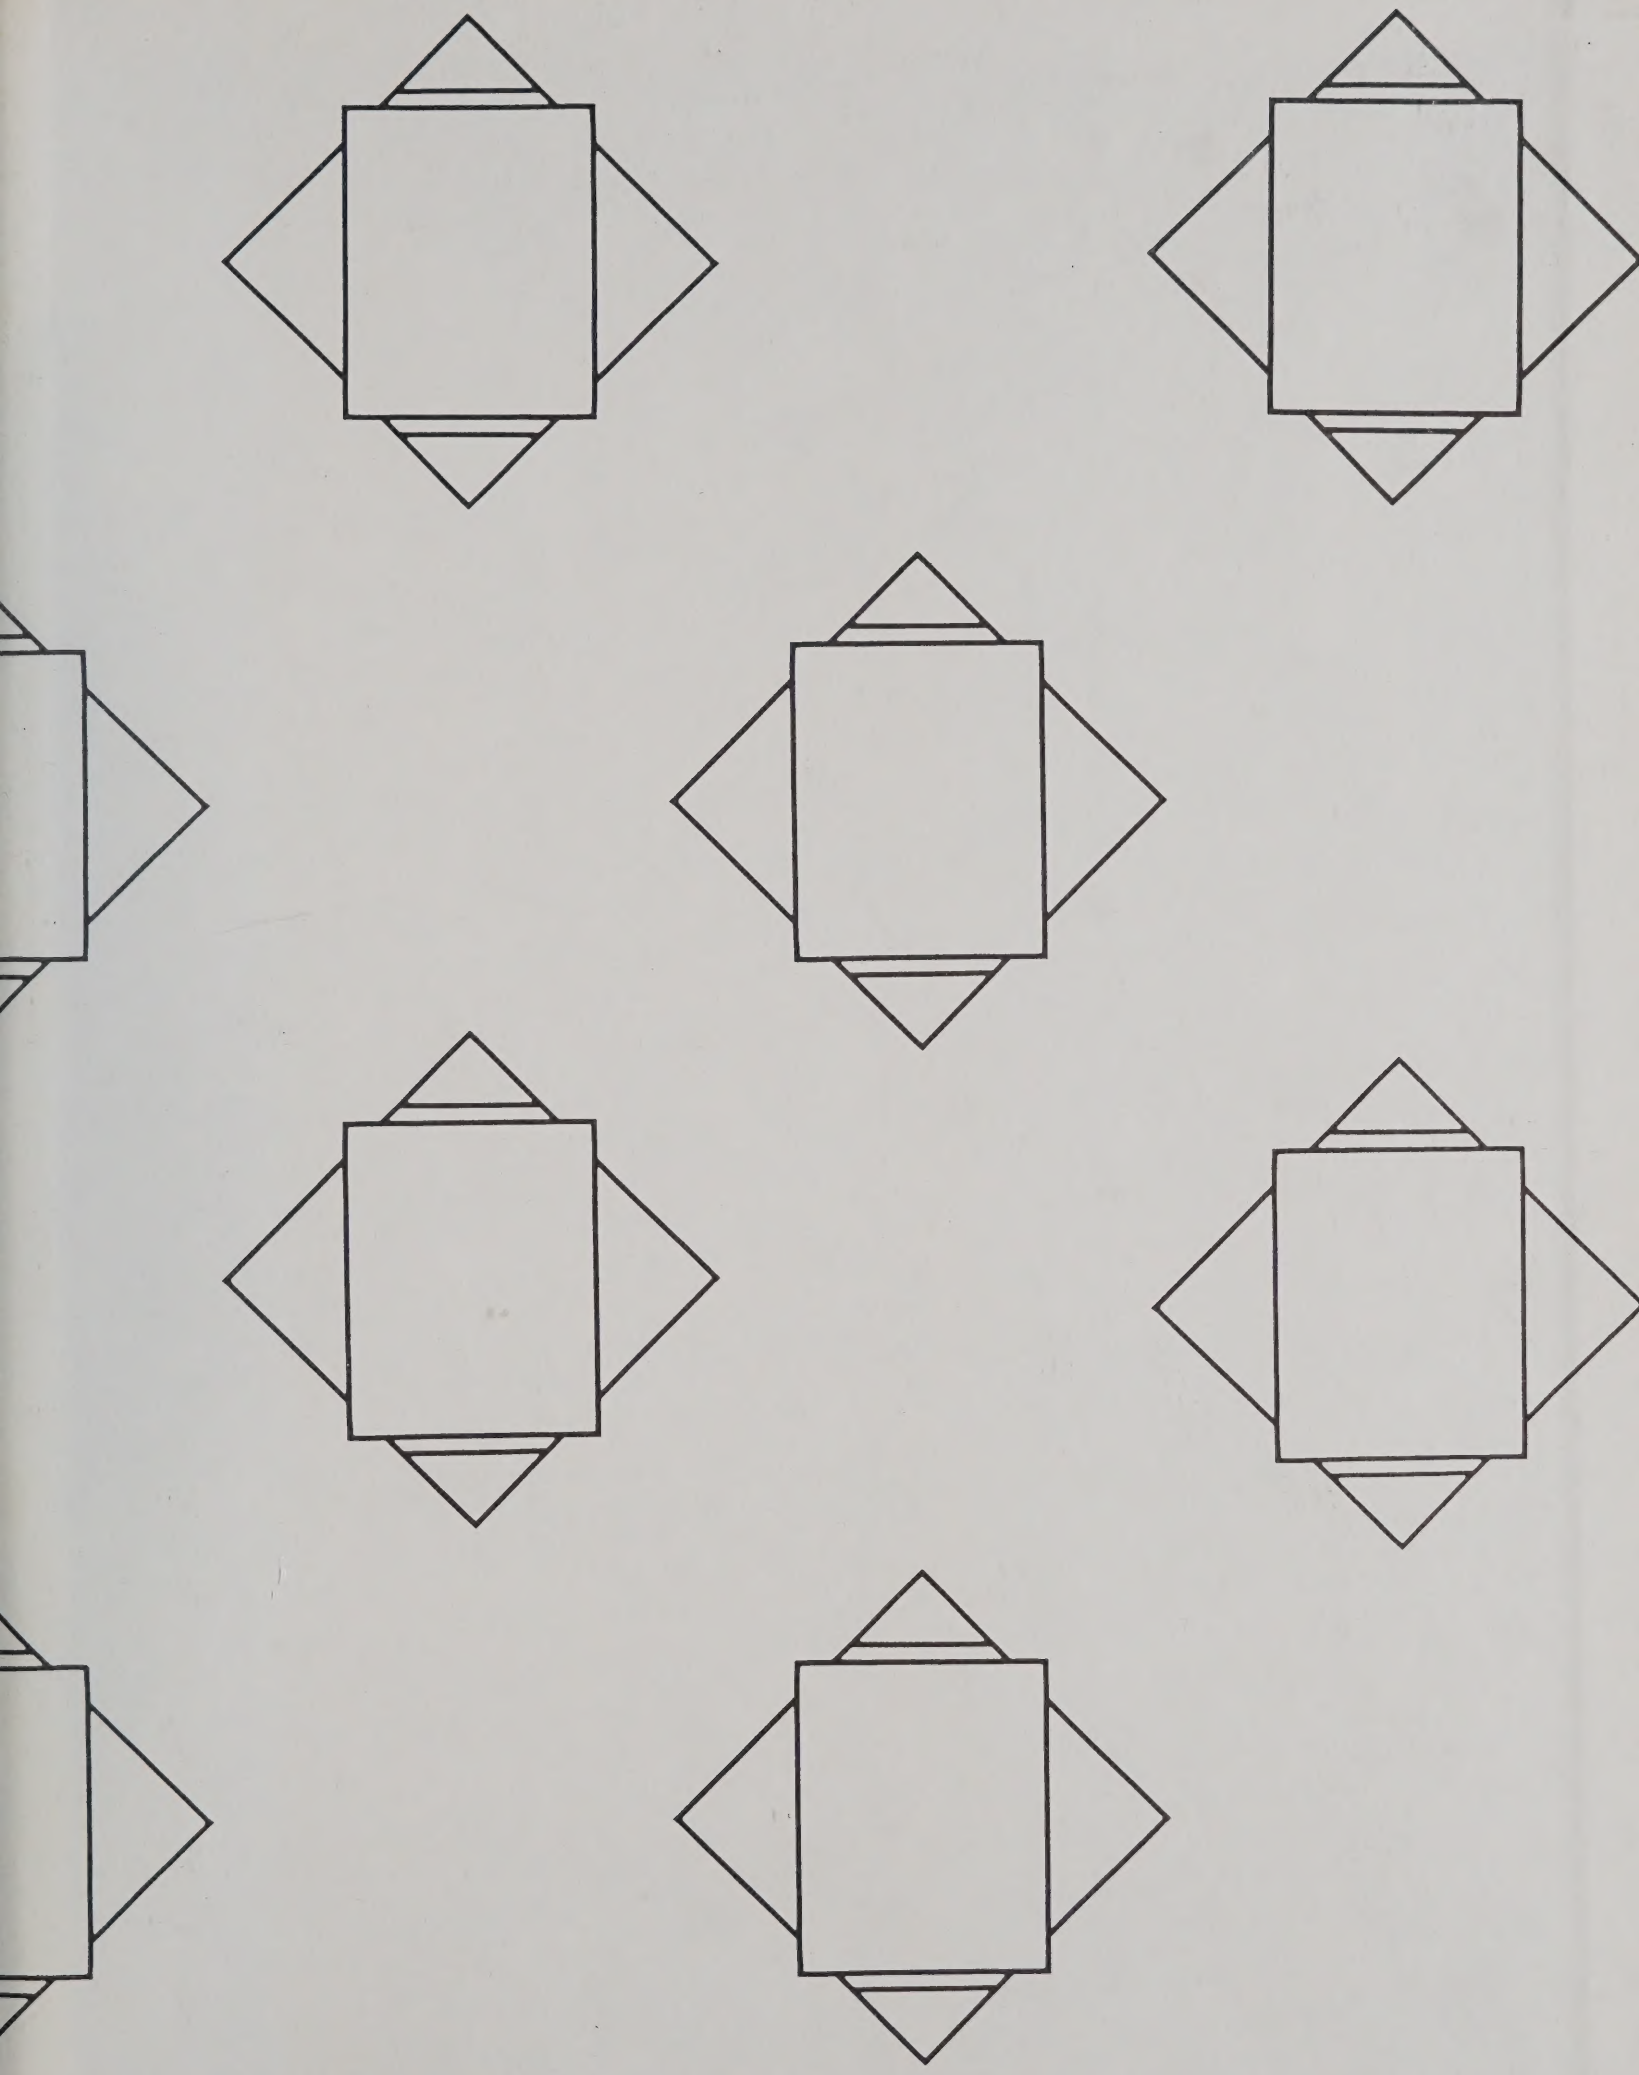
As we look down from the top, we recollect some of the personal images which affected us this past year: Dr. Paula Johnson, our principal, at the helm, Mrs. Sarah Wagner, a math teacher, nominated for Fairfax County Teacher of the Year, James Colbert soaring through the air to a national ranking in the triple jump, and a stately feat accomplished by the Boys' Varsity Basketball Team. Under the guidance of Coach Don McCool, the team dribbled through the district and raced through the region en route to a berth in the State Basketball Tournament before being stopped by Indian River High School. Memorable and illustrious are the words to describe their season. After 29 years of coaching and 431 wins recorded under his belt, Coach McCool will be leaving, but certainly not be forgotten.

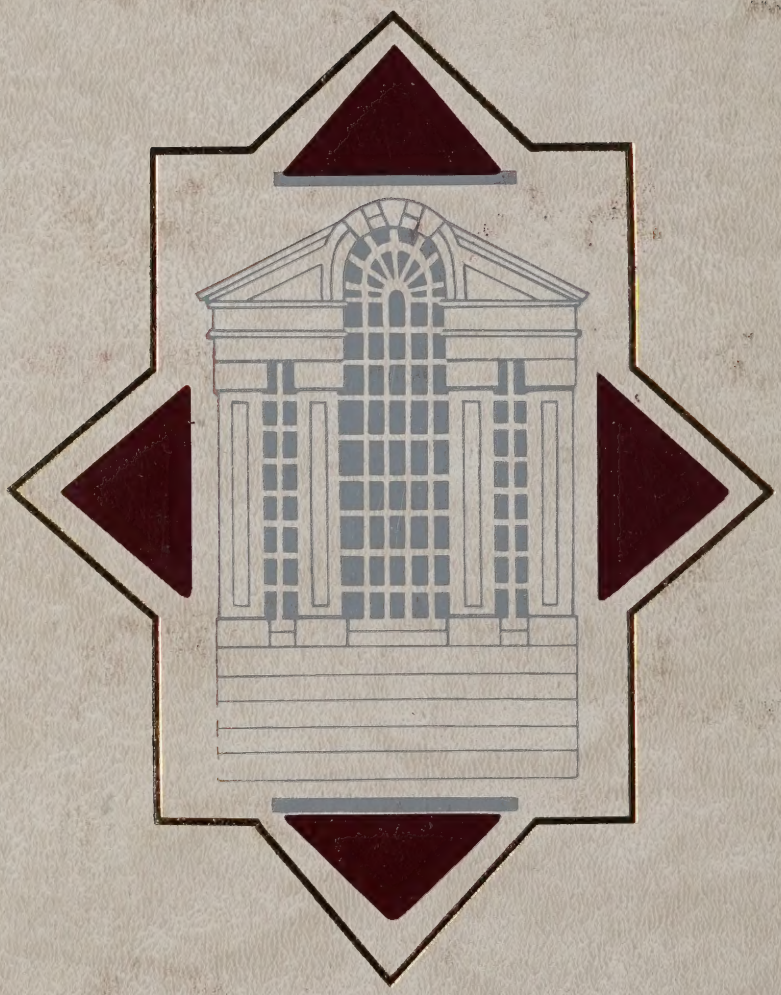
And as all stories must end on a happy note, this one ends on a musical note. The loudest note in the music world emanted from almost 1,000 miles away in St. Petersburg, Florida. The 150 colonial-clad Marching Majors produced sounds of vigor and determination as they made history as the only band in the 67-year competition of the Festival of States to be crowned Grand Champions in all three categories: field show, concert, and parade competitions. Awards for Best Drum Major and Best Auxiliary were also won. Life at Mount Vernon High School this year certainly has been impressive.

Wow . . . Take a Look at Us NOW!









Todd Harris and Eric Robinson- two of MV's cheerleaders hate to be the butt of any joke. Cheering is serious and fun business.
